It's Old Washington Custom.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—Democratic lawyers, camp followers of the new deal, have descended upon Washington almost as numerously as Democratic placemen, have hung out their shingles and are doing a land office business.

What with protecting some clients from bureaucratic persecution, obtaining administration favors for some and picking off rich pickings of "pork" for others, the Jeffersonian brethren of the law have struck it rich. Scarcely a week passes that does not record the establishment of a new legal firm headed by a Democratic politician or the expansion of an old one, with senior partners, junior partners, departmental specialists and all the other trappings that go with the practice of law and lobbying in Washington.

Here are being founded some of the private fortunes of the new deal, of which history doubtless will take note.

Not a New Story.

To Washington the influx of Democratic law firms under a Democratic administration and of Republican law firms under a Republican administration is an old story. But compared with the bonanza struck by the newcomers under the new deal the pay dirt worked by their predecessors was merely grub stake stuff.

With the NRA regimenting the entire business life of the nation in a manner bewildering to every employer and raising grave questions of his rights, with the A. A. A. regimenting agriculture and processors of farm products in similar manner, with the farm and home credit organizations refinancing mortgages, with the R. F. C. loaning billions to banks and industries, with the railroads being coördinated by government, and with the public works administration lidling out billions of easy money, there is no unemployment among the lawyers of the country.

An eminent jurisconsult speeding to Washington was asked in a Pullman smoking room the other day what he thought of the NRA.

"What do I think of it?" he burbled comfortably, as he meditatively regarded the ash of his cigar. "Why, if it lasts no longer than this year it will have given the American bar work a-plenty for twenty years to come. In fact, it has saved us from the dole."

Must "Know Way Around."

Of course, no one would accuse a Democratic lawyer of attracting retainers because of any influence he might be supposed to possess with Democratic administration officials. Perish the thought.

"That is all bunk," said Arthur F. Mullen, Democratic national committeeman for Nebraska and floor manager for Roosevelt at the Chicago convention, who has opened a law office here since March 4. "Those stories of pull make me laugh. All a client needs is a lawyer who knows his way around in Washington. And, with all these new institutions that have been set up, it is pretty confusing for a citizen trying to do business with the government unless he does get some one who knows his way around."

Still clients do persist in thinking Democratic lawyer-politicians have influence with Democratic administrations and Republican lawyer-politicians with Republican administrations. Customarily a client retains a Democratic law firm to deal with a Democratic official and a Republican law firm to deal with a Republican hold-over official.

One of the new Democratic lawyers was heard complaining bitterly of the large number of Republicans Mr. Roosevelt has left in office up to date, thus giving law business to the firms headed by Everett Sanders, Bill Donovan and other Republicans which the Democrats should be getting.

Takes Advice on Counselors.

One industrialist who came here to get a navigable channel dug to his plant said he was quietly advised in the government office that if he wanted to get results he had better retain one of the Democratic law firms. He went right out and did so.

One of the important new law firms is headed by J. Bruce Kremer, Democratic national committeeman for Montana, a power in the Roosevelt organization from the beginning. Mr. Kremer is a close personal friend of Attorney General Homer Cummings. In fact, the attorney general and Mrs.

RALLY LEGION TO AID OF U. S. IN TAX CRISIS

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

This cry of the tribunes of ancient Rome when their republic was in danger was echoed at the American Legion convention at the Civic Opera house yesterday as National Commander Louis Johnson prepared to surrender his leadership to the new commander who will be named at the closing session today.

As interpreted by Mr. Johnson and apparently also by the rehabilitation committee, which will report today in favor of a 4-point veterans' relief program made elastic to meet the needs of the Legion and the public, this refers at this particular period of national history not only to revolutionary threats but also to protection of the government credit.

Feel for Taxpayers.

The policy of the Legionnaires to be adopted today on the vexing question of benefits to veterans apparently is to be one of tenderness to the taxpayer in this particular, while at the same time they will insist upon additional expenses to keep the national defense lines up to a high mark of efficiency.

The national recovery act is to be recommended for Legion indorsement by the resolutions committee this morning, while at the same time a recommendation is to be made for continued careful study of dangers of inflation and the devaluation of the dollar. Tax exempt securities are to be studied for injustices, and a study of government economy by the Legion and public is recommended.

While the Legion is working out its own legislative policy and one generally in line with the wishes of President Roosevelt, the emissary of the American Federation of Labor, George L. Berry, appeared at the session yesterday to seek a closer coöperation between the two organizations.

Save U. S. from Revolution.

"America was saved from revolution by the existence of the American Legion and the American Federation of Labor," Berry said. "Gen. Hugh Johnson, our comrade, is now making the fight for the NRA. We are endeavoring to work by parliamentary procedure. Americanism will triumph. We serve notice on communists and revolutionaries as well as on the reactionaries who are responsible for this disaster that we are going through with the NRA, and if it must be augmented it comes from the American Federation of Labor and the American Legion."

Gen. Frank T. Hines, head of the veterans' bureau, appeared on the platform with a brief statement. Various resolutions have been submitted criticizing him and demanding his withdrawal, but he was politely received. He said that any program which the convention recommends will have the sympathetic consideration of the President and of himself as administrator.

"At this time," he said, "there are under consideration certain recommendations to be made to the President modifying and liberalizing aid to veterans."

He then reiterated the President's plea that the welfare of the nation be considered above everything else in this emergency.

Miami Wins 1934 Convention.

No action was taken by the convention yesterday beyond choosing Miami as the convention city for next year. The committees were not ready to report. They did not get down to action until afternoon, and the whole program, including election of officers, will be taken up today.

In addition to the "elastic" 4-point program of the rehabilitation committee, and resolutions on national affairs, the convention will take up today an elaborate report by the national defense committee. In this the program of Maj. Gen. Frank Parker receives first indorsement. This calls for an army of 14,000 officers and 165,000 men and modernization of equipment. It calls for a National Guard of 210,000, with 120,000 reserve officers. Twenty-six thousand of these reserve officers are to be trained in 1934. The plan also includes the training of 50,000 a year in citizens' military training camps.

Calls for Treaty Navy.

The resolution calls for "a treaty navy and men to man it." The man power would be increased by 91,400. In the air defense it is first regarded as essential that no economy measures

LUNACY HEARING REQUESTED FOR EDWARD B. M'LEAN

Towson, Md., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—The mysterious predicament of Edward B. McLean, wealthy sportsman, friend of presidents and former Cincinnati and Washington newspaper publisher, was revealed today when a lunacy petition was filed against him in Circuit court.

The petition was signed by his estranged wife, Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, and by two physicians, Dr. Ross Chapman and Dr. Arthur E. Pattrell. It was certified that McLean is of unsound mind.

Dr. Chapman is the superintendent and Dr. Pattrell is the assistant superintendent of the Sheppard and Enoch Pratt hospital here. McLean has been a patient at the hospital since Sept. 18, it was disclosed.

An order authorizing the Baltimore county sheriff to assemble a jury to inquire into McLean's sanity was signed by Judge Gus C. Grason. The inquiry will be held Oct. 18.

The combined fortunes of Mr. and Mrs. McLean were estimated at $250,000,000 in 1909. The petition filed today asked for a committee to manage McLean's estate "of $100,000 or more."

Convicts Wait Dread Illness or Clemency

Penitentiary Hospital, Parchman, Miss., Oct. 4.—(AP)—"Nobody's worried but it's mighty hard to pass the time away," say the "sleeping sickness" subjects.

The encephalitis experiment at the penitentiary entered its seventh day today and the ten volunteers who are waiting for a pardon or possibly fatal illness found it more difficult to amuse themselves.

"We'll be glad when it's over," G. F. Cummings, 36, the oldest man among the ten, told a reporter who entered the isolation ward in company with Dr. F. J. Underwood, state health director.

"There's nothing to do. None of us is afraid. We are just waiting," offered John L. Dyer, 21, the youngest of the company.

One Reads Magazine.

Farther along the row of iron beds a dark youth was reading a western magazine. Will C. McElwain, short and smiling, was lying in bed minus his striped coat. He pointed to faint marks along his forearm.

"That's where the mosquitoes bit me," he explained. "I've got more bites than anybody else, thirty-three. It didn't hurt no more than ordinary mosquitoes. The bites itched a little and swelled up, but the swelling's all gone now."

Few of the ten had even the slightest marks to show for their mosquito bites, but Dr. W. P. McDavid, penitentiary surgeon, and Dr. Harrison of the United States public health service, told Dr. Underwood the experiment was progressing satisfactorily.

None Develops Fever.

Two pretty nurses, a blonde and a brunette, take temperatures at regular intervals, but so far there have been no fever, headaches, or other symptoms of encephalitis.

The experiment will continue six to eight weeks to establish whether "sleeping sickness" is carried by mosquitoes. The more popular theory among supervising health workers here is that encephalitis is spread by human contact.

The convicts are staking possible death against a pardon that the popular theory will win.

Sexton Drafts Law to Put Size on Beer Steins

Corporation Counsel Sexton yesterday drafted an amendment to the city's retail beverage license ordinance which would require that beer steins used for the sale of draft beer be inscribed with their capacity. City Sealer Grein is sponsoring the amendment. He gave as his reason that beer drinkers should know whether they are being served eight, ten, or twelve ounces.

POODLE WHOSE PLAY YARD COST MILLIONS DEAD

New York, Oct. 4.—[Special.]—The last of a line of white poodles for which, according to common belief, a bit of real estate worth millions was reserved as a playground, is dead. The executors of the Wendel estate announced today that the last of several tobys, pets of Miss Ella V. von E. Wendel, had been put out of the way by a veterinanian last week because he was old, fat, and cross.

Miss Wendel, last of the line, made careful provisions in her will for the dog, and the executors said that all the injunctions had been observed.

It probably is not true that a principal reason why the Wendels would not sell their home and land at the corner of Fifth avenue and Thirty-ninth street was that they wanted to keep the yard as a dog run for Miss Ella's succession of poodles. The Wendel formula for becoming rich was to hold land, but John Gotlieb Wendel once gave the dog's playground as an excuse for not selling the property, appraised at more than $3,500,000. Later he said that he had become tired of giving reasons for not selling, and gave that on one occasion, not seriously.

SALLY RAND WINS MOTION IN FIGHT TO ESCAPE JAIL

The possibility that Sally Rand, fan dancer who was convicted of giving an indecent exhibition and sentenced to a year in jail and a $200 fine, may have a new trial was strengthened yesterday when Judge Joseph H. McGarry of the Municipal court sustained a motion of Attorney Sam Berke for the setting aside of a previous order which had denied the dancer a rehearing.

Arguments for the new trial will be heard by Judge McGarry on Oct. 31. Miss Rand is now at liberty on a sixty day stay of sentence.

In support of his motion for setting aside the old order Attorney Berke presented an affidavit of a member of the convicting jury, Joseph L. Meyers. Meyers averred that he had wished to find Miss Rand not guilty, but that he was overwhelmed by the arguments of the other jurymen because he had a terrific headache and was anxious to get out of the stuffy, smoky atmosphere of the jury chamber. He added he had been assured Miss Rand would not be sent to jail, but would be punished only with a fine.

Wife Beaten on Sky Ride, Her Divorce Suit Charges

Her husband beat her in view of the Fair crowds when she visited him on the tower of the Sky Ride, Mrs. Rose Ashley, 20 years old, of the Wilmington hotel, 3334 Maypole avenue, charged yesterday in a divorce bill filed in the Circuit court. The suit is against Frank Ashley, a guard employed at the Sky Ride. They were married last May.

Stevens Hotel Valued Below Bond Issues

Albin K. Hornoff, an appraisal engineer, presented an appraisal yesterday at the trial of Ernest J. Stevens, charged with embezzling $1,600,000 from the Illinois Life Insurance company to aid the hotel bearing the family name. The appraiser's report shows that the Stevens hotel was worth only $14,534,919 in 1928 and slightly more in 1930 and 1931.

Against this appraised valuation, made on the basis of the hotel's income, there were outstanding bond issues totaling $21,100,000. Prosecutors Earl Hurley and John O'Hora said that it was their intention to show that Stevens, as operator of the hotel and a director of the life insurance company, was aware that the hotel was insolvent when the insurance company loaned it the $1,600,000, and that, knowing this, his approval of the loans constituted embezzlement.

The loans were made between May, 1931, and Jan. 4, 1932. The hotel company and the insurance company are both in receivership now.

Gives Appraisal of Hotel.

Hornoff occupied the witness stand before Judge Michael Feinberg all afternoon reading the 165 page report of his appraisal. Upon the present and anticipated future earnings of the hotel, he appraised its worth in 1928, for the land and building alone, at $11,534,919. To this he added what he said was the defense's own valuation of the hotel equipment at that time, $3,000,000.

There were building additions and installations of more equipment in 1930 and 1931, which increased the net appraised value slightly.

Hornoff's appraisal was made for the hotel receiver. The report shows that the greatest average occupancy of the hotel's 2,736 rooms was 42.6 per cent during 1929. In 1931 the average fell to 27.7 per cent.

Question Stevens Employé.

At the morning session the prosecutors questioned George F. Raymer, an employé of the Stevens enterprises. Although he was auditor of the defunct life insurance company, secretary of the hotel company, and also secretary of the Lincoln Securities company, the subsidiary owned by the insurance company stockholders, he asserted that he never had "any conversation of any sort" regarding loans of more than $1,500,000 made by the insurance company to the hotel company.

Show Stock Ownership.

The corporate structures and stock ownership of the various Stevens companies were put into the trial record during the questioning of Raymer. James W. Stevens, father of the defendant, held 50 per cent of the common stock of the insurance company and more than 76 per cent of all its stock was held in the family.

The insurance company stockholders each held one share of the Lincoln Securities company stock for each four shares of insurance stock. The Stevens family owned more than 50 per cent of the stock of the Hotel La Salle corporation. The corporation in turn owned $3,000,000 of the preferred stock of the Stevens hotel.

The family owned all of the common stock of the hotel bearing its name. Three bond issues on the hotel, aggregating $21,100,000, were held largely by the public.

DIG UP PURE GOLD CROWN, BELONGED TO KING WHO FLED

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Oct. 4.—A medieval royal crown of pure gold and intricately designed, was found today under the pavement of the public square, in a town near here.

With it were a golden chain and crucifix. Some persons believed the crown probably belonged to King Christian II., who hid in the town in 1532.

Banker Boards Train

Jersey City, N. J., Oct. 4.—(AP)—Henry Bruere, president of the Bowery Savings bank of New York, boarded the Roosevelt special train here tonight to accompany the chief executive to Washington, where he is expected to become the coördinator of the President's fast formulating credit expansion campaign.

BY JOHN HERRICK.

New York, Oct. 4.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt was headed back toward Washington tonight, leaving behind him as the final message of his last ten days away from the capital another appeal for "neighborliness" as the essential foundation if the new deal is to prevail.

The President closed the excursion which took him first to New York, then to his summer home at Hyde Park, then to Chicago, the American Legion convention and the Fair, with an address here in New York before the annual meeting of the national conference of Catholic charities.

Sits with Cardinal.

The dais, where the President sat in a carved and gilded chair, was flamboyant with the cerise vestments of bishops from throughout the United States. In the center, on the President's right, glowed the scarlet robes of Cardinal Hayes of New York. On the President's left sat Archbishop Amleto Giovanni Cicognari, apostolic delegate to the United States.

Former Gov. Al Smith was there, looking slightly glum despite the applause that started when he first appeared. Postmaster General Farley, Mayor O'Brien of New York, John McCormack, the singer; Lieut. Gov. Bray of New York were among the prominent names on the guest list. Mrs. Roosevelt was the only woman at the head table.

Applause enthusiastic and prolonged greeted the President's appearance. It swelled louder still when the President, passing Al Smith, paused and accompanied a word of greeting with a grin. In return he received a slap on the back from the hand that wasn't holding Al's cigar.

Stresses Neighborly Note.

To the ecclesiastical dignitaries and prominent Catholic laymen gathered before him the President expressed his faith in America, his gratification at the loyalty bestowed upon him. To those dismayed at the growth of governmental regulation he sought to give reassurance by emphasizing departments of life where private initiative and personal dealing must also prevail. But, as in past speeches, the principal theme of the address was the need for neighborliness.

"We have insisted that this shall always be a spirit of justice, a spirit of teamwork, a spirit of sacrifice, and, above all, a spirit of neighborliness."

The President expressed faith in the continuing growth of the spirit of Christianity. He lauded the Catholic charities for the aid given during the last year to more than 150,000 families. He praised the work of all the churches in alleviating human suffering and righting human wrong.

"God Is Marching On."

"I am confirmed," the President declared, "in my deep belief that God is marching on."

From the meeting the President drove to Jersey City to the waiting special train which will land him back in Washington and the White House early tomorrow morning.

The address in the evening concluded a day spent in comparative quiet at his house on 65th street. Postmaster General Farley visited him, presumably about the New York mayoralty contest. Henry Bruere, head of the Bowery Savings bank and one of the President's trusted advisers on financial matters, was another caller.

The President's Speech.

Mr. Roosevelt plunged immediately into the heart of the problem in his address.

"In the midst of problems of material things—in the machine age of invention, of finance of international suspicion and renewed armament," he said, "every one of us must gain satisfaction and strength in the knowledge that social justice is becoming an ever-growing factor and influence in almost every part of the world. With every passing year I become more confident that humanity is moving forward to the practical application of the teachings of Christianity as they affect the individual lives of men and women.

Progress Toward Justice.

"It is fitting that this annual national conference of Catholic charities should celebrate also the centennial of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul. I like to remember the taunt of atheists and enemies of the Christian religion in the Paris of 1833, when they demanded of the churches, 'Show us your works.'

"I like to think of the acceptance of that challenge and the decision to show that Christianity was not dead, and that the deeds of Christians were in accordance with their faith.

"When I realize that this one society, last year, in the task of visitation and relief of the poor in their own homes, in hospitals and institutions, aided more than one hundred and fifty thousand families; and that other great organizations of men and women connected with all the churches in all the land are working with similar unselfishness for the alleviation of human suffering and the righting of human wrong, I am confirmed in my deep belief that God is marching on.

U. S. Now Facing Facts.

"Seven months ago this very day, standing at the portals of the capitol at Washington, about to assume the responsibilities of the presidency, I told the people of America that we were going to face facts, no matter how hard or difficult those facts might be, and that it was my firm belief that the only thing we had to fear was fear itself.

"I believed then—and I know now—that our people would support definite action that sought the goal of giving every man his due. Leadership, I have tried to give; but the great and most important fact has been the response—the whole-hearted response—of America. We have recaptured and rekindled our pioneering spirit. We have insisted that this shall always be a spirit of justice, a spirit of teamwork, a spirit of sacrifice, and, above all, a spirit of neighborliness.

Viewing Nation as United.

"We have sought to adjust the processes of industrial and agricultural life, and in so doing we have sought to view the picture as a whole. Revival of industry, redemption of agriculture, reconstruction of banking, development of public works, the lifting of crushing debt—all these in every part of the nation call for willingness to sacrifice individual gains, to work together for the public welfare and for the success of a broad national program of recovery.

"We have to have courage, and discipline, and vision to blaze the new trails in life; but underlying all our efforts is the conviction that men cannot live unto themselves alone. A democracy must be bound together by the ties of neighborliness.

"That tie has been the guiding spirit of your work for the sick, for the children in need, and for the aged and friendless. And you who have participated in the actual day to day work of practical and useful charity understand well that no program of recovery can suddenly restore all our people to self-support.

Hardest Road Lies Ahead.

"This is the time when you and I know that though we have proceeded a portion of the way, the longer, harder part still lies ahead; and that it is for us to redouble our efforts to care for those who must still depend upon relief, to prevent the disintegration of home life, and to stand by the victims of the depression until it is definitely past.

"The federal government has inaugurated new measures of relief on a vast scale, but the federal government cannot and does not intend to take over the whole job. Many times I have insisted that every community and every state must first do their share.

"Out of this picture we are developing a new science of social treatment and rehabilitation—working it out through an unselfish partnership between all church and social service agencies with the agencies of government itself. From the point of view of the fixing of responsibilities, the prevention of overlapping and of waste, and the coördination of efforts, we are making enormous strides with every passing day.

"But back of the coöperative leadership which is showing itself in every part of the country there are two other vital reasons for the maintenance of the efforts of the churches and other nongovernmental groups.

"The first of these is that, much as we strive for the broad principles of social justice, the actual application of these principles is of necessity an individual thing — a thing which touches individual lives and individual families. No governmental organization in all history has been able to keep the human touch to the same extent as church and private effort. Government can do many things better than private associations or citizens, but in the last analysis success in personal matters depends on the personal contact between neighbor and neighbor.

Spiritual Values Count.

"The other reason lies in the fact that the people of the United States still recognize, and, I believe, recognize with firmer faith than ever before, that spiritual values count in the long run more than material values. Those who have sought by edict to eliminate the right of mankind to believe in God and to practice that belief, have, in every case, discovered sooner or later that they are tilting in vain against an inherent, essential, undying quality, and indeed necessity, of the human race—a quality and a necessity which in every century have proved an essential to permanent progress.

"Clear thinking and earnest effort and sincere faith will result in thoroughgoing support throughout the whole nation for efforts such as yours. The spirit of our people has not been daunted. It has come through the trials of these days unafraid. We have ventured and we have won; we shall venture further and we shall win. The traditions of a great people have been enriched. In our measure of recovery and of relief we have preserved all that is best in our history and are building thereon a new structure—strong and firm and permanent.

"I can never express in words what the loyalty and trust of the nation have meant to me. Not for a moment have I doubted that we would climb out of the valley of gloom. Always have I been certain that we would conquer, because the spirit of America springs from faith—faith in the beloved institutions of our land and a true and abiding faith in the divine guidance of God."

TALK WITH WAGNER AVERTS PILOT STRIKE ON LEADING AIRWAYS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—A strike of pilots on five of the country's largest air lines, threatened for tonight, was averted today at a conference of the pilots and the air line operators with Chairman Wagner of the national labor board. The air lines are American Airways, United Air Lines, Eastern Air Transport, Transcontinental and Western Air Lines, and Western Air Express.

The transport officials and the flyers' representatives accepted a proposal by Wagner that an investigation be made by a fact finding committee composed of one representative of the pilot, one representative of the operators, and a third impartial member. The findings of this committee will be accepted by both sides, Wagner said, and the findings will be retroactive to Oct. 1, the date a new uniform wage scale was placed in effect for the pilots.

The threatened strike revolved about the new wage scale which the pilots contend will reduce their pay, and the operators contend will raise it. The fact finding committee is to make its report in three weeks, at which time a final hearing will be held by the board.

PECORA INQUIRY BARES PROFITS BY 11 PARTNERS

Bought for 20 Cents and Sold for $52.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—How eleven members of the firm of Dillon, Read & Co. realized a combined profit of $6,810,270 through the sale of common stock of the United States and Foreign Securities corporation, for which firm members originally paid $24,110, was developed before the Pecora banking and currency inquiry today from Robert E. Christie Jr., a youthful member of the firm.

Seven other members of the firm, among them Clarence Dillon, its head, refused to part with their common stock in the same corporation, an investment trust created in 1924 by the firm which also is still in control of its operations through a majority control of its common stock.

Mr. Dillon testified earlier in the day that he did not have anything to do with the transactions by which the eleven members of the firm had disposed of their common stock holdings, but that Mr. Christie was familiar with the details, "as he handled it in our office."

Eleven Who Sell Stock.

The eleven members of the firm who sold their common stock were C. N. Miller, H. G. Ryder III., W. Wilcox Jr., R. H. Bollard, E. J. Birmingham, Deane Mathey, W. A. Phillips, the Beekman company, Ltd., R. O. Hayward, W. A. Read, and Robert E. Christie Jr. The profit of each of these firm members was not uncovered today. Mr. Pecora said tonight he intended to go into that tomorrow.

Mr. Christie testified he and the ten other firm members had sold 120,552 shares of the stock in 1928 and 1929 for an aggregate of $6,843,380.66 and that the United States and Foreign Securities Investment trust had received only $24,110.40 for the stock when it was issued in 1924.

The average sale price of the 120,552 shares which members of the firm sold in 1928 and 1929 was $52 a share. For this same stock the Investment Trust received only 20 cents a share in 1927.

Mr. Christie revealed that 74,198 shares of the 120,552 were sold through two accounts operated by Dominick & Dominick of New York for more than $4,000,000, and that the remaining 46,354 shares were sold by members of Dillon, Read & Co. in the open market.

Pecora and Glass Clash.

Today's hearing was further enlivened by a verbal tilt between Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, member of the committee, and Ferdinand Pecora, its counsel, over the pertinency of his line of interrogation.

Senator Glass, who was unable to attend yesterday's session, and did not arrive today until Clarence Dillon had again testified and the interrogation of Mr. Christie was well under way, charged that Mr. Pecora was proceeding without taking members of the senate committee into his confidence.

"There is scarcely a member of the committee that knows a thing in the world about what Mr. Pecora wants to prove," Senator Glass exclaimed—"the thing I have protested against from the beginning. The committee ought to know what he is asking."

Mr. Pecora retorted that he had outlined his plans in detail to the committee yesterday during an executive session "attended by all except yourself." Senator Glass said he intended to insist on carrying out the order of the committee that Mr. Pecora explain to the committee "in executive session what he proposes to adduce." Mr. Pecora reiterated that he had done so yesterday.

Protests "Pool" Testimony.

Mr. Pecora was seeking to establish from Mr. Christie's testimony that the two joint accounts through which Dominick & Dominick had disposed of the 74,198 shares of common for members of the Dillon-Read firm was in reality a "pool" for "unloading" this stock on the market at a huge profit. Senator Glass asserted that the committee had already developed all he cared to know about "pool" operations and that "I could break up pools if congress would legislate sanely."

The Glass-Pecora flare-up was interrupted by Chairman Fletcher recessing the committee for luncheon.

Senator Glass returned to the afternoon session after it was well under way and remained long enough to enliven still further the proceedings.

"What percentage of the people who trade on the stock market," he asked Mr. Christie, "actually know the true financial status of your company or of any other company in the matter of stocks in which they trade?"

"This investment trust," said Mr. Christie, referring to the United States and Foreign Securities corporation, "publishes annually a complete statement; also publishes semi-annually a statement of its general operations and income account."

"That I know," interrupted Senator Glass. "I am not suggesting that you have been guilty of any concealment; I am trying to test the intelligence of the people who gambled in stocks on the stock exchange."

Senator Adams, citing an experience of his own, said he had bought four or five stocks and lost money on them all except the "one I knew nothing whatever about."

"Then," exclaimed Senator Glass smilingly, "you belie your experience and gamble in stocks."

Mr. Pecora recalled testimony before the committee last year that the officials of the New York stock exchange disclaimed any responsibility on the part of the exchange for gambling operations.

Hold Up Clothiers, Take 50 Suits and 30 Topcoats

Three robbers, one armed with a machine gun, entered a clothing store at 1209 South Jefferson street yesterday afternoon and after terrorizing the two proprietors and a clerk fled with garments valued at $750. The owners, Abe Donovetski and Nathan Perlman, were preparing to close the store when the robbers arrived. The clothing, fifty suits and thirty topcoats, were loaded into an automobile which the bandits had left outside.

37,000 QUIT WOODS FEDERAL JOBS FOR HOME EMPLOYMENT

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4.—(AP)—Thirty-seven thousand members of the civilian conservation corps have gone back home to take jobs.

This exodus of young men from work camps in the forests to industrial life has led conservation officials to believe general conditions are improving.

Robert Fechner, director of emergency conservation work, said today the camps had lost an average of 800 men a day since President Roosevelt recently issued his call to the men to find jobs and make room for applicants without employment. On July 1 there were 300,000 in the conservation corps.

Maj. Gen. Fox Conner, commander of the First corps area, covering six New England states, informed the director that in this area upwards of 1,000 were leaving each month to fill jobs which had become available in a "much improved employment situation."

He said the men had been discharged after furnishing company commanders with proof they had jobs waiting for them.

ICKES DOLES OUT MILLIONS MORE OF EASY MONEY

Chicagoland States Get 10% of Total.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes doled out another $5,411,900 of his easy money fund today, approving the longest list of non-federal projects yet announced, and claiming that the work would put 57,975 men back on pay rolls.

Chicagoland states, which have had little of the white meat from Administrator Ickes' carving, today fared somewhat better than previously. They received 10 per cent of the day's allotments, $543,710.

Illinois, however, did not share in the larger helpings dished out to the middle west. The most important federal tax source in the Chicagoland area, she was given only $48,300, taking third place to Michigan and Iowa.

Iowa Gets Aid for 13.

The Illinois advances go to East Moline, Elgin, Wilmington, and St. Charles, and were estimated by Ickes to provide direct work for 284 men. Iowa received approval of 13 projects involving $162,910 of federal easy money; Lansing, Mich., was given $271,000 for street paving; Terre Haute, Ind., got $60,000 for street lights, and Hillsboro, Wis., was given $1,500 for a water works.

New York and California, the two states which have walked off with the major share of the easy money, were omitted from today's list. They continue, however, to hold a commanding lead in total grants received.

Allotments made by Ickes today pushed the total easy money already obligated well beyond the half way mark. Of the 3 billion 300 million appropriated, more than 1 billion 659 million has been doled out.

Grants Made to State.

All of the money coming to Illinois out of today's allotments, although listed under four different cities, really consists of grants to the state for construction work in state institutions in those communities. All of the advances are outright grants; no lending is involved.

In East Moline, the state will spend $8,100 of the federal easy money to cover 30 per cent of the labor and materials cost of building a bakery for the East Moline State hospital. The job will give work to 55 men for three months.

The sewage disposal plant at the Elgin State hospital will be completed, and a deep well pump purchased and installed with the help of $22,500 from the works fund. About 120 men will be given work for four months.

In Wilmington, $10,000 of federal money will be spent building a boiler house and repairing the heating system of the Soldiers' Widows' home. Lasting four months, the work will employ 54 men.

New boilers, stoker and ash conveyor will be installed in the St. Charles State School for Boys, at a total cost of $30,000, of which the public works administration has granted $7,700. Fifty-five men will be given work for three months.

GEN. JOHNSON URGES NOW IS TIME TO BUY —'PAY ROLLS MOUNT'

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4.—(AP)—A declaration that the "flat wallet era" is ended was made by Hugh S. Johnson, NRA director, in a letter made public today urging leading manufacturers and advertisers to participate actively in the "Now Is The Time to Buy" campaign starting next week.

Presenting statistics of mounting employment and pay rolls, the administrator believes the opportune moment was at hand "for American industry to bend every effort toward increased sales."

The buying appeal accompanied the labor board's mediation of a dispute between pilots and six big air transport companies, and presentation to the motion picture industry of a new revised code worked out as a basis for final negotiation.

'DIRTY FRAMEUP,' ACTRESS SAYS OF SLUGGING CHARGE

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—"It's all a dirty frame-up," announced Alice White, screen actress. She with Sidney Bartlett, were named in the confession of Russell B. Brown and Martin Block, held on robbery charges, as having hired them to disfigure John Warburton, an actor. Bartlett is a writer.

The two prisoners as well as Miss White, Bartlett, Warburton, and Dave Miller, prize fight referee of Chicago, were ordered before the grand jury tomorrow by District Attorney Fitts. That followed a conference of Mr. Fitts and Detectives S. S. Stone, M. Robinson, and Karl Kynette.

The two prisoners said Miller introduced them to Bartlett who, for $50, wanted Warburton disfigured so as to bar him from motion pictures, for remarks about Miss White, and having slapped her face.

Warburton has declared the prisoners attacked and robbed him on Sept. 16. He added he would go before the grand jury.

"To me the mere mention of Miss White's name is connection with such a story is a most outrageous and unfair attempt at sensationalism ever conceived," Bartlett stated. Both he and Miss White said they were glad of the chance to go before the grand jury.

PREPARE TO PUT CHICAGO'S MILK IN U. S. MONOPOLY

Terms of New Trade Pact Are Revealed.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Chicago's organized milk industry is preparing this week to become one of the first federally controlled food monopolies under the extensive powers granted to the agricultural adjustment administration by congress.

Copies of the amended trade agreement for the milk producers and dealers of the entire metropolitan area were made available to the rank and file of the industry here for the first time in two meetings yesterday. One meeting was a conference of dealers and farmers at the Hotel La Salle. The other was a meeting of members of the Milk Council, Inc., the trade association for distributors which controls about 90 per cent of the area's milk business. This meeting was held in the Milk Council offices in the La Salle-Wacker building.

The amended agreement gives broad powers in restricting the sales of milk and cream to farmers and dealers who comply with its terms. The agreement applies in an area within a 100 mile radius of Chicago. It has already been approved by the dairy administration in Washington, and after it is signed by dairymen of this area it will become effective when Secretary of Agriculture Wallace gives assurance that he is ready to enforce its measures.

Many Unfamiliar with Terms.

The agreement in its new form was drafted by officials and attorneys for the AAA sitting with similar agents for the Pure Milk association, the bargaining agency of 18,000 dairy farmers in the Chicago area, and agents for the Bowman Dairy company and Borden's Farm Products company. Most of the members of the industry were unfamiliar with its provisions until yesterday's meetings here.

The monopolistic control under the new code is to be vested in a corporation to be called the Milk Industry board. This board is empowered to create an "equalization pool" and a "special reserve fund" through which milk prices will be regulated for every milk distributor and dairyman in the metropolitan area.

As a result of this regulation the business of every milk company in Chicago and suburbs will be open to auditors, and every set of books and records kept in the organized milk business will be open to competitors who sit on the industry's board, and to the Pure Milk association. It is stipulated that all companies selling milk or cream in Chicago must report monthly all of their sales and purchases, that the Pure Milk association shall obtain a "confidential" copy of each report, and that these reports shall be "final" and not become an obligation of the industry board.

Must Pay Money to Pool.

One of the important provisions is that any dealer who is able to buy his milk more economically than another must pay to the equalization pool the difference between the cost of his purchases and the average price determined by the board for all of his competitors. Also, if a dealer is able to sell his milk to better advantage than a competitor, he will be obliged to pay over the difference to this pool. Any dealer who does not obtain such business advantages as does his "average" competitor, will be paid the difference out of the reserve fund.

An effort is to be made to make sure that all farmers selling milk in Chicagoland get the same price, and that all customers buy milk at the same price. There is also a provision that if state laws or other factors call for a boost in consumers' prices, all dealers in the "monopoly" will have to boost their prices to conform.

The only protection given to consumers as to the quality of milk or cream, or its butter fat content, is that every dealer signing the code must meet the provisions of the Chicago milk ordinances and the Chicago board of health.

The only protection to consumers as to price is that the secretary of agriculture reserves the right to determine what is a "fair price," and is to be guided by the farm adjustment act, which provides that farmers shall obtain a price for their milk to make their buying power equivalent to that which they had from 1909 to 1914.

To Be Used for Relief.

Arrangements were being made yesterday to enable the milk industry to comply with government plans for using "surplus" milk in the local milk shed to feed people on public relief rolls here this winter. Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, declared in Washington that no definite plans had been formulated in Chicago or any other city milk area as yet, but that Chicago would be one of the first where surplus milk would be purchased by the government's contemplated relief agency for the poor.

"We've only taken up the matter in a general way," he said. "In view of the large number in Chicago needing relief, I would think it safe to say that much of that city's surplus milk would be diverted in coming months for the needy. We intend to buy only what we need. Of course, it will benefit no one to buy it all and store it in warehouses, because a surplus there is as harmful as if it remained unpurchased."

May Be Governing Board.

The new trade agreement contains no provisions as to how the milk industry board is to be created. Dairymen were inclined to believe that the existing milk board for the Chicago milk code, comprising six dealers and five farmers, might become the governing board for the industry in this area. This agency is headed by officials of the four concerns doing more than three-fourths of Chicago's total milk business. It has no representatives of milk companies operating in suburbs only.

One of the duties of the control board for the industry will be to enforce, with government assistance, the entire code's provisions as well as three rules of fair practice. These rules prohibit any dealer from discounting prices, rebating, delivering milk free on trial, or giving premiums or any other "valuable considerations" with his milk and cream. It also prohibits any one from selling milk to customers he has served for a competitor during the previous year, or to use bottles, cans or other property not owned by himself or his company.

150 Workmen on Job

A gang of 150 workmen furnished by the make work division of the emergency relief commission had reached Ogden avenue yesterday in their cleanup of the bed of the Des Plaines river and adjoining lands in the forest preserves. The men are being paid $5 a day by the relief administration. Emmett Whealan, president of the forest preserve board, obtained their services to remove debris, abandoned automobiles and junk from the river bed between Roosevelt road and 47th street.

ROBBER IS SHOT TRYING TO HOLD UP POLICEMAN

Stephen Ksiazkiewicz, 18 years old, 1836 North Wood street, was shot in the abdomen last night by Policeman Raymond Madden of the Albany Park station when he and a companion tried to hold up the policeman and the latter's two friends at Belle Plaine and Tripp avenues.

Madden was riding in an automobile with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Peterson, 4211 North Kedvale avenue, when the two youths drove alongside them and announced they were robbers. Madden had seen them a few moments before, and, suspecting their intent, was ready.

He fired, dropping Ksiazkiewicz. The other bandit dragged the wounded youth into the car and both got away. A few minutes later Ksiazkiewicz turned up at the Belmont hospital, suffering from a wound in the abdomen. He admitted Madden had shot him and named his companion, who is being sought.

BRITISH LABOR VOTES TO OPPOSE WAR WITH STRIKE

HASTINGS, England, Oct. 4.—(AP)—The British Labor party today pledged its strong resistance to any war, passed a resolution favoring the total disarmament of all nations, and heard Arthur Henderson, chairman of the world disarmament conference, declare that the participation of the United States and Russia is necessary in peace conversations sponsored by the league of nations.

"The road to Washington and Moscow lies through Geneva," Henderson said, explaining that the league is the only instrument for peace organization. "We must abolish the national equipment and institutions that made war possible and the private interests that lived by war."

The party's attitude toward war was supplemented by equally strong views in a disarmament resolution. This motion favored not only total disarmament of all nations but also the creation of an international police force and called for the suppression of all private manufacture and trade in arms and for strict international inspection and control of the execution of any disarmament treaty.

The resolution opposing war was unanimously adopted and set out the party stand as offering resistance even through the promotion of international general strikes.

DISARM PARLEY IN NEW CRISIS; FACES BREAKUP

GENEVA, Oct. 4.—(AP)—The steering committee of the world disarmament conference was officially called today on an order from Arthur Henderson, chairman of the assemblage, to meet in a private session next Monday afternoon.

It was understood in league of nations circles that several delegations, including the American, had forced this action in view of persistent rumors that attempts would be made to declare the Geneva parley a potential failure.

A delegate of one of the great powers summarized the situation tonight by saying disarmament was hovering on the rocks. The members of some delegations said they felt it was useless to resume the conference on Oct. 14.

PARK FOREMEN BLAMED IN FIRE DEATHS IN WEST

Known Toll Is 27; Others Still Missing.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—Foremen were blamed for the heavy loss of life in the Griffith park forest preserve brush fire Tuesday by witnesses at a park board hearing today. Witnesses charged that one foreman, Frank J. Thompson, started a backfire, which got out of hand, to combat the blaze, and that other foremen erred in sending men into the canyon to fight the flames, only to be trapped and die.

The inquiry, which was ordered by Mayor Frank Shaw, will be continued tomorrow, when members of the board will visit the scene of the fire.

Coroner Frank Nance has set an inquest for next Wednesday. The district attorney also plans an investigation.

One Victim Identified.

The known toll of dead in the fire which swept a thousand acres in the park stands tonight at 27 men, all relief employés. Twenty-six bodies have been recovered. The 27th victim was Austin Williams, 35, married and the father of two children, who died of injuries in a hospital today.

Whether others died in the fire is not known and may never be known. An undetermined number of persons are missing, but with only sketchy information to work on, difficulty has been experienced in tracing them.

Authorities are making slow progress in their efforts to identify the 26 bodies in the morgue. Clothing of all the victims was destroyed and in the majority of cases there were no metal objects such as rings and keys which might prove an aid in identification.

Compensation Question Up.

The question as to whether the families of the victims will be entitled to death benefits under the workmen's compensation act was raised tonight. All the men had been without jobs until given county relief work. The law provides for death benefits of from $1,000 to $5,000.

Police today arrested Robert D. Barr, 29, an idle motion picture machine operator, on suspicion of arson in connection with the fire. Officers said he admitted starting another fire, but disclaimed any knowledge of the fatal one and that they were disposed to release him unless questioning of him took a new turn.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Installation of a "death ray" machine in the French Guiana penal colony at Cayenne gave hardened long termers a few anxious moments, until they learned its destructive rays were to be directed at mosquitoes. Authorities installed the machine to assist in the eradication of malaria among the prisoners.

Riverside Reaches 104; Sacramento 101.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 4.—(AP)—California sweltered today under a blazing sun that ran temperatures up to record October high marks.

Herman C. Fisher, 65, of Los Angeles, toppled over dead as he sat on a bench in Pershing square, in the towntown section. Police surgeons said he probably died of a heart attack induced by heat.

Los Angeles experienced its hottest day in four years, the mercury soaring to a maximum of 100 degrees at 11 a. m. A hot, dry wind poured into the city from the desert wastes of Utah.

Cools Off to 85.

The mercury got off to a flying start here last night when it recorded a low of 71 degrees. At 7 a. m. it was up to 80 and reached 100 at 11 a. m. By 3 p. m. the thermometer had dropped to 90 and when the weather bureau closed at 5 p. m., the reading was 85 degrees.

A high of 103 degrees in Pasadena at 2 p. m. broke an all-time October record.

Sacramento Only 101.

Sacramento, central valley point, which had just begun to recover from an unusually hot summer, reported a maximum temperature of 101 degrees, the highest October reading in the history of the weather bureau there.

San Francisco became warmest at 2 p. m. with the mercury standing at 88. A fog bank curling in through the Golden Gate then cooled the air rapidly and by 4 p. m. the thermometer was down to 76. The previous 1933 high was 85, May 27.

San Diego's high mark was 79 degrees, the hottest weather since Aug. 14. That was the low for southern California, and the regional high was recorded at Santa Paula, 109, which was four degrees higher than the year's previous high on Aug. 12.

Chicago, under a bright sun and cloudless sky, had a maximum of 72 degrees and a minimum of 54 yesterday.

FORMER MARINES DINE AND SWAP STORIES OF WAR

89th Division, Tank Corps Hold Reunions.

Marine corps Legionnaires held their fourth annual reunion last night. One thousand of them filled the banquet hall of the Steuben club and recounted their never to be forgotten memories of shell torn France.

Lieut. Arthur J. Murphy was the master of ceremonies. Alongside him at the speakers' table sat Lieut. C. Wayland Brooks, the Rev. Harry A. Darche, Maj. Chester Fordney, and Municipal Judges William E. Helander and Thomas A. Green. Archie M. Benson was chairman of the arrangements committee.

Two Wounded and Decorated.

Both Lieut. Brooks and the Rev. Father Darche, the latter from Buckley, Ill., are wearers of the distinguished service cross and the croix de guerre. Both incurred severe wounds in action. Father Darche is a past national chaplain of the Legion. Lieut. Brooks until recently was an ace assistant state's attorney here.

A reunion earlier in the day was that of the 89th division in the Cameo room of the Morrison hotel, where a buffet luncheon was served. The principal guests were Maj. Gen. Frank L. Winn, U. S. A., retired, who commanded the division overseas, and Assistant Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring. The units which made up the 89th division were drawn from the middle plains and Rocky mountain states.

Tank Corps Gets Together.

The tank corps held its 15th annual get together in the Transportation building. Frank J. Williams, Buffalo, N. Y., was elected national commander of the group. Three hundred Legionnaires attended the gathering.

BUT ONE VETERAN ATTENDS REUNION OF 50TH ILLINOIS

Quincy, Ill., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—When the forty-seventh annual reunion of the 50th Illinois infantry, better known as the Blind Half Hundred, opened in Quincy this morning only one aged veteran answered the roll call. He is Col. James A. Best of Kansas City, 89, president of the organization.

Many of the members of the Blind Half Hundred died during the last year and most of those living are too old and too feeble to attend the reunion.

Veterans of the Half Hundred enlisted at Quincy in 1861, fought valiantly under Grant, and eventually marched with Sherman to the sea. Because they were the 50th infantry they first gained the name of Half Hundred, and later when an epidemic of measles all but closed their eyes, the veterans were derisively termed by other regiments as the Blind Half Hundred.

CONVICTED VAG APPEALS; ASSAILS 'REPUTATION' LAW

An appeal attacking the constitutionality of the new "criminal reputation" law was filed with the Illinois Supreme court at Springfield yesterday by attorneys representing Walter Guida, Chicago hoodlum. Guida was convicted as a vagrant under the law and sentenced to a year in the Bridewell. His attorneys contended in their petition that the law places the burden of proof upon the defense, seeks to punish the accused "for the state of mind of the community," and exceeds the police powers of the legislature.

MOTHER BECOMES "9 O'CLOCK GIRL"; REGAINS CHILD

Mrs. Marie Emmerson, 25 years old, 7137 Drexel avenue, has given up her dancing ways and has been a "9 o'clock girl" for the last nine months. As a result, she will regain the custody of her 5 year old daughter, Leone, today when she appears before Judge Joseph Sabath in the Superior court.

This was announced yesterday by her attorney, Norman Becker. Attorney Becker will amend Mrs. Emmerson's separate maintenance bill against Leo J. Emmerson, 3542 West 60th place, to one for divorce, charging desertion. Emmerson will not contest the divorce nor object to turning over the child to his wife, the attorney said.

Emmerson has had the child's custody since Dec. 15, 1932. At that time he filed a petition alleging that his wife neglected her daughter to attend dances. At a hearing last June, Mrs. Emmerson testified that she had given up her dancing and was at home every evening at 9 o'clock. Meanwhile, social service workers have investigated Mrs. Emmerson's conduct and have reported to Judge Sabath that she is a fit mother.

52 PER CENT HUCKINS IS ARRESTED IN IOWA ON FEDERAL CHARGES

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—Elmer Huckins, formerly of Milwaukee and Chicago, was taken into custody here this afternoon on a federal indictment returned at Milwaukee charging using the mails to defraud in connection with alleged promotion several years ago of a get rich quick scheme that promised to pay 26 and 52 per cent interest.

His arrest followed dismissal in district court of three state charges of obtaining money by false pretenses on one of which his retrial was scheduled to start this week. Huckins appeared suddenly at the courthouse with his attorney and his bondsman.

He will be taken to Sioux City tonight by United States Deputy Marshal R. L. Whelan.

NIGHT SCHOOLS ENROLL 32,835, MOST SINCE 1930

The enrollment in the public night schools in Chicago has reached a total of 32,835, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Charles J. Lunak, assistant superintendent of schools. This is the largest number of students in this branch since the number of night schools was reduced in 1930.

Last year the night schools had an enrollment of 24,926. Dr. Lunak said that the commercial classes had become more popular, indicating that "students must be preparing for the return of jobs and prosperity."

Most of the night school students are adults and foreign born who are studying English to fulfill naturalization requirements. The evening classes are conducted in the Englewood, Crane, Schurz, Lake View, Austin, and Fenger High schools.

100 LEGION BANDS AND DRUM CORPS IN GAY CONTEST

BY EDWARD MOORE.

There was about as gay a show yesterday on the outskirts of A Century of Progress as there has been since the Exposition opened, one that lasted all day and into the evening, and successfully competed with the most colorful spot inside the grounds. It was the American Legion's band and drum corps contest.

To be exact, there were two shows. Over at the band stand in Grant park, just north of the Field museum, fifteen bands were registered to compete for supremacy. Then, if you walked south as far as Soldiers' field you found no less than eighty-six drum and bugle corps engaged in the same exciting pursuit.

It was eye filling and ear filling. One hardly knew whether to be more taken by the gayety of color or of sound. The carnival spirit had overflowed into both. There was a band from Norwood, Mass., for instance, all in white except for capes lined with brilliant red. They were amazingly ornamental. There was the Blatz post band from Milwaukee in bright blue; another from Minneapolis, Kansas, not Minnesota, whose members had gone in for white trousers, cream colored sweaters, and overseas caps.

More Color Combinations.

When you arrived at Soldiers' field you found more color combinations—rainbow hues, that made glad the sense of sight. It was a jubilant spectacle. North of both these, in the field opposite 8th street, there was more color, a drill contest going on, without the aid of music.

No show was ever more continuous in action than the one at Soldiers' field. There the drum and bugle corps were exhibiting their prowess at the rate of about eleven to the hour. Morristown, N. J., finished its drill and marched off to the south end of the field, to be followed immediately by Port Arthur, Tex., ready and waiting at the north; Elyria, O.; Knoxville, Ia.; La Grange, Ga., and all the rest.

I have been asked to solve the question whether a drum corps can make music. The answer is that if you are satisfied with some of the simpler elements of music done surprisingly well it certainly can. No one will be so fantastic as to compare a drum corps with a symphony orchestra. But there is a rhythm to the drums that stirs the blood, there is the no less stirring blare of the bugles, and such corps as are making use of bugles of assorted sizes and pitches are able to work out uncommonly good march tunes and well harmonized at that.

Judges Clasp Fevered Brows.

Meanwhile, the judges were putting down notes and clasping fevered brows in the effort to discriminate between some of the abler organizations. Quite a committee was necessary, two to watch the drumming, two more for the bugle tone, others for evolutions, some of which were as complicated as you will find the most lavish stage review, others for military bearing, and so on. All these figures were to be added up and summarized later.

Over at the band stand, matters were proceeding in a much more leisurely manner. C. G. Crumb of Chicago Heights was in charge of the contest, and there were three judges, Harold Bachman, Glenn Cliffe Balnum, and Capt. Albert R. Gish, perched on high seats above the crowd. Each band played three pieces, one a preliminary march for warming up, one a composition of its own selection, the third a piece from a group of required numbers. The "Zampa" overture was a favorite as the required number during the time I was in hearing.

They used to say of bands that they had two expressions, loud and soft, and two speeds, fast and slow. In the light of what I heard, I desire to say that this is a malignant slander. Here was tone color, here was shading, here were carefully developed climaxes, definitely artistic playing.

Legion's Largest Contests.

Mr. Crumb says that these contests yesterday were twice as large as anything the American Legion has ever staged before. And this in spite of the fact that no Cook county organization competed. Cook county posts were hosts and not competitors. If they had competed, it would have been necessary to have a day and night show in order to finish.

BLATZ BAND WINS

Following were the results announced last night in the Legion band competition for the national title. There are four prizes of $1,000, $500, $250 and $100 awarded as follows:

First, Blatz post, Milwaukee, Wis.

Second, Monahan post, Sioux City, Iowa.

The winning band had 81 musicians. On a scoring basis of 100 points the winner scored 98.6 points. There were 15 entrants.

Five entrants competed in the drill competition, the teams of a minimum of 12 men each for two prizes of $200 and $100. Results:

The winner scored 92.8 points out of a possible 100.

Second—Uniontown, Pa., post.

Fourth—Greensboro, Pa., post.

The winner scored 96.155 points out of a possible 100. The Salem, Oregon, corps, defending champions, the Miami, Florida, and the Seattle, Wash., corps were disqualified for not being in motion long enough.

DRUM AND BUGLE CORPS—First prize, Voiture No. 976, Newport News, Va.; second prize, Voiture, 40 & 8, of Aberdeen, S. D.; third prize, Voiture, Bedford, Mass. The winning Newport News group by its selection will be the official promenade national drum and bugle corps for the coming year.

The best box car in the parade was the replica of a French freight car made by Voiture 553 of Grand Rapids. The post won the Anton J. Cermak trophy. Second prize went to Voiture 273 of Columbia county, O.

Pledge Fund for Memorial to Former Legion Chief

Plans for a memorial to the late Maj. O. L. Bodenhamer, former national commander of the American Legion, who was burned to death in the east Texas oil fields last June, are attracting the attention of many Legionnaires. El Dorado, Ark., Maj. Bodenhamer's home city, has pledged $15,000 toward the fund and promised to furnish a site of 10 acres adjoining the old Bodenhamer homestead. The project calls for a community civic center, including a memorial building with Legion clubrooms, an amphitheater and band shell, a spacious playground for children, a wading pool, and other recreational features.

BOY KILLED BY AUTO.

Herrin, Ill., Oct. 4.—[Special]—Carl Smith, 13, of Freeman, died this morning of a fractured skull and other injuries suffered when struck by a car near Freeman last night.

CORONER SAYS HE'LL CLEAR UP QUINLAN CASE

Coroner Walsh announced yesterday that there would be a session today of the inquest into the death of James Borovic, who was killed nearly two years ago by an automobile driven by Michael [Bubs] Quinlan, a public enemy and beer gangster. Quinlan drove his car over a safety island, killing Borovic and crippling Borovic's wife.

The coroner was asked if he had any statement regarding the delay in closing the inquest. He said he would clear up everything today. Walsh's action in resuming the inquest followed announcement by State's Attorney Courtney that if the evidence warrants, Quinlan would be prosecuted for manslaughter.

LEGION EXPECTS TO AVOID DEFICIT FOR CONVENTION

See Income Sufficient to Pay $150,000 Costs.

From estimates available yesterday on income and expenses of the American Legion convention, which is the largest that has been held, it appears likely that the meeting will be a financial success, according to William Barnes, assistant to Phil Collins, executive vice president of the Legion Thirty-three corporation.

"The cost of the convention will be approximately $150,000, according to present estimates," Barnes said. "That is reasonable in view of the $240,000 spent at Detroit two years ago and the $204,000 spent at Boston the previous year. Each of those cities had deficits, whereas our estimates of income at the present time indicate that we will be able to meet all expenses.

$50,000 Gift from State.

"We received an appropriation of $50,000 from the state legislature two years ago. At that time we were promised $25,000 each from the city and the county, but we have not sought the last two donations because of the financial straits of the city and county governments. We have raised about $25,000 through private donations from large firms and individuals. No money was solicited from local posts.

"In addition, we have realized about $35,000 in registration fees, and we expect the income from admissions to Soldiers' field for the parade Tuesday and the drum and bugle corps contests yesterday to be about $40,000. We are paying all bills upon receipt and have the full confidence in our creditors."

Chicago hotels, restaurants and merchants will benefit to the extent of about $20,250,000 from the Legion convention, Barnes estimated. An average of 225,000 Legion members will be in the city about six days for the convention, be estimated, spending an average of $15 a day, exclusive of transportation to and from Chicago.

Transportation Bill $5,625,000.

The transportation bill alone will amount to some $5,625,000, an average of $25 for each convention visitor. The peak of convention attendance, about 400,000, was reached Tuesday, he said, when many railroads gave one day excursion rates to Chicago.

The Legion Thirty-three corporation, which is managing the convention, was formed in 1928 as a nonprofit organization with Joseph Novotny as president. More than 3,000 persons have been associated in the convention work, but the peak pay roll has not exceeded 31 persons, and ninety per cent of the pay roll will be discontinued this week, Barnes said.

PHILADELPHIAN NAMED TO HEAD LEGION WOMEN

Rehabilitation Chairman to Take Gavel Today.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Installation of Mrs. William H. Biester Jr. of Philadelphia, unanimous choice of the American Legion auxiliary for national president, will terminate the thirteenth annual convention of the organization at the Auditorium theater this morning. For the first time in the history of the auxiliary, the president elect will be escorted to the platform by the Legionnaire who made her eligible for membership—her husband.

Only Opponent Withdrawn.

A touch of drama occurred during the session yesterday morning when Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart of Milford, O., first head of the organization, announced that the department of Ohio wished to withdraw the name of the candidate for whom she had just made the nominating address—Mrs. J. J. Doyle of Toledo, national chaplain. The move was equivalent to the unanimous election of Mrs. Biester, which was immediately moved by Mrs. Hobart, and carried with tremendous applause.

Renamed to Fidac Auxiliary Post.

Mrs. Pat Allen of Portland, Ore., American vice president of Fidac auxiliary, was nominated to succeed herself in that office at the same session. The only opposing name presented was that of the retiring Legion auxiliary head, Mrs. Blackburn, who declined, thus practically assuring Mrs. Allen the post for another year.

HOLD SPEECHLESS DINNER

Officials of the auxiliary chalked up the most spectacular social success in the history of the organization last night at the Palmer house, when they entertained 2,000 guests at dinner—without a single speech on the program.

Both the grand ballroom and the Red Lacquer room of the hotel were filled with the auxiliary members, their distinguished guests, and their husbands, brothers, and sweethearts of the Legion. Mrs. Bessie Stuart Smith was chairman of the affair, and seated at the honor table with her were the retiring and incoming presidents, Mrs. S. Alford Blackburn and Mrs. Biester; Commander Louis Johnson of the Legion, Count and Countess Adalbert de Chambrun, representing France; Nicola Sansanelli, Italian representative; Princess Cantacuzene, and various others.

Florida Table Most Artistic.

Long tables set at right angles to that of the distinguished guests had been assigned to various state delegations and decorated by them to typify the home sectors. In the competition for the best decorations the prize for the most artistic went to Florida. It was originated at the Florida exhibit of A Century of Progress and boasted a huge bowl filled with natural Florida blooms surrounded with real Florida fruits.

Arizona was adjudged to have the most typical table. It was the work of Mrs. Florence Snodgrass of Phoenix, department president. The tablecloth was a flexible sheet of copper. The goblets were of copper and the place cards also, set in squares cut from cacti. A huge Pima Indian ceremonial bowl filled with Arizona grapefruit also held a real orange tree, and the glass doilies were tiny Navajo rugs of exquisite workmanship.

Miniature of French Withdrawal.

Louisiana was awarded the palm for the most historical table. Mrs. Robert R. Ramos of New Orleans, just elected president of the department, planned the reproduction in miniature of the actual scene of the French withdrawal after the Louisiana purchase. Before the St. Louis cathedral and the Cabildo, centering the table, were set tiny figurines of French and American troops and the bishops and acolytes from the cathedral, each uniform and vestment correct in every detail.

Three Building Wreckers Injured as Wall Crashes

Three Negroes were injured, one severely, yesterday when they were caught in the collapse of a wall of a building at 811 North Wabash avenue, which they were wrecking. They are Charles Ford, 37 years old, 3616 South State street; Calvin Barnett, 35, 3328 Indiana avenue, and Edward Evans, 27, 3616 State street. Evans may die. The men were tearing down the upper part of the south wall from the inside when the wall crashed. Firemen and policemen dug them out.

FORTY AND EIGHT TO PARADE TODAY AT WORLD'S FAIR

Members of the Forty and Eight will parade in the World's Fair grounds at noon today as the leading feature of American Legion day at the Exposition. Marchers from every state in the Union, sixteen trick autos, twenty-five floats, armored tanks, French taxicabs and box cars and other vehicles to the total of more than two hundred will be in the parade.

The line of march will extend through the Avenue of Flags, passing the reviewing stand on the ramp of the Sears building, and back through the Court of Honor. In the reviewing stand will be National Commander Johnson, of the Legion, President Dawes of the Fair, Mayor Kelly, Maj. Gen. Frank A. Parker, and leading officials of the Legion and the Forty and Eight society. At the conclusion of the review $10,000 in prizes will be awarded.

M. J. Foreman Receives Legion of Honor Medal

Count Adalbert de Chambrun presented Lieutenant General of Militia Milton J. Foreman with the medal of the French Legion of Honor. About thirty guests attended a buffet luncheon in Gen. de Chambrun's honor and witnessed the presentation. The count visited the Art institute and the Historical society during the day. He and Countess de Chambrun expect to leave today for Springfield, where they will visit the tomb of Lincoln.

Well Fitting Evening Shirts

At the Opera, First-nights at the Theater, Banquets and other Important Evening Functions there is a surprisingly large number of men in poorly fitting Evening Shirts. Thus, the smart effect of their otherwise correct attire is greatly impaired and also their pleasure is frequently spoiled after spending generously for an evening's entertainment.

Formal Attire should always reflect Impeccable Taste and Individual Becomingness. Styles in Shirts change just as in other Requisites and one cannot expect to be smartly dressed with shirts that are now passe. One's comfort, as well as one's appearance, is an important consideration in Evening Shirts. We give the utmost care to both designing and expert fitting in all our four shops—New York, Chicago, London, Paris.

SEE UNANIMOUS VOTE FOR HAYES AS LEGION HEAD

Backers of Illinois Man Claim 750 Delegates.

Backers of Edward A. Hayes of Decatur, Ill., for national commander of the American Legion, predicted last night that he would be elected by acclamation today. They made this prophecy after hours of conferences in which they claimed to have bagged by promises or pledges far more than enough votes to elect him on the first ballot.

At midnight the Hayes managers declared that 750 votes were slated for him. The latest support, they said, came from Virginia, Missouri, and New Jersey. New York, with 79 votes, was reported to have adopted the unit rule in Hayes' favor, virtually clinching the election. California, with 60 votes, and Texas with 30, were quoted as being ready to support him today. The number of votes required to elect is 561.

Challenged by Opponents.

The only opponent with a chance against the predicted Hayes landslide was George W. Malone of Nevada, observers said, with Ray Murphy of Iowa and Sam Reynolds of Nebraska runners up. They issued last minute challenges of the predictions of Hayes' backers. Phil Collins, vice president of the convention corporation, one of Hayes' principal backers, replied that no one could stop the Illinoisan now that New York's vote appeared certain.

Collins and Ben Doris of Oregon—both "king makers," according to the rival campaign managers—held a nose counting for Hayes in the early evening and claimed the following delegations were already pledged for him: Illinois, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Minnesota, Kansas, Oregon, Idaho, Washington, Montana, and Arizona. The last five, they said, had been counted on by Malone, and their acquisition meant defeat for any one but Hayes.

Malone Makes Claims.

Malone said that he had these states: Oklahoma, Colorado, Wyoming, New Mexico, Nevada, and Utah, and possibly California and Montana. He is also counting on much support from the southern states. The Murphy and Reynolds managers hoped that a bloc of southern support, including Georgia and Alabama, would come into one of their camps. That Malone was Hayes' strongest opponent was not denied.

Hayes, who is a former Illinois state commander, will be nominated by C. Wayland Brooks of Chicago, prominent Legionnaire and former assistant state's attorney, who served in the marine corps.

Council Lacks Quorum; Meeting Is Postponed

The meeting of the city council scheduled for yesterday was postponed until next Wednesday. A quorum failed to appear for roll call. The city baseball series and the American Legion convention were given as the reason. The most important matter for the council was the appointment of Arthur R. Seyferlich, former fire marshal, as fire commissioner. He assumed the post yesterday pending council approval of the appointment on orders from Mayor Kelly. Anthony Mullaney, new deputy chief fire marshal, also took over his new duties. The latter appointment does not need council confirmation.

NOTES OF THE LEGIONNAIRES

A rag picker was seized by hilarious Legionnaires as he prowled loop alleys early yesterday pulling a wagon in which he piled papers and rags. The veterans tossed the rag picker into his wagon and toured loop news stands, bought the entire supply of newspaper at each stand and tossed the papers on top of their passenger. They deserted the cart at State and Madison streets and the ragpicker, a wide grin on his face, crawled from beneath the papers and started home with his load.

A police detail patroled the dimly lighted loop alleys through the night in search of tired Legionnaires who had selected an alley pavement for their slumbers. The police expressed the fear that the slumbering vets might be run over by trucks.

The legion prank of tossing water from the windows of loop hotels has brought a business boom to loop cleaners and pressers. Many business men have been forced to lurk in their offices attired on underwear while suits were dried and pressed.

Owners of loop beer taverns reported a shortage of steins yesterday due to the habit of Legionnaires of carrying off the beer containers as souvenirs. One Madison street bartender voiced strenuous objection to a Wisconsin delegation departing with his steins. The aim of the veterans was poor and only two steins struck the bartender as the Legionnaires returned them.

Enchanted island, children's playground at the Fair, is said to have lead all other Fair concessions in daytime patronage from the visiting Legionnaires. Husky veterans may be sighted at any time during the day time hours riding the children's merry-go-round or mounting the Magic mountain.

A dozen slumbering Legionnaires yesterday morning were aroused under the west stand at Soldiers' field, where they had taken refuge for a nap after the Tuesday parade. They departed for their hotel, cursing their luck at "having missed an entire night's fun."

Apparently fatigued by three days of revelry, meeting and parades, the Legionnaires had sought their beds and left the loop deserted by 3 o'clock yesterday morning. The celebration was left to scattered groups, and only an occasional bell, shot, or shout disturbed the dawn hours.

Massachusetts headquarters at the Morrison hotel announced there were 18,000 Bay State Legion men and wives and nurses here, the largest attendance from any state outside Illinois.

The Fourth division Legionnaires will hold memorial services in honor of their comrades who were killed in France at St. Chrysostom's church, 1416 North Dearborn street, this morning at 10 o'clock.

Chicago Lodge of Elks has designated tonight as Legionnaire-Elks night, with largu numbers of Legion members invited to enjoy the hospitality of the clubhouse at 174 West Washington street. Judge William E. Helander will be the speaker of the evening. During the Legion convention the lodge has held open house.

Miss Helen Lang, helping the service committee at 105 South Dearborn street, has been deluged with calls from frantic wives wanting to know where they could find their husbands.

Miss Cecilia O'Neill of Minersville, Pa., who is here with the Pennsylvania delegation as "Miss Anthracite," yesterday presented Mayor Kelly with a desk set carved from hard coal. She also gave him a letter from Gov. Pinchot. She is to present other letters from Gov. Pinchot to Gov. Horner and to Rufus Dawes, head of the Fair.

More than 80 world war aviators have registered at their headquarters in the Midland club, reports Capt. B. B. Lipsner of Chicago, who was with general headquarters in Washington during the war. Only three aviation posts are in existence, he said—here, in Los Angeles, and in New York.

Two Legionnaires from Plymouth, Mass., were found watching the scene in the Morrison hotel lobby. One was Jeremiah J. Lahey, state department vice commander, who was 63 years old Monday. He was the first volunteer in his town, serving as ensign in the navy. The other was Antone Diegoli, born in Italy, who with 35 members of Company G, 306th infantry, 77th division, was surrounded and captured by the Germans in the Argonne.

Leslie E. Edmonds of Wichita, Kas., tells this story: Assistant Secretary of War Harry Woodring of Kansas and his bride were walking through the loop at night. Mr. Woodring was talking to Lester McCoy of Garden City, Kas., and Mrs. Woodring lagged behind. A jovial Legionnaire sauntered along and linked his arm in hers, saying, "Hello, sugar." Mrs. Woodring, alarmed, called to her husband. "Hello, pal, I'm from Seattle," said the newcomer to Mr. Woodring. They shook hands and all proceeded, the Seattle Legionnaire joining their party for the evening.

Ten men form the New Mexico representation at the convention. Among them is John Kirk of Gallup, past commander, who was an artillery captain in the 42d or Rainbow division, and was twice wounded. He is a coal mine operator.

be permitted to interfere with the air service plans for the department of commerce. A new plan of aviation is to be studied. Incidentally it is recommended that army posts that are kept up for political reasons be abandoned.

The legislative committee was the stage for what appears the last gasp of the bonus agitation, although some echoes of this may be heard on the floor today. The resolution of Congressman Wright Patman of Texas, calling for immediate payment of the bonus was voted down by all the committee members except Mr. Patman. Chairman Harry W. Colmery of Topeka explained that this action was taken because the committee members think that such agitation would interfere with the rehabilitation program.

The committee, however, decided to recommend cancellation of interest on loans made against the veterans' adjusted compensation certificates.

Inflationists Get Cold Shoulder.

Proponents of inflation were given a cold shoulder by the resolutions committee. Henry Stevens of North Carolina, past national commander, made a speech to his fellow committee members severely condemning inflationary policies, pointing out that many Legionnaires, as well as working people everywhere, had a direct interest in a valid dollar. Rates of pay, he said, would lag behind living costs if a rapid inflationary march was started.

Some of the conservatives on the committee were said to have opposed making any mention of inflation, but the majority accepted the Stevens ideas in modified form. They adopted a resolution, to be presented today to the full convention, urging congress and the administration to give full consideration to the dangers of soft money and placing the Legion on record as favoring maintenance of the dollar at a high standard of value.

Johnson's Address a Feature.

The address of Commander Johnson at the convention session, made in addition to his printed report, was the feature of the session yesterday, which was marked more by belated reports than by action. The veterans evidently had not quite recovered from the big parade.

Mr. Johnson reminded the veterans of the criticism which the Legion faced over the bonus and other demands. At one time, he said, it had become almost a fad to throw mud at the uniform of the American soldier. Press and public were hostile. Speaking of the national economy act he said:

"Then came the crisis of last March, when the economy act swept away the whole structure of the veterans' protective laws. We of the Legion opposed that act because we knew it would bring hardship and misery to thousands of our battle scarred comrades. I cannot make that statement without adding, however, that the vast majority of us were conscious that some of the statutes for veterans' protection, which had been adopted in the heyday of prosperity, imposed injustices upon the government that should have been removed, not only in the interest of the taxpayer, but in the interest of our own honestly disabled comrades. We were endeavoring to prepare recommendations which in our judgment would have removed these injustices, but before we could make our report the economy act became a law."

Wins Respect of Public.

By its attitude since that time, Mr. Johnson said, the Legion has won back the respect of the American public and press.

"The decision must be yours in this convention," he continued, "whether we shall continue to travel that right road—the road that places the love of country above all else and thereby march on to still greater glories, or whether we shall retrace our steps and follow the road of recklessness and extravagance that will surely lead us and those comrades who are dependent upon us for protection to disaster and disgrace. If we continue along the road we have traveled since March I have no fear that we shall regain for the disabled all the benefits that should rightfully be given them."

The commander then warned against entangling alliances with any other organization and asked that the convention reaffirm its pledge to support the government "to end the blight of the depression."

The convention adopted a resolution providing for an amendment to the Legion constitution which would strengthen it against participation in politics by its officials.

Milt D. Campbell, chairman of the Legion's committee on child welfare, read from the report of that committee a statement that the soft coal code contains a joker regarding child labor.

"Fully 100,000 children would be released for school and their jobs made available for adults if a 16 year minimum were incorporated in the NRA codes," he said. The report also attacked provisions for home work in many codes, asserting that the use of children in such work "constitutes a conspicuous part of the child labor problem."

The conclusion of this committee is that the exploitation of children could best be ended by a child labor amendment to the constitution.

The foreign relations committee recommended indorsement of the Fidac, the international Legion organization. They went on record as opposed to the cancellation of war debts.

Opposes Debt Cancellation.

The foreign relations committee also adopted a resolution opposing United States entry into the league of nations or the world court, with or without reservations.

The Americanization committee also adopted a resolution against the world court and one against United States recognition of soviet Russia. This committee passed a resolution to the effect that in view of the economy wave sweeping the country care should be taken that education should not receive a disproportionate share of cuts.

Col. J. H. Ward, administrator of the U. S. Veterans' hospital at Tuskegee, and Dr. Emmett J. Scott, secretary of Howard university, spoke from the convention platform on behalf of the Negro veterans. Dr. Scott said this was the first time that Negro speakers had ever been permitted to address the Legion convention. He said that efforts to subvert the loyalty of the 400,000 colored soldiers had failed.

Italy Wants 1937 Meeting.

Nicola Sansanelli, representing Italian veterans' organization, spoke to the convention. He is seeking to bring the convention to Rome in 1937, a question that must be decided by the executive committee. He presented the following message from Premier Mussolini:

"To the veterans of the great war gathered at Chicago on the occasion of the fifteenth convention of the American Legion I send my inaugural greetings, together with the greetings of Fascist Italy. It is not without meaning that the spirit of 'standing together' and of brotherhood, which binds strongly the American Legionnaires, is more than ever reaffirmed this year in the city of Chicago, which is celebrating its centennial with an admirable manifestation of all the conquests made by humanity in all fields during a century of progress. If the heroic ex-soldiers gathered in the ranks and files of the American Legion will, in the field of peace, carry the same ideals which bound them as brothers in war, they will contribute with efficiency and fully overcome the difficulties which face us today and prepare the advent of a better future."

"Tell Mussolini," said Commander Johnson in reply, "that the Legion still fights, as do you, for the things which we sought in the world war."

Annual memorial services closed the day's session. Chaplain Irvin Q. Wood spoke and Mme. Schumann-Heink sang "There Is No Death." She was presented with a Legion plaque.

SCHOOL CHILDREN TO GET SURPLUS FOOD FUND AID

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—As a preliminary to starting the program of the Federal Surplus corporation, newly created for the purchase of surplus commodities to be distributed to the needy, in addition to direct relief funds, Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, today announced a plan for the feeding of undernourished children in the schools.

The child welfare undertaking, outlined in instructions sent to all state relief administrators and limited to the children of families on the relief rolls, was announced before Mr. Hopkins turned his attention to details now being worked out for the surplus corporation.

LEGION CROWDS TURN LOOP INTO A PLAYGROUND

Thousands of Legionnaires, having one last fling of fun before their convention ends, last night made a playground of the loop. Despite the cool atmosphere and the thinning ranks, occasioned by the departure of some of the veterans for home, crowds remained in the downtown district until after midnight.

Practical jokers paraded the streets enjoying themselves as they blocked traffic and created all the noise possible. In spite of the chilling weather, water still proved to be the popular prop for their pranks. One group marched around with an umbrella from the top of which they shot a stream of water on the unsuspecting pedestrians they passed. Those who chose to remain in their hotel rooms were pleased to plop buckets of water on those who passed below.

NEW CIVIL CODE SENDS LAWYERS BACK TO SCHOOL

Faces Glum as Cherished Forms Go in Discard.

Two hundred lawyers went back to law school last night to study the new Illinois civil practice act which goes into effect next Jan. 1, replacing the technical and cumbersome common law method of practice.

A course on the new civil code was opened by Prof. Edward W. Hinton of the University of Chicago law department at University college, the downtown section of the university at 18 South Michigan avenue. Many well known lawyers attended the session.

It was not a festive occasion and the faces of some of the attorneys grew glum as Prof. Hinton outlined the main features of the new law. Some forms of pleadings very dear to the legal heart become obsolete in Illinois in 1934.

"Blind Pleadings" Are Out.

The so-called "blind pleadings" are to disappear. No longer may the lawyer, stalling for time, file a "general demurrer," and such favorite phrases as "losing and finding in trover" are abolished. All pleadings of this nature are "neither necessary nor appropriate," the new act says.

Although the civil practice act is the result of several years' work by a number of prominent lawyers, its passage by the legislature at the last session came as a surprise to a majority of Chicago and Illinois lawyers.

There is bound to be some confusion with the installation of the new code Prof. Hinton said. But the benefits of the act will overbalance any temporary uncertainty on the part of judges and lawyers alike concerning the proper methods of procedure, he declared.

Illinois Just Catching Up.

Illinois has lagged far behind other states in doing away with the old common law practices, he continued. In at least twenty-five other states civil practice codes have been adopted to conform with modern conditions and to speed up and simplify the administration of civil law.

"As soon as the bench and bar become used to the new order they will find pleading and practice much simplified," Prof. Hinton asserted.

One of the most radical changes in present practice caused by the new law is the abolition of the praecipe, that legal weapon cherished by the professional seeker of damages for breach of promise or alienation of affections.

Evil of the Praecipe.

The praecipe did nothing but inform the defendant that he was being sued. No information was disclosed as to the nature of the suit and unscrupulous lawyers were free to threaten defendants with publicity if a settlement was not made. In hundreds of cases, no further action followed the filing of the praecipe and the defendant was powerless to protest against this practice.

Under the new act a complaint, giving details of the suit, must be filed with the clerk of the court.

Judges are given many discretionary powers under the act which, if exercised, will enable them to handle cases with greater speed, Prof. Hinton said. In general, the act attempts to extend into the law courts the rules of equity which permit freedom in the handling of evidence and allow the judge to use common sense in his rulings without hindrance from antiquated statutes.

Reputable Lawyers for It.

"Will the lawyers like the new system?" Prof. Hinton was asked.

"They should," he replied, smiling. "Of course, litigation is made less complicated. Not so many technicalities can be raised and perhaps, not so many fees be charged. But the reputable members of the bar are greatly in favor of the new act."

Some of the lawyers present shook their heads sadly, however, as the act was unfolded before them. Especially did they wince when informed that the judge's written instructions to the jury, which have long afforded the world's greatest cross-word puzzle to laymen, will be abolished in their present form.

Instead of a series of disconnected, technical and repetitious statements mumbled by a judge to bewildered jurors, the new act will permit the judge to instruct the jury in the form of a continuous and connected narrative which will present the law clearly.

Judges Discuss the Act.

While the lawyers were listening to Prof. Hinton forty judges of the Appellate, Circuit, Superior and Criminal courts met in the rooms of the Appellate court at 30 North Michigan avenue to discuss the new act. Judge Harry Fisher of the Circuit court presided.

The judges voted to meet at 7 o'clock every Wednesday night until the end of this year to talk over the new procedure so that they will be familiar with it by the time it goes into effect. There are 135 specific new rules. A group of these rules will be discussed at each meeting.

PULPIT CHANGES MAY BE MANY IN M. E. CONFERENCE

Pastors and People Both Seek Transfers.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The 94th session of the annual Rock River conference of the Methodist Episcopal church may be marked, according to indications yesterday, by one of the periodical "shake-ups" in which many pastors are assigned to new churches. Yesterday was the second day of the conference which is meeting in the Ottawa Street Methodist Episcopal church in Joliet.

While the list of appointments for the coming year will not be read by Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf until Sunday it is generally known that requests by pastors for new charges and by charges for new pastors, is almost unprecedented.

Desire for New Fields.

The desire for new fields, as given by a veteran minister, is due to "the present religious languor, the fearful effects of depression on church income and the feeling that a change at least would help morale if nothing else."

Judging by Bishop Waldorf's recent policy in other conferences of Illinois, he wil endeavor, in spite of demands, to keep the changes to a minimum.

The Rev. James O'Day, secretary of the conference, pointed out that not a death has occurred among the active members of the conference for three years. Before that there had been an average of four deaths among the active clergy each year.

German Pastors Welcomed.

A highlight in yesterday's sessions was the admission of fourteen active and four retired members of the Northwest German conference which has been merged with the Rock River conference. The transfer of those pastors from the German group means the addition of 25,031 communicants to the Rock River conference, together with a transfer of $500,000 worth of church property.

The Rev. L. F. W. Lesemann welcomed the German pastors.

Kansas City Judge Tells How Beer Helps.

BY HAL FOUST.

The legalization of beer and the repeal of the 18th amendment received recognition among delegates at the annual convention of the National Safety council yesterday as perhaps the outstanding safety advancement of 1933.

Judge Thomas V. Holland of Kansas City, while attending a luncheon of the traffic section of the council, cited his experiences as a trial judge in motor vehicle cases as demonstrating that the death of prohibition will mean a reduction in the toll of automobile accidents.

"The liquor of the Volstead era within the purchasing power of the average citizen has been crazy moon," said the judge, "and it has been responsible to a great measure for the large number of fatalities and personal injuries that have attended the growth of motor cars in America.

Fewer Cases Since Beer Returned.

"Since beer became legal in Missouri, there has been a reduction in the number of drunken driver cases coming into court and a reduction in the number of reckless driving cases associated with drinking."

Sidney J. Williams, director of the public safety division of the National Safety council, pointed to the current convention of the American Legion as an example of the wholesome influences of legal beer.

Yesterday's traffic record was a tribute to legal beer," said Mr. Williams. "It is doubtful that so many men, women, and vehicles could have been moved without a serious accident if heavy whisky drinking had been popular during the Legion's parade."

"As a Legionnaire myself," added Judge Holland, "I can say that I'm glad this big convention didn't consume the moonshine that we did at previous conventions. Beer has been the leading beverage of this week's veterans' meeting, and the drinking has been in a spirit of goodfellowship, free from the viciousness of bootleg booze."

Makes Plea for Temperance.

Hgrold G. Hoffman, motor vehicle commissioner of New Jersey and newly elected chairman of the traffic section of the National Safety council, qualified his endorsement of the 18th amendment repeal.

"Our accident record in New Jersey has decreased since beer was legalized," he said, "but it was also being reduced during the few months preceding legal beer. If the new amendment to the constitution brings about the temperance that we expect from it, there is no doubt what motor fatalities will drop.

"Before the enactment of the dry law there were not nearly as many automobiles on the streets and the highways as there are today. It will behoove the friends of personal liberty to aid in promoting temperance if the death of prohibition is to have the beneficial effects we desire."

At the annual banquet of the National Safety council at the Stevens hotel last night, John E. Long of Albany, N. Y., was elected president for the ensuing year. He is superintendent of safety for the Delaware and Hudson railroad.

Suit Against Dinehart for $250,000 Dismissed

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—Alan Dinehart, actor and director, denied today that there had been a settlement in the $250,000 breach of promise suit filed in Superior court recently by Miss Betty Kaege of Chicago and former Follies beauty against the actor. The suit has been dismissed according to court records. According to Dinehart's attorney the actor has absolutely refused to make any settlement and was prepared to contest the case on its merits. Dinehart was married to Miss Mozelle Brittone, a screen actress, last June and the suit was filed several days later.

SUES FOR DIVORCE

MRS. LOUISE O'KEEFE.
(TRIBUNE Photo.)

Mrs. Louise Keys O'Keefe, 19 years old, 1046 Lake Shore drive, daughter of Alvin S. Keys, state receiver for insolvent insurance companies under former Gov. Emmerson, yesterday filed suit for divorce in the Superior court against Dwight H. O'Keefe Jr., an insurance broker of Springfield. The bill, filed by Attorney Daniel Costigan, alleged that O'Keefe struck his wife at a party at the Illini Country club at Springfield last May 30, and on June 20 flung her from their automobile and forced her to walk home three miles in the rain. They were married Feb. 4, 1932, after an elopement to St. Charles, Mo. O'Keefe is employed by his father-in-law. He will not contest the divorce, according to Attorney Costigan.

GROOM IS SHOT AT TRACK; HORSE OWNER HUNTED

Hobart Taylor, 31 years old, of Mullens, W. Va., a groom at the Washington Park race track, was shot in the abdomen yesterday, allegedly by his employer, James Stella, a horse owner, during a dispute just outside of Stable Y. Taylor was reported to be in a serious condition at the Ingalls Memorial hospital in Harvey last night.

Stella, who is 45 years old, and a former resident of Newport, Ky., disappeared after the shooting, and was still missing last night. A watch was placed at 1641 Thorn street, Chicago Heights, where he has been rooming. During the day Lieut. Frank McGillen, of the Homewood county highway police, obtained a warrant from Justice Albert Webb of Thornton, charging Stella with assault with a deadly weapon.

The police said that the shooting resulted from Taylor's demands that Stella give him his back pay. On Tuesday Stella sold six of his horses to Jockey Georgie Fields, and yesterday he called at Stable Y to get the birth certificate of Tan, one of the horses. Taylor told him he did not have the certificate, and in the dispute that followed made a demand for his back pay. Enraged, Stella shot him, according to Taylor.

Contractor Asks Receiver for Grant Park Railroad

A receivership was asked yesterday for the Grant Park Transportation company, operator of the narrow gauge railroad which Attorney General Kerner is seeking to oust from the park on the charge that the railroad is a trespasser on public property. The petitioner for the receivership was the John A. McGarry Construction company, which claims that it has an unpaid bill of $20,557 for construction of the railroad. Judge John P. McGoorty, who heard testimony on the ouster proceedings yesterday in the Superior court, postponed his ruling on the receivership plea until today. Assistant Attorney General James G. Skinner objected to a receivership, charging that the proceeding was an attempt to cloud the issue.

Cummings are at present living with Mr. and Mrs. Kremer at their Spring Valley home while Mrs. Cummings convalesces from an illness.

Robert Jackson, secretary of the Democratic national committee and committeeman for New Hampshire, is another of the Democratic lawyers who have established headquarters here since March 4. He is reputed to be especially influential in getting public works easy money for his clients. Associated with him is former Congressman George Coombs of Missouri, who, after leaving the house, went to New York and got into Tammany politics.

Angus W. McLean, long a Democratic power in North Carolina, is now practicing in Washington. He is a first cousin of Angus D. MacLean, solicitor general. Another Democrat now seen in Washington on law business is former Gov. O. Max Gardner, national committeeman for North Carolina.

Former Senator and former Gov. Thomas W. Hardwick of Georgia has hung out a Washington shingle.

Clarence N. Goodwin, Chicago Democrat, who has had a law office here for years, is branching out under the new administration. He has added to his firm Northcutt Ely, who was in the office of the secretary of the interior under the Republican régime, to specialize on interior department business.

Secretary of the Interior Ickes put a crimp in this plan by laying down the rule that no former interior department employé would be permitted to practice before the department within two years after leaving government employ, but he admitted the rule could not be invoked to prevent Ely from appearing for clients seeking allotments from the public works administration. Ickes has told several applicants they would fare better if they came without lawyers.

Another Democratic firm dating from the Wilson régime is headed by former Judge J. Harry Covington of Maryland. From this firm went Dean Acheson to become undersecretary of the treasury and associated with it is Raymond Stevens of New Hampshire, whom President Roosevelt placed on the trade commission but who was not reappointed when his term expired recently and is said to be slated for a more lucrative job.

Pat Malloy, who resigned today, somewhat involuntarily, from the position of assistant attorney general, intends to practice in Washington. Donald R. Richberg, general counsel of the NRA, retains a law office here which antedates the new deal.

Basil O'Connor of New York, Mr. Roosevelt's former law partner, comes here frequently in the interest of clients and one of his associates has just joined the firm of Joseph E. Davies, formerly of Wisconsin, who has made a fortune since he began to practice law here in the time of Wilson.

It was Mr. O'Connor whose client, with the aid of Louis Howe, White House secretary, put over the deal for purchase by the government of toilet kits for the C. C. C. at higher prices than the war department could have got them for.

Former Judge Sam Rosenman of New York, who used to be Mr. Roosevelt's personal attorney, was here recently representing seven New York department stores at the NRA hearing on the retail code.

Joe Tumulty, Tim Ansberry, and Swagar Sherley are other Democratic lawyers long established here who are reputed to be doing a lot better since their Jeffersonian brethren regained power.

TELLS HOW ONE CELL CREATURES PREY ON MANKIND

Terrible unicellular monsters of microscopic size and their habits were the theme of a talk made last night to the Chicago Chemists club by Prof. George Roemmert of Columbia university, formerly of the Univeristy of Munich. His lecture was given in the club headquarters at 176 West Adams street.

The animalcules, Dr. Roemmert said, were more fiercely predatory than tigers, although so small that only the highest powered microscope can discover them.

It was his belief, the scientist said, that there are vast worlds of animal life too small for the present microscopes still to be explored.

COLDS Go Overnight

When You Take The Right Thing!

A cold doesn't have to run its course and expose you to serious complications. A cold can be routed overnight if you go about it the right way. First of all, a cold being an internal infection, calls for internal treatment. Secondly, a cold calls for a COLD remedy and not for a "cure-all."

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is what a cold requires. It is expressly a cold remedy. It is internal and direct—and it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels, combats the cold germs and fever in the system, relieves the headache and grippy feeling and tones and fortifies the entire system. Anything less than that is taking chances with a cold. Get Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine at any druggist, 30c and 50c. Ask for it by the full name and beware of dealers who offer substitutes.

CONVICTED TAX FIXER REPORTED IN OLD HAUNTS

Fugitive Goldberg Said to Have Been at Home.

Rumors that Herman J. Goldberg, convicted tax fixer, is to be seen in his usual haunts persisted yesterday in the face of denials by deputy sheriffs that the fugitive is in Chicago. The deputy sheriffs, directed by Sheriff William Meyering, have carried on a desultory search for Goldberg since Aug. 18.

On that date the Appellate court affirmed the decision of Judge Joseph Sabath that Goldberg should serve three months in the county jail and pay a fine of $1,000. In giving bond on two occasions in the Criminal court Goldberg gave his address first as 2328 Farwell avenue and later as 1427 Juneway terrace.

Both of these addresses, employés of the sheriff's office said yesterday, are wrong. They assert that Goldberg's residence is at 7663 Sheridan road. The search for Goldberg is conducted by a deputy sheriff, who, when he has time from his other duties, drops in at the Goldberg home every two weeks or so.

How the Deputy Works.

The reported procedure followed by the deputy in his efforts to bring Goldberg to justice is said to be the same on each visit, and the conversation takes the following trend after the preliminary of ringing the door bell:

"Is Mr. Goldberg in?"

"No, he is in the east."

"When will Mr. Goldberg be back?"

"I do not know."

"Goodbye."

The failure of the sheriff to find the tax fixer has recalled the leisurely prosecution in the case. Goldberg was indicted with Charles A. Mead, a former employé of the old board of review, on a charge of conspiracy to make fraudulent alterations in assessment records. The indictment was returned on Dec. 31, 1931.

Twelve Continuances in Case.

After 12 continuances before various judges the case finally went to trial on April 27, 1931. The taking of testimony was completed on May 20, and Judge Sabath ruled in the case after taking it under advisement for three months.

A motion for a new trial caused further delay, and then a request for an appeal lay dormant for some time. The case finally reached the Appellate court and a capias was issued for Goldberg's arrest on Aug. 17. On Sept. 9, when Goldberg failed to appear, his bond of $7,500 was forfeited.

Just before the last county election Goldberg appeared before a grand jury and charged that he had been aided in his illegal tax operations by Albert Swanson, brother of John A. Swanson, then state's attorney. The jurors found the charges untrue and indicted Goldberg on a charge of perjury.

In the present search for Goldberg deputies received word two weeks ago that the tax fixer was at his home. They went there and reported that they had missed Goldberg by only 15 minutes. It was pointed out by persons who maintain that they have seen Goldberg on the streets of Chicago that no one has been stationed at the fugitive's home to await his appearance.

Best Promoter Gets Ocean Mail Contract Plum, Witness Tells Senate Committee

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—Unfolded today before the special senate committee investigating the ocean mail contract system of the last twelve years was the story of J. E. Dockendorff. As president of various companies favored by the United States shipping board he voted himself large salaries and other emoluments, although his only regular income was from government contracts and his companies showed almost consistent losses since 1920.

The witness was the president of J. E. Dockendorff & Co., the American Diamond lines, Empire Stevedoring company, American Shipping Association of Holland, and the American Shipping Association of Belgium. He testified to having received combined salaries of $70,000 in 1920; $43,000 in 1921; $35,000 in 1922; $27,000 in 1923; $39,725 in 1924, and $39,600 each in 1926 and 1927.

These payments were exclusive of expenses for entertainment and travel, which he said were about $37,000 a year.

Big "Running Account."

Among other sources was a so-called special account carried on the books of J. E. Dockendorff & Co., from which Mr. Dockendorff said he borrowed constantly since 1920, much of the amount still being carried on the books as "loans receivable." This was described by the witness as a running account with Iselin & Co., New York bankers, secured by stock in the Empire Stevedoring company and sometimes overdrawn to the extent of $35,000 to $50,000.

Spread on the record were evidences of "wire pulling and favoritism" which recalled to Senator Black, chairman of the committee, the Teapot Dome investigations. It was quite clear to him, he commented, "that the ocean mail contract system of ship subsidy as administered during the last twelve years was not for the benefit of the best operators but the best promoters."

Professing not to have had much sleep last night, Mr. Dockendorff opened his testimony with a request that the committee bear with him if at times he seemed not to remember details. But his memory was sufficiently clear to recall under questioning by Senator Black that the shipping board under T. V. O'Connor was "an aggregation of factions," each of which had its own favorites among ship line operators.

He recalled further that his own interests had been favored by Mr. O'Connor and former Commissioners Jenkins and Plummer. Mr. Jenkins, the witness recalled, was employed by him a few months after leaving the shipping board and is now vice president of the American Diamond lines.

Another official of the board, A. E. Kelly, former vice president of the Merchant Fleet corporation, had always been inimical to Mr. Dockendorff's companies, he said, and was "voted out" by a majority of the board.

Acquires Twelve Ships.

Mr. Dockendorff denied statements by Senator Black that he had been influential in effecting Mr. Kelly's separation, but agreed that Mr. Kelly had instigated an investigation by the controller general into certain alleged violations of his contract with the shipping board. This investigation Dockendorff described as "just another example of the many charges trumped up by our competitors" to get possession of vessels he was then operating for the board and which he subsequently purchased.

The twelve ships involved were finally sold to Mr. Dockendorff by the shipping board after more than a year of controversy for $1,342,607. For the same vessels the United States lines had offered $2,435,000 and the Oriental Navigation company $2,776,155.

Bids Easily Revised.

Mr. Dockendorff had been operating the ships under a contract with the shipping board, and when the time came for their permanent transfer to private ownership he made a bid of $1,567,314 for thirteen vessels. This he subsequently revised to $1,660,000, and when advised of the offer made by the United States lines, raised his own offer to $2,435,500, or one cent a ton more than had been bid by Paul W. Chapman of the United States lines.

The various offers were before the board and two investigating committees for more than a year, Mr. Dockendorff testified, and on the basis of his final offer a report was made by the second committee appointed by President Hoover favoring the bid by Mr. Dockendorff.

Senator Black brought out, however, that although Mr. Dockendorff twice raised his offer to meet that of the United States Lines, the vessels were finally disposed of to him for $1,342,607, and despite an agreement whereby he was to pay $1,501,254.

Use Preference Clause.

The award of the vessels to his own company was made possible, the witness told Senator Black, through the operation of the preference clause of the merchant marine act permitting the board to favor the operating managers of its ship when the time came for permanent transference.

He agreed with Senator King that the practical result was that although the law directed the sale of government ships on the basis of competitive bidding, awards need not be made to any bidder no matter how high or how bona fide his offer. This was easily circumvented by the permission to preferred operators to increase their original bids.

It was for obtaining favorable action on his own offer that Mr. Dockendorff yesterday said he employed Donovan and Bond and paid $100,000 for their services. Mr. Donovan was assistant to the attorney general in the Coolidge administration, while Mr. Bond, is was disclosed today, had been a treasury department official under Secretary Mellon.

DEMOCRATS ASK JUDD BE FIRED AS HEAD OF HAWAII

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, T. H., Oct. 4.—Members of the Democratic central committee today admitted that they probably will sharply criticize the present Republican governor, Lawrence M. Judd, in a message to Washington asking the early appointment of a local Democrat as governor. Democrats blame the Republican administration for failing to balance the territorial budget, with the result that the territory now is not only broke, but $1,000,000 in the hole. Gov. Judd replies that it is the Democrats' fault because Democratic legislators blocked attempts to balance the budget at the last session.

His wife had placed the jewelry in a jewel box in her bedroom Monday morning, Mr. Adams said.

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 4.—(AP)—A seven year penitentiary sentence with fifteen lashes was meted out today to Marion Fauria, who was arrested in Jacksonville, Fla., charged with robbing the Royal Bank of Canada of $2,050 in a holdup last November.

"Let this be a warning to American gunmen that they cannot come over to Canada and run amuck," said the judge in passing sentence.

The Columbian Exposition opened May 1; A Century of Progress opened May 27.

BY EARL MULLIN.

Chicago, which gave A Century of Progress Exposition to the world at a time when the world said an undertaking on such a scale was an impossibility, tomorrow comes into its own at the Fair. All of the world has visited the Fair, and now for one week Chicago takes control, both as host and as guest. The week's program, the most elaborate and colorful of the entire Exposition, is of Chicago and for Chicago.

Beginning with the opening of the gates tomorrow morning, for one week the Fair will be turned over to Chicago. The rest of the world is invited, but it's primarily for the home town folks. Every entertainment, cultural and educational fount in the city has been tapped, and last night, when the officials of the week, who have been working for a month on the arrangements, rested content in the belief that they had arranged an outstanding series of events for Chicagoans.

Variety of Special Events.

Nearly every organization in the city had a part in arranging the program, but the Fair and the Association of Commerce, working in conjunction, arranged most of the details. Included in the week's billing, all of which is presented to Fair visitors at no extra cost, are radio shows, vaudeville shows, parades, speeches, picnics, sports events, and spectacular fireworks.

Not because it was necessary to present a full program, but so that the most complete program possible would be given to Chicago for its week, two famous outside musical organizations are included. They are the United States Marine band and the Tipica Police band of Mexico City. Both organizations will participate in the week.

By official proclamation of Mayor Kelly the city is invited to attend the Fair during this period. Two days, Chicago day, Monday, Oct. 9, and Columbus day, Thursday, Oct. 12, will be city holidays, with all city departments, except police, fire, health, and gas and electricity, closed for the day. In those departments only routine and essential activities will be maintained.

Mayor Urges City to Attend.

In part, the mayor's proclamation said: "I hereby declare the period from Oct. 6 to Oct. 12 to be Chicago week, to be celebrated by the city of Chicago and A Century of Progress Exposition. It will be a week of gayety, entertainment, and education, in which all residents of Chicago and the metropolitan area are invited and urged to attend.

"Chicago has been host to the world. Chicago week gives all Chicagoans an opportunity to show their appreciation for what the Fair has done for the city and gives the Exposition an opportunity to pay tribute to our city, its institutions, and its citizens. I urge all of you to take advantage of Chicago week to enjoy to the fullest a magnificent spectacle which you will never again have the opportunity to see."

Homecoming day ceremonies tomorrow will open the week of special events. This day is set aside to welcome returning sons and daughters of Father Dearborn.

The program opens at 10 a. m. with free tours for parties of Chicagoans and former residents of the city. The free tours will afford those with only limited time an opportunity to see all of their Fair.

Best Vaudeville Acts in Free Show.

Free vaudeville, made up of the best acts in the concessions, will be given from 2:30 to 4 p. m. on the Floating theater. Community programs and the awarding of prizes to the largest family, the oldest settler, and similar distinguished individuals and parties will round out the theatrical event.

One of the highlights of the day will be a radio entertainment in the Court of States. Included in this program will be a one hundred piece band under the direction of James C. Petrillo, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, and a score or more of well known radio entertainers.

Included in the radio revue, said to be one of the most complete ever presented in Chicago and to be equaled only by a similar one on Monday night, are the following features: One hundred piece brass band, with Petrillo leading; Clara, Lu, 'n' Em; Paul Ash and Harriet Kruse, Pratt and Sherman, Four Norsemen, Alice Joy, Ruth Lyons, Fair orchestra; Barn Dance; the Commodores, Marion and Jim, James Hamilton, Fair orchestra; Jack Rose, Guy Lombardo, Alice Mock, Fair orchestra; Tony Amideo, Clarence Castell and Paul Sutton; Morin sisters, the Three Flats, Buddy Rogers.

Great Fireworks Display.

A gigantic fireworks display will end the day's program. The display will take place on the North lagoon and on the east tower of the Sky Ride. Included in the pyrotechnic show will be the burning of Fort Dearborn.

Both Fort Dearborn and the Lama Temple, paying concessions, will be free to the public during the day.

The remainder of the week there will be a special program each day, with the week climaxing Chicago day. At the old Fair the record attendance of 716,881 was attained on Chicago day, and city and Fair officials refuse to believe that Chicago in 1933 will bow down to Chicago of 1893 in the matter of attendance.

Attendance at 11:30 o'clock last totaled 111,531.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

Louisiana night will be celebrated this evening and during the early morning hours tomorrow at Old Mexico. The Louisiana Legion delegation will assemble in the cabaret some time before midnight, and from then on will take charge of affairs.

The Chicago Board of Trade Legion post last night was host to the Memphis drum and bugle corps and visiting Legionnaires at Hollywood at the Fair.

The Tipica Police band of Mexico City, well known in the United States from vaudeville tours, will arrive in Chicago tomorrow afternoon to make a week's appearance at the Fair. The band will alternate with the U. S. Marine band from Washington, now at the Fair, presenting programs.

Postal Telegraph day will be observed at the Fair today. No program is being presented, at the request of the company, which designated the special day to give every employé an opportunity to visit the Fair. All Chicago employés will be given time off to tour the grounds, and a party of officials from New York will be guests of Chicago office directors. The messenger boys' band will play from 7:30 to 8:30 p. m. in the Court of States.

The Braille musicians, under the direction of John M. Peardon, will present a musical program this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Illinois Host house. During the remainder of the day programs of a literary nature will be given.

An autumn flower festival is being planned for the horticultural building at the Fair, now that fall flowers and vines are in the height of their glory.

Legionnaires from many states participated in a celebration in honor of Louis Johnson, retiring commander of the American Legion, yesterday in front of the Pantheon de la Guerre. They were assisted by the drum and bugle corps of the Frankford, Pa., post, twice national champions. Today at 2 o'clock the panorama will be serenaded by the Minnesota champion girls' bugle band representing the American Legion auxiliary at Crookston, Minn. At 4 o'clock a concert will be given by the drum and bugle corps of the Tucson, Ariz., post.

Mrs. Belle Forbes Cutter, lyric soprano, yesterday was guest singer at the Illinois Host house, singing a program of Mrs. Frank G. Logan's poems set to music. The concert was a part of the literary and musical series being given at the Illinois building.

COURT REFUSES TO CURB SEARCH FOR INSULL FUND

Bank Shielding Fugitive, Ettelson Charges.

A motion of the Harris Trust and Savings bank to increase from $1,000 to $50,000 the penal bond of Gus Lowry, whose suit has tied up an alleged secret bank account of Samuel Insull, was denied yesterday by Federal Judge John P. Barnes.

Judge Barnes denied the motion after former Corporation Counsel Samuel Ettelson, representing Lowry, had accused the bank of attempting to shield the fugitive Insull and characterized the bond motion as "a subterfuge to get rid of the lawsuit."

In a paroxysm of oratory, Attorney Ettelson hurled charges of "dishonesty" as he attacked the answer of the bank denying that the account in question is in any way connected with Insull. The Lowry suit, seeking to impound the account for Insull creditors, charged that was originally in the name of Samuel Insull, but was changed to Constantine S. Eftax shortly before Insull's flight to Europe in June, 1932.

Find There Is a Mr. Eftax.

"We are satisfied now that there is such a person as Constantine S. Eftax," said Attorney Ettelson, "but it makes no difference in this law suit whether he is a real or a fictitious person. In my belief Eftax and Insull are the same so far as this account is concerned.

"Why is the Harris bank so anxious to get rid of this suit? It is because there is an Insull-Harris connection, and we will show it. Shortly before Insull fled to Europe securities which were in the Insull account turned up in the Eftax account. The bank rushed into court with its answer, on the same day we filed our suit, denying that Insull ever had an account at the bank. I want to compliment them upon their dispatch, but I say that was a dishonest answer.

"At 7 o'clock that same evening they sent a coded cablegram to Eftax. That was a message to Insull. Insull is a fugitive in Athens, Greece, and Eftax is a fugitive there also. The government agencies are investigating the activities of this Eftax, who took flight when they found out he was the head of a narcotic ring. He is also under investigation by the bureau of internal revenue.

Ettelson Charges Dishonesty.

"The answer of this bank, your honor, is full of falsehoods. They deny under oath that Gus Lowry is a citizen of Indiana and that he is a creditor of Insull Utility Investments, Inc. They deny under oath that Insull is a fugitive from justice, that he is under indictment in this court and that the government is about to extradite him for trial. If they deny those things under oath, then I haven't any faith in what they say on any other issues."

Attorney Perry M. Chadwick, representing the bank and speaking in support of the motion, declared that the rights of a third party—Eftax—were involved in the suit and that the bond of $1,000 was not sufficient to protect his rights.

"This account," he declared, "consists of securities with a present market value of $85,000 and some $16,000 in cash. Many of the securities have a fluctuating market value, and since Eftax carries several brokerage accounts a sudden drop in the market might result in serious damage to him."

Get Margin Request.

"Only Monday, the day this suit was filed, we were presented with an order signed by Eftax, from a broker's office, for $10,000 presumably to be applied as margin. We could not comply with this order because of the restraining order tying up the account."

In a reply filed with the federal court on Monday counsel for the bank identified Eftax as a former south side druggist and importer of pharmaceutical supplies who is now a resident of Athens.

Judge Barnes said his only concern in the lawsuit was whether Eftax loaned his name to Insull. He declared that the bond of $1,000 should afford ample protection for the bank, and that if Eftax's rights were not sufficiently protected the court would be glad to hear him at any time.

MARCONI DEPARTS FOR NIAGARA AFTER FINAL FAIR VISIT

Marchese Guglielmo Marconi, senator of Italy and one of the most noted figures in the history of radio, and Marchesa Marconi left Chicago last night after a final view of the World's Fair. They are to proceed to Niagara Falls and New York via the Michigan Central railroad.

The train was ten minutes late in departing, the delay being caused by the plea of Marchese Marconi that his baggage was missing. A search disclosed that the baggage was in the baggage car. The Marconis were accompanied to the train by the Italian consul, Giuseppe Castruccio, Dr. A. H. Morton, George Clark, and H. A. Malli, the last a representative of the American Legion.

Marchese Marconi's last Fair visit was made incognito. Accompanied by David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America, he went to the amateur radio exhibit in the Travel and Transport building and amused himself for an hour talking to amateurs in different parts of the world.

Earlier he and the marchesa had visited the Art institute. In their party there were Chauncey McCormick, Mrs. R. R. McCormick, Mrs. Carter Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Max Epstein, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, and Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer.

J. P. Donahue, Woolworth Heir, Arrives to See Fair

James Paul Donahue, 19 years old, heir to a fortune of several million dollars, arrived in Chicago from New York yesterday to see the World's Fair, the American Legion convention, and the city's bright spots. The youth will inherit a quarter of an estate, estimated at $50,000,000, left by the late F. W. Woolworth, 5 and 10 cent store magnate. He was accompanied here by James Blakeley, 23 years old, also of New York. They are guests at the Palmer house.

"Gee, mom, this Terraplane's so smooth these goldfish won't even know this is movin' day."
"That'll do for you, Homer. If you get your Mother any more enthusiastic about this family car, I'll have to buy another one just for her!"

How the Terraplane's 54 Records Save You Money and Trouble

"Say," said a visitor the other day, "why all these Terraplane records? Do you expect me to spend the rest of my life beating everybody else up hills?"

"No, sir," we said, "we're just trying to prove to you that a Terraplane will save you money and trouble."

"Well, doggoned if I see how!"

Maybe you're a little puzzled, too. You certainly don't expect to rush up Pikes Peak in a little more than 19½ minutes, or spend your next vacation passing the world's costliest cars on Mt. Baldy or Mt. Washington or Lookout Mountain, as these record-breaking Hudson-built Terraplanes have done.

But—ask yourself: Wouldn't you be mighty glad to own the one car that can do such things?

—The car that has broken every important official stock-car record for hill-climbing and acceleration in America—over cars of any price or horsepower?

—The car that is so strongly-built, so rugged, so reliable, that it can come through such punishment day after day without running to a service-hospital for liniment and bandages?

Of course, you would! And that's the kind of car these 54 records assure you of getting when you buy a Terraplane.

Naturally, a car that stands up under the unmerciful treatment these hard-boiled racing drivers give the Terraplane, is bound to save you money and trouble. Just ask any Terraplane owner.

HURRICANE ROARS ON FLORIDA AFTER SWEEPING CUBA

2 Havana Looters Slain; Snipers Kill 2.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Oct. 4.—Cubans spent the day preparing for an erratic hurricane which is rambling around the Caribbean sea and the Gulf of Mexico. The storm is reported by the Belen college observatory to be headed for Key West and the southern portion of Florida.

At 5 o'clock this afternoon the wind velocity in Havana was reported to be 80 miles an hour by Father Mariano Gutierrez Lanza, director of the observatory. The National observatory said the wind velocity was between 65 and 70 miles an hour and that danger of serious damage to Havana had passed.

Sniping and looting broke out as the gale lashed the city this evening. Four persons were killed. A radical member of the ABC secret society, wearing the uniform of the student Carribean army, was killed in San Lazaro street by shots from a housetop. A soldier on patrol duty was fatally shot, and two men were killed by soldiers while attempting to loot homes evacuated because of the hurricane.

Heavy Rain Soaks Havana.

The gulf has been lashed into high seas and heavy waves are breaking over the Havana sea wall, while a torrential downpour is turning the streets into rivers.

The storm is reported to be moving at a speed of 12 miles an hour. The center of the disturbance passed Havana this afternoon and is reported by the National observatory to be about 20 miles out in the gulf moving toward Key West, which is 90 miles from Havana. The area the hurricane has covered is more extensive than usual.

The storm swirled across Matanzas and Santa Clara provinces, and in the early morning lashed Havana. Then it curved back and headed this way again; and at noon Havana was reported to be in the center of the disturbance.

Dr. Carlos Milias, director of the National observatory, said his reports indicate that little damage was done by the storm in its crossing over Cuba. Huts in the country and flimsy structures in towns were blown down, but the rural loss is believed small and the urban damage almost negligible.

People Take Precautions.

The hurricane which struck Havana early last month had a wind velocity of 100 miles an hour and with this fresh in mind the citizens began early this morning to prepare. Iron shutters were drawn in the stores and secured with timbers, and windows were taped with adhesive strips of tough paper and propped with lumber.

In the Prado the laurel trees were tied down with ropes fastened to iron rings set into the masonry for that purpose. The Belen and National observatories were in disagreement over the pathway of the storm and the velocity of the wind.

Florida Prepares For Storm.

Miami, Fla., Oct. 4. —(AP)—A sudden change in the direction of a tropical disturbance moving northward from Cuba caused Meteorologist Richard W. Gray to warn residents here and at other adjacent cities to take precautionary measures against whole gale winds of from 55 to 75 miles an hour late tonight or early tomorrow.

The disturbance was described as being of hurricane intensity near the center. It will cause northeast shifting to north gales tonight, possibly reaching hurricane force at times on the Florida keys, it was stated, and northeast winds, possibly reaching whole gale force from Miami southward to the Florida keys late tonight or tomorrow forenoon. Northeast gales were predicted for tomorrow north of Miami to Jupiter.

The disturbance was characterized as being "very abnormal" in its change in direction of movement, and a warning was issued that "extreme caution should be exercised by all."

Shortly before the warning was issued here, Meteorologist W. S. Kennedy of Key West, said the wind had increased there to 55 miles an hour and that electric lights had been put out of commission.

Tropical Monster Killed in Chicago

Animal Found Dead

Kensington police yesterday sought to solve the mysterious appearance of a marine iguana, whose habitat is in tropical seas, on the shores of Lake Calumet. A group of small boys discovered the animal late Tuesday night and summoned Sergt. William Enright and Policeman Samuel Griffiths. The policemen went to the lake and brought in the iguana, which is five feet long. It had been dead for several days. It was taken to the Field Museum, where Carl Schmidt, assistant curator, made the identification and said the iguana, which is of unusual size, would be mounted for exhibition.

Several theories were advanced to explain the presence of the iguana. One was that the animal had escaped from some side show; another held that the iguana had been stolen from some museum. A third possible explanation, police said, was that someone who had received the iguana as a pet had become tired of it and tossed it into the lake.

Kunz Contempt Hearing Is Continued to Oct. 26

Municipal Judge N. J. Bonelli yesterday continued to Oct. 26 the hearing on a petition asking that former Congressman Stanley H. Kunz be cited for contempt of court for failure to pay a $1,500 judgment to John Hertz for a race horse Kunz purchased in 1928. The hearing was continued so that Mrs. Kunz might be taken into court. Kunz testified that he was unable to make her appear.

MRS. GREENWAY WINS ARIZONA'S CONGRESS SEAT

Friend of Mrs. Roosevelt Is Easy Victor.

Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 4.—(AP)—Isabella Selmes Greenway, long time friend of the family of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, is Arizona's new representative in congress by overwhelming vote. She succeeds to the seat vacated by Lewis W. Douglas, who resigned last March to become director of the federal budget. Covering approximately 80 per cent of the special election vote yesterday, the count in 381 precincts of the state's 451 gave: Mrs. Greenway, Democrat, 20,502; Dillworth E. Simpter, Socialist, 5,016; H. B. Wilkinson, Republican, 3,527.

Mrs. Roosevelt Happy.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4.—(AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, returning tomorrow for her first winter as White House mistress, will come rejoicing in Arizona's election yesterday of her intimate friend, Mrs. Isabella Greenway, to congress.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who dashed out to Arizona and flew across the state with Mrs. Greenway early in her campaign, has been radiant at the prospect of a long reunion in Washington.

Here will open a new chapter of their peculiarly parallel careers, linked for three decades across a continent by a sister-like kinship of spirit.

Their story begins in the most aristocratic society of aristocratic old New York. They were debutantes at a time and place when the life of a "deb" was dazzling. Tall and graceful Eleanor, the niece of the President of the United States, belonged to one of the "oldest" families. Their names had a habit of clicking along close together in the New York society columns.

At Gladys Vanderbilt's Debut.

And in March, 1905, Isabella was chosen by Mrs. Roosevelt to be one of the six bridesmaids at her wedding to her cousin, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, the only bridesmaid not a relative. While Mrs. Roosevelt, the only bridesmaid not a relative. While Mrs. Roosevelt was honeymooning abroad, Isabella Selmes married Jim Ferguson, a Scot who had galloped with Theodore Roosevelt's Rough Riders.

Marriage rooted Mrs. Roosevelt more firmly in the east. Marriage took Mrs. Ferguson to the southwest in quest of better health for her husband, and she became a rancher, under primitive and pioneer conditions.

Retained Old Ties.

Friendship continued to intertwine their paths. Eleanor, visiting her friend, saw her develop a brilliant salon in a desert spot. Isabella, on occasional trips to New York, kept up the old ties with the most exclusive eastern society. As time went on, Eleanor's children were learning western ranch life "visiting Isabella." And Isabella's children were learning that big city, New York, as guests of Eleanor.

Mrs. Roosevelt once told a group of her friends that fate had seemed to bring her and Isabella together for the most momentous happenings of their lives. Those happenings included the death of Isabella's first husband, her marriage some years later to Arizona's hero, John Greenway, and still later, Greenway's death.

SHOW DROWNING CAUSED DEATH OF GIRL IN SWAMP

Miss Clara Rowe, 17 years old, night club singer of Hammond, who died supposedly from the effects of an illegal operation, actually died of drowning, according to a medical report submitted yesterday to Capt. Paul Wheeler of the East Side station and the coroner's office by Dr. J. J. Kearns.

The girl's body was found Sept. 23 in a swamp near Hyde lake, 124th street and Avenue O. Investigation led to the arrest of her sweetheart, Allen Gatewood of Hammond; Dr. Morris Reich, 13401 Brandon avenue, and Mrs. Belinda Cleeves, 13339 Buffalo avenue, a nurse. It was charged that Dr. Reich had operated upon the girl, that she died in Mrs. Cleeves' home, and that her body was thrown into the swamp.

The medical report declares that Miss Rowe was still alive, when she was thrown into the swamp. Water in her lungs pointed to drowning as the cause of death, Dr. Kearns stated. He also said she evidently had been operated upon. Dr. Reich and Mrs. Cleeves deny that any such operation was performed, but admit taking the girl's body to the swamp. An inquest will be held tomorrow.

VIRGINIA'S VOTE FOR DRY REPEAL IS NEARLY 2 TO 1

Liquor Control Plan Is Given Approval.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 4.—(AP)—Virginia repealists maintained a majority of nearly two to one tonight as returns from yesterday' dual referendum on national and state prohibition came in from remote precincts.

Unofficial returns from 1,409 of the state's 1,690 precincts gave 95,423 votes for repeal of the eighteenth amendment and 53,410 against repeal. With a lesser number of precincts reporting on the state prohibition question, continuation of the present liquor laws was given 50,440 votes to 39,390 for substitution of a liquor control plan. These figures showed a majority of 42,013 for repeal and a majority of 38,890 for the substitution of a liquor control plan.

15 Counties Vote Dry.

The complete vote on national repeal in 15 of the 100 counties showed they voted dry. Two cities also went dry.

The dry counties are Mathews, York, Isle of Wight, Nansemond, Prince Edward, Surry, Grayson, Floyd, Montgomery, Roanoke, Rockingham, Giles, Wythe, Augusta, and Highland.

The dry cities are Danville and Radford.

The dry vote was leading in 19 other counties on the basis of incomplete returns. These counties are Accomac, Lancaster, Middlesex, Northumberland, Southampton, Sussex, Carroll, Charlotte, Halifax, Shenandoah, Bland, Lee, Smyth, Tazewell, Washington, Appomattox, Buckingham, Craig, and Fluvanna.

The wets captured the remaining 22 cities, with the returns complete, and carried repeal in 36 counties where the count was completed. Repeal was leading in the other 29 counties on the basis of incomplete returns.

Farley Sees South Wet.

New York, Oct. 4.—[Special.]—Postmaster General Farley predicted today that all southern states will vote for repeal of the eighteenth amendment overwhelmingly. He was commenting on Virginia's wet vote, which he declared is a good weather vane of southern sentiment on the dry question.

Farley called upon President Roosevelt this afternoon at his home here and said that he will go to Florida next week to speak on the eve of the repeal referendum next Tuesday.

Six states will vote on repeal Nov. 7. They are North Carolina, South Carolina, Ohio, Kentucky, Pennsylvania, and Utah. Virginia was the 32d state to vote wet. Thirty-six wet states are required for repeal.

5,000 PIGEONS TO RACE FROM IOWA TO CHICAGO

As a preliminary to the convention of the American Racing Pigeon association, Oct. 26-29, 5,000 homing pigeons will be released on Saturday at Ames, Ia., to speed back to the lofts where they were raised in Chicago.

The race is being held three weeks before the convention opens at the Stevens hotel, it was explained by Dr. H. Walter Edlund of Maywood, chairman of the awards committee, because by the end of the month the weather is likely to be too cold for sustained flying, and because at that time the pigeons, starting their flight in flocks, would run greater danger of slaughter by hunters. Thirty-five prizes are offered.

The pigeons will be assembled this evening and marked and basketed for their trip to Ames. On Saturday morning James Prusa, conveyor for the Chicago Concourse association, will give the signal to release the 5,000 birds simultaneously on the campus of Iowa State college. When they reach their home lofts their owners will place the countermarks from their legs in a time stamping machine to record the moment of their arrival.

TREASURY FOR $6.40 GALLON RUM TAX; AN EXTRA SESSION ASKED

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4.—It was learned today that while preparing to recommend to congress new liquor taxes as heavy as those imposed in wartime, the treasury department nevertheless does not believe that it can collect much more than 250 million dollars from liquor levies in the first year after repeal.

Meanwhile, a treasury recommendation to President Roosevelt that he call a special session to deal with liquor legislation became a possibility. The first regular session is set for January.

Although no final agreement has been reached, the treasury is seriously considering a tax rate of $6.40 a gallon for hard liquors, the maximum rate in force during the war. Until the change is made the tax will revert to the pre-war rate of $1.10 a gallon.

A minority group in the treasury, however, is arguing that such a stiff rate as $6.40 a gallon—amounting to $1.60 a quart—would encourage bootlegging.

The present theory is that imported liquors, taxed at $5 a gallon by the tariff and whatever excise tax is levied, will swell the total liquor revenue. The total excise taxes on domestic and imported liquors, however, are not expected to exceed 400 million dollars. Most of the money from liquor excise taxes will be earmarked for amortization of the public debt which is being run up in order to finance the recovery program.

Wife Sues Aviator Hubby; Charges Airplane Joy Rides

Mrs. Fay Darrell, 1733½ Juneway terrace, started suit for separate maintenance yesterday in the Superior court against Edwin Darrell Jr., vice president of the North Shore Motor Express company. Her bill, filed by Attorney Norman Becker, charges that Darrell, an amateur flyer, never took her up in his plane, but took other women joy riding and used it as a vehicle for regular visits to a woman living in another state. Judge Rudolph F. Desort granted her an injunction restraining him from disposing of the plane or other assets.

LIQUOR VESSEL RUNS BLOCKADE; GROUNDS; TAKEN

Ship with Million Cargo Is Seized at New York.

New York, Oct. 4.—[Special.]—Frustrated in the boldest attempt in years to slip by the New York harbor patrol with a cargo of liquor, the skipper of a 2,244 ton ship took French leave from his quarterdeck in the early hours today, abandoning his craft and 25,000 cases of Canadian whisky valued at around $1,000,000.

Federal authorities received information some days ago that a ship would attempt to bring a cargo of liquor into New York harbor Monday night. So two coast guard vessels lay in wait.

Among the arriving vessels was a freighter of the type and tonnage and markings of the Newtex fleet, which runs between New York and Galveston, and so do not have to stop at Quarantine. The freighter signaled at Quarantine that she was the Texas Shipper, one of the Newtex vessels.

Up the Hudson Inspector Michael Guilfoyle sighted the ship as he waited for the mysterious rum runner. The skipper signaled that he was unable to stop because of the tide, but that the ship was the Texas Ranger, bound for Albany.

Trying to make Albany with the flood tide, the rum runner struck low water and went aground. The skipper went over the side first, deserting the crew of nineteen. Sensing their danger, the men went ashore, too. A Haverstraw policeman picked them up on suspicion.

CALL ATWELL'S DEATH SUICIDE.

A verdict of suicide while despondent over ill health and financial trouble was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury which investigated the fatal leap Tuesday of George M. Atwell, 65 years old, from the State Bank building, 120 South La Salle street.

MALLOY, APOSTLE OF FEDERALIZED POLICE, IS FIRED

Grand Rapids Speech His Undoing.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—Pat Malloy, assistant attorney general who caused protests by his address at the recent convention of the American Bar association in Grand Rapids, Mich., by demanding federalization of police forces, has been fired.

His resignation, effective tomorrow, was announced today. It has been in the hands of Attorney General Hugh S. Cummings, however, almost ever since Malloy made his speech in Grand Rapids.

The resignation was handed in Sept. 5, a week after Malloy told the Bar association that all police should be put under federal control. The address was made after he had reputedly created his own invitation to appear before the convention.

Claimed Cumming's Backing.

When a flood of protests broke from the convention against the centralization of power which Malloy suggested, he insisted that the proposal had the backing of Attorney General Cummings.

Although he was the first assistant attorney general to be appointed, Malloy has never played an important rôle in the department of justice.

Assigned to Division.

For a long time after his appointment he was given no definite assignment in the department. He was finally assigned to the criminal division, but the attorney general and other officials continued to consult with Frank M. Parrish, assistant head of the division who had been in charge during the change in administrations.

The reason given officially for Malloy's retirement is a desire to return to private practice. The federalization of police, which he urged, has never been approved by Attorney General Cummings, who had been considering only the creation of a small federal squad of trained investigators who would be loaned to the states upon local request.

TURN OFF STREET LIGHTS.

Charleston, Ill., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—By a vote of ten to two, Mation city council discontinued more than one hundred lights on Broadway as an economic move.

2 FRENCH FLYERS HOP AFTER NEW DISTANCE RECORD

ORAN, Algeria, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Jean Assolant and Rene Lefevre, French aviators who flew from Maine to Spain in 1929, started early today toward India in an attempt to beat the nonstop distance flight record established last August by two countrymen, Paul Codos and Maurice Rossi.

Their plane, whose cruising speed is 140 miles a hour, compared to the 105 miles averaged by Codos and Rossi, has been rechristened Canary Bird II. in memory of the craft in which they crossed the Atlantic. If Assolant and Lefevre can surpass the 5,563½ miles CCodos and Rossi flew from New York to Rayak, Syria, they will win a prize of $60,000 offered by Pierre Cot, air minister.

NEW BALLOON FOR STRATOSPHERE FLIGHT ARRIVES

The balloon in which Lieutenant Commander T. G. W. Settle plans to make a second attempt to soar into the stratosphere arrived at the World's Fair yesterday. Lieutenant Commander Settle is expected in Chicago to make final preparations the latter part of this week, and the start of the flight is set for early next week, depending upon weather conditions.

The flight will start from the Goodyear airship base in the Fair grounds at 5 a. m. of the first fit day. Scientific instruments have been placed in the metal gondola for the flight and the gas to inflate the bag is in readiness, it was announced. Settle's first attempt to reach the stratosphere in August ended when the valve cord became caught in the folds of the bag and he was forced to land in a railroad yard.

STAMP THIEF SENTENCED.

Charles Martin, 27 years old, was sentenced to nine months in the Bridewell yesterday by Judge Thomas A. Green for the theft of $3.50 worth of stamps from Mark's clothing store, 6500 South Halsted street.

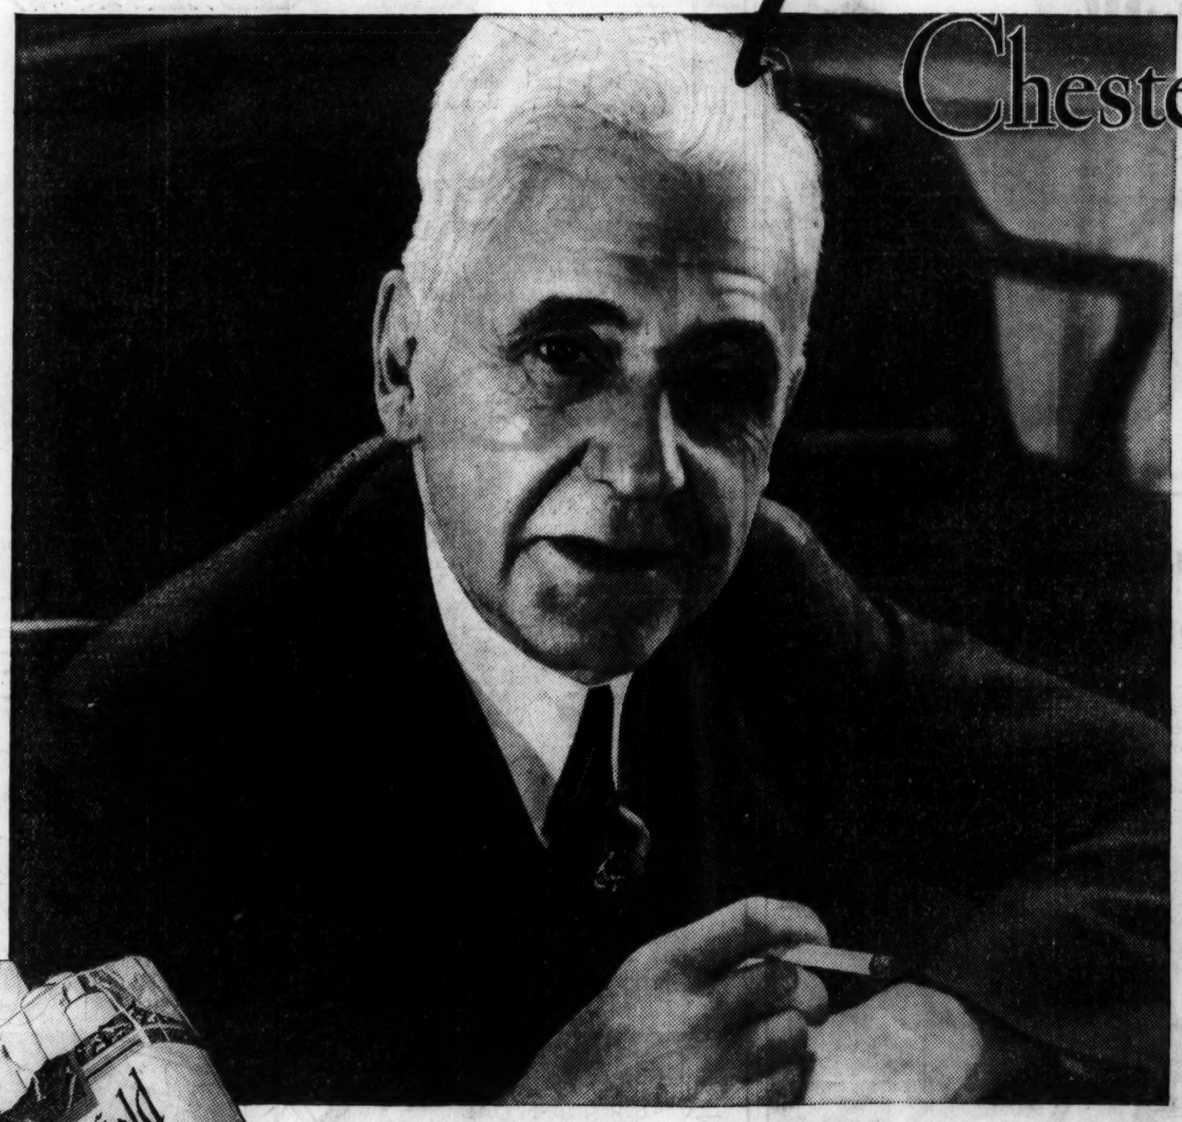
Why— Chesterfields are Milder



TOBACCO to grow, to ripen and become mellow, has to take in or absorb something... not Vitamin D, of course, but something that it gets from the right amount of Sunshine

It's the Southern sunshine you read about, combined with the right sort of climate and moisture, that makes the Carolinas, Georgia, Kentucky, Maryland, and Virginia the best tobacco country in the world.

You can stand down there in that Southern sunshine and almost see it grow.

This ripe, mellow tobacco is skillfully cured by the farmer. Then, for 30 months, it's aged — just like fine wine.

It takes the right quantity of each kind of these tobaccos, blended and cross-blended — then seasoned with Turkish, to make a milder cigarette. Sunshine helps. Just try it!

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

DISHONOR IN INTERNATIONAL DEBTS.

Sir Frederick Leith-Ross brings the British debt to Washington again, not, however, with payment but as a discussion. The midyear installment was what was known as a token payment, a diplomatic evasion of acknowledging that it was something down, but very little; that it did not meet the note, and that it was tendered in pegged up silver. However, it was received with the further acknowledgment that failure to pay in full was not regarded as repudiation or default.

The British were expected to do better on their bond than the other nations and they have done so, excepting a few small but thoroughly honest debtors who have not evaded anything. Great Britain kept faith until after wily debtors from little Greece to big France had told the world they wouldn't pay anything. Nevertheless, whatever diplomacy may make of it, the British did not square their account last summer and the discussion to take place in Washington is apparently not one from which a full payment is to be expected.

Whatever views may be entertained regarding the general attitude of the debtors to their debts, one thing seems to be quite apparent. When governments such as France decided to dishonor a treaty and debt they did an incalculable injury to the law of obligations and contract. If France, with the second largest gold store in the world, could default an obligation of twenty million dollars, the debtor the world over could look at his creditor and deny his claim. The validity and inviolability of contract went to pieces.

Hard pressed individuals, honest in intent, have been able to go to a considerate creditor and lay the case before him. The consideration extended began with the knowledge that the debtor was willing to do his very best in his acknowledgment of every just claim against him. The contract could be modified without being nullified. But in the case of France, selecting the outstanding example, a government able to pay the debt denied that it was justly owed. It disowned its signature and presented willful bad faith instead of the amount due. When this example was followed by other nations the whole fabric of covenant and contract lost its texture.

The new standard of obtaining relief by disavowing a given word would appeal to the individual debtor or great classes of debtors. An American farmer with some show of reasoning would ask why he should be ruined by his mortgage, and particularly by meeting his debts to his own government, when a foreign government got out of its debt to the United States by simply saying it wouldn't pay and that no equity required it to do so. If the French taxpayer was to be relieved of his burden, why should the American die under his? Why should an American home owner lose his home when the French government saved its gold? The proper thing and the permissible thing was for the debtor to thumb his nose at his creditor. Obligations became unjust and freedom from it a right.

The American government, having been treated in this fashion by its foreign creditors, soon adopted the same policy toward its own. It will not pay its creditor now what was written in the bond, but will give him a dollar worth about sixty-four cents of the hundred cents pledged.

Governments are supposed to have the finest sense of honor in the world. They make much of it and frequently exaggerate it. In dealing with their creditor under their debt treaties they dishonor their word and they set an example which a large part of the world now insists shall be the prevailing rule of financial dealing, and no end of the world's difficulties can trace their origin to such repudiation.

ONLY FOUR MORE NEEDED.

Virginia, the 32d state to vote for repeal, adds another of the once doubtful southern electorates to the score against the 18th amendment. The record is unbroken. Only four more states are required for the closing of the national prohibition era. Florida will vote Oct. 10 and in all probability for repeal. Six states hold their elections Nov. 7, these being Ohio, Pennsylvania, North and South Carolina, Kentucky and Utah. Thirty more days will find the country at the door of its release from the 18th amendment and the Volstead act.

It has been announced that as soon as the thirty-sixth state has given its verdict for repeal in its popular election the federal government will cease all pretense of enforcement without waiting for the formal ratification of the repeal amendment by all the state conventions and the official promulgation of the adoption of the repeal amendment. This means that the states must hurry along their provisions for the regulation of the released trade in intoxicating liquors. The day of their release from federal control is almost at hand and they must exercise their own police powers to establish such conditions as they wish to prevail. Not much time remains for decisions in this matter. The moderates who have come into their own again have no desire for a chaotic period during which there are no rules.

POLITICS IN PUBLIC WORKS.

There are recovery theorists who regard the public works program as the phalanx of the administration attack upon depression. Other activities they regard as auxiliaries. Mr. Ickes, secretary of the interior, administering the public works section of the national recovery act, has available three billion three hundred million dollars. It would not be easy to find in politics a man to whom this fund could be more safely intrusted. The secretary of the interior realizes his responsibilities and his dangers. He may be relied upon to do the best he can to keep fraud and futility from utterly destroying the purpose of the program. The danger is that it is beyond the power of any one man or set of men to control the influence which will determine that a public works program shall be wasteful and ineffectual.

The money to be used is not the gift of a fairy godfather. When the reckoning comes it must be paid out of private pockets. The reckoning may be delayed, but the debt will come due. It will be assessable against private enterprise. Whatever any administration of public works may try to do, the disposition of the money must be political. There can be no exceptions to this. Safeguards may be erected, but the rule of politics is almost completely a contradiction of the rule of private business. In politics it is permitted to make an investment of money which would be regarded as scandalous in private affairs. Tradition permits it and there is no public verdict against it. A transaction will be permitted in the political use of money which a private administrator of conscience would regard as criminal.

Conscientious private use of investments is governed by requirements of profit and safe return. These are definite facts ascertainable in accounting. There is no such test of a political investment. One highly advantageous to the politicians who control it may be a sheer waste so far as the public is concerned. Even under the conscientious Mr. Ickes it is already to be seen that in the apportionment of public funds the important political states are being favored regardless of the national good involved. These are California and New York, the latter being the home state of the President and the former the state of that very competent politician Hiram Johnson, to whose influence Mr. Ickes owes a great deal.

The public works fund must, when the accounting is made, come from private enterprise, and it cannot be used as it would be used by the citizens from whom it is taken. Whatever the intentions of administrators may be, the public money will flow into the least useful and least productive enterprises of the country. It will go into the back waters of the Tennessee valley. It will build dams and will be spent on waste lands. It will go into overextended government plants and into projects where it will be frozen, with no possibility of productivity. It may afford temporary employment, but there will be no return on the investment when the work has been done. Maintenance costs will be increased and communities will have white elephants on their hands.

Politicians will be satisfied when they have brought excessive bounties into their districts and when they have costly monuments of government folly standing as reminders that politics is wasteful business. Unthinking people may believe they have been benefited by a completed project for which they have no use and for which they will have to pay. But the sum total of the whole adventure will be the waste of resources, contributing nothing to the wealth of the nation and gaining little on the credit side even if in the waste of the money there were some temporary pay rolls.

Mr. Ickes will do his best, but neither he nor any other man can escape from the conditions which surround the use of public funds in political enterprise. The law of politics is unescapable and it is inconsistent with public benefit.

ANOTHER EXPERT ON RUSSIA.

Senator McAdoo is the latest addition to our corps of qualified experts on the soviet régime. He has made an airplane trip to Moscow and had two long and pleasant talks with Foreign Minister Litvinoff during which recognition was not discussed, but the senator, "using his eyes and ears," gathered the impression that the soviet government would be pleased at recognition. What is more important is that the California statesman was well impressed with what he saw in Moscow and is glad that he has seen conditions for himself. Thus we may expect that the senator will contribute weightily to any debate upon our relations with Russia in that august body of which he is an ornament. The senator's record when secretary of the treasury as an expert in foreign loans should give a special weight to the support we expect he is now ready to give to a policy of liberal loans for the soviet from the overflowing coffers of Uncle Sam.

Editorial of the Day

[Peoria Transcript.]

In the "jungles" along the railroad tracks hobos for many years have been dreaming of an ideal world in which "pork chops grow on bushes" and "little streams of whisky come trickling down the rocks." The two dolorous songs, expressing the heaven to which knights of the road aspire, are called "The Big Rock Candy Mountain" and "The Dying Hobo."

Evidently Mr. Hopkins, federal emergency relief director, has been listening to his radio and has heard the songs, for he has announced a plan to make the hobo's dream come true. He has an ambitious scheme for "itinerants" and "rovers," modeled after the forest army camp project.

Hopkins doesn't exactly offer to trade the knights of the road streams of whisky or canned heat or pork chop bushes for handouts, but he does offer to put them in construction camps, where they will be fed on surplus food and clothed with surplus cotton.

The Hopkins plan calls for three square meals a day, a little work, and considerable discipline. The idea may be acceptable to the newer converts to the ancient profession of panhandling, but veterans are sure to resent it.

The very word "concentration" is going to rankle the real hobo. The only concentration he wants is the occasional fellowship of another 'bo in a jungle camp. The idea of changing his socks regularly, shaving daily, standing inspection, and living according to definite routine is certain to be distasteful.

To the younger men who have become hobos simply because there was nothing else to do, the Hopkins camps may look like the "Big Rock Candy Mountain" moved down to earth.

But the real hobo, spurred on from place to place by an inner wanderlust, will realize that the camps are a bogus paradise designed to eliminate his tribe from the face of the earth.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the chips fall where they may.

THE LEGION PARADE is over, but it's going to be days and days before I can make myself believe that I'm not hearing a million drums beating and a million bugles blowing. He's probably dead now, but the first man I am going to ask old man Charon about when I cross the river Styx is the guy that invented drums and bugle horns. And when we land on the farther shore and Charon points him out and says, "That's the bird over there, drinking beer with Bill Shakespeare and Julius Cæsar and Marco Polo," I'm going to walk right over, bow to Mr. Cæsar and Mr. Shakespeare and Mr. Polo very politely and say, "Excuse me, gents; I don't want to spoil your party, but I've got to bust this guy with you right straight on the beezer." It will probably cause a coolness between Mr. Cæsar and Mr. Shakespeare and myself that may last several thousand years, but I've got to beat up that bird that invented drums, no matter if it was Alexander the Great or Nebuchadnezzar, the w. k. king of Babylon.

OCTOBER.

And southward flees to greet her old-time friends,
She takes the blossoms and the azure blue
And all the singing birds. October sends
Abroad his warning of the coming snow
And bids us heap again the corded wood,
The frost arrives and makes the forest glow
With phantom fires. But these portend no good,
For from the sea there soon shall rise a blast
Then everywhere, beneath skies overcast,
But why be sad? For fires shall then be bright,

THE NATIONAL SAFETY CONGRESS, in session in Chicago, asks a uniform state law requiring every automobile driver to establish his ability before granting him a license. No use. An attempt was made to get some sort of auto drivers' license law through the Illinois legislature, but it died so suddenly and mysteriously no clew has ever been found as to what became of it. But at least we might be able to get a law requiring owners of cars to answer the following five questions: [1] What is a brake? [2] Which is your right hand and which is your left? [3] Which stands the better chance if they happen to collide, an automobile or a railroad train? [4] What is the meaning of the word "STOP" when seen at country crossroads? [5] What is your interpretation of the mystic words, "Use Outer Lane Only for Passing Car Ahead?"

"PROF. OGBURN Says NRA Faces Crisis in Next Six Months."—Headline. Listen, prof., if you are given to reading the big type on the front page of any newspaper you happen to pick up you should know that NRA faces a crisis in every edition, and if you turn to the second or third page you will observe that it faces two or three crises at one and the same time. The first thing that anybody does who isn't heartily pleased with NRA is to sic a crisis on it. And NRA has grown so used to it that it just flicks 'em off and says, "Oh, another of them damn things!"

"CROWD IN TEXAS TOWN Trees a Bear, but Can't Get Him Down."—Headline. Well, it may be a bear, but it's more likely Jack Garner. The Vice President was last heard of somewhere down that way. Anyhow, if they can get him down we hope they send him right back to Washington.

Now that's over with Mr. McKee is quite free to declare, "We will stand shoulder to shoulder in this great battle and sweep on to a glorious victory" and "Let us redeem the fair name of our great city." Then he can take up the other issues of the campaign.

SPAIN may have been a cruel tyrant when she ruled Cuba and can never be sufficiently despised by every Cuban, but, amigos, remember some of the good things that poor old Spain did for Cuba. Spain built the great gloomy fortress of Cabanas at Havana, so full of deep dungeons and damp, dark cells. And if it wasn't for Cabanas where would the freedom-loving people of Cuba lock up the other half of the freedom-loving people of Cuba? Liberty is a glorious thing, but it would have a very hard time if it was deprived of the nice jails built by tyranny.

THE BETTER HALF OF IT.

I know you need a manicure
And a new trim of hair;
A neater crease to your old pants,
But yet, I do not care!
You never say you love me,
You never notice stars,
And I detest the stinging smoke
Of your five cent cigars.
You never praise my cooking,
Nor help me wash or sweep;
You overlook my birthdays,
And buzz-saw in your sleep!
But yet I'd wither to a straw
Were we to live apart;
For all your homely little ways
Are rooted in my heart!

JAUNDICE—WHAT OF IT?

A NEW born babe is a pink proposition. The skin is thin, and within it there is plenty of good red blood. The bleaching out process starts within a few days. First there develops a faint yellowish hue rather easily seen in good daylight. Within a week, as a rule, this jaundice passes away and the child appears to be something near the original pink color, but the lobster hue of the first day is never fully reached thereafter. After that comes a slow, long drawn out bleaching process which is apt to end in a marked pallor.

This story deals with the jaundice which is so apt to appear in the first week of life. This jaundice may be any one of several kinds, some of which are just a part of nature's schedule, while others are matters of great importance.

Human blood always contains a certain amount of a yellow pigment called bilirubin, derived from the wearing out of hemoglobin. In a baby two or three days old this coloring matter is about six times as plentiful as it is in the blood of a normal adult. At the same time there is a drop in the percentage of hemoglobin and a change in the character of the blood cells. All of this is because the blood of an unborn child is made in a slightly different way and has slightly different work to do. When birth comes some readjustments are needed. This brings about some jaundice. A baby about three days old that has a little yellowing of the skin and eyes, but feels well, acts as though he were not in trouble, and has no fever, no enlargement of the liver nor of the spleen—such a baby is all right. The jaundice is just a part of the program. No treatment is called for. So much for what might be called normal jaundice in young babies.

Unfortunately there are several kinds of jaundice in such babies that are not to be disregarded. How are the dangerous varieties to be distinguished from the other kinds? The history of the mother's pregnancy helps. If she had much vomiting, eclampsia, convulsions, or Bright's disease, jaundice in the baby should be carefully studied. It is quite apt to be of the dangerous kind. What is the baby's family history as regards serious jaundice in the babies? Has the mother lost other children from jaundice? Is the baby's liver enlarged? If so, that is a bad sign. Is the spleen enlarged? Another bad sign. Is the child having much fever? An examination of the blood sometimes shows indications of a serious disease. And finally, how about the cord? Is it infected or is it drying up as it should?

If the jaundice is of the serious sort the physician must get busy. Whether or not the baby is to live depends very much on how quickly he thinks and acts. The best single procedure is transfusion.

DUE TO OBSTRUCTION.

C. I. writes: Please explain the meaning of hydronephrosis.

REPLY.

In hydronephrosis one or both kidneys are dilated until there is some resemblance to a cyst. The cause is some obstruction in the urinary tract causing urine to dam back in the ureter and pelvis of the kidney. Among the possible obstructions are stones in the ureter, bladder, or kidneys, tumors of the bladder or elsewhere in the pelvis, enlarged prostate, structures in the urethra or ureters, kink in the ureter due to floating kidney.

VEINS IN THE LEGS.

G. B. writes: What causes veins on the legs, especially above the knee on the sides? I feel so conscious of this when I put on my bathing suit. I am a young girl and would like to know how I can get rid of them.

REPLY.

You may never know what caused them and certainly you will never know how to get rid of them. Instead of being ashamed of them, why not brag about them? They are better than beauty patches, since everybody can buy those. You may make them fashionable. The veins, as you call them, are unimportant. Your mental reaction may not be.

FRIEND OF THE FARMER

Inquiries on farm management, financing or governmental regulations addressed to this department must be accompanied by stamped, addressed envelope for reply.]

H. O. P. asks: I still owe some back taxes and interest on an Indiana farm bought in 1924 at much higher values than have been given on nearby farms in recent years. I am told the government loans only up to half the appraised value. Isn't there some other way to qualify for a loan to enable me to hold this farm?

Answer: Yes. A federal land commissioner's loan may be secured together with a federal land bank loan to refinance your farm. Should your indebtedness exceed the borrowing power of security offered, it is frequently possible to get the creditors to agree to scale down their claims to the amount that can be borrowed from these two sources. The land commissioner may loan up to three-fourths of the real and personal property appraised value.

NRA Question Box

Following are typical questions occasioned by the national recovery act and their answers, as given by Paul Kunning, secretary of the Chicago Recovery council, which is aiding President Roosevelt's economic rehabilitation movement here. Other questions and their answers will be given daily.

A.—Telegraph messenger boys are exempted from the minimum wages. In offices located in cities and towns or isolated places where there are no more than three employes, excluding messengers, they are also exempted from the limitation on working hours.

Q.—Does the NRA establish maximum prices?

A.—There is no regulation for price control as yet, and the NRA can do nothing to limit retail prices until the master codes have been approved carrying provisions to this effect.

THE CASE FOR THE STREET CAR.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—In an editorial in today's TRIBUNE the entirely erroneous statement is made that "the city of New York is to get rid of its surface street car lines within a year and a half." On the basis of this statement the conclusion is drawn that Chicago would be better off with buses than with street cars.

In the five boroughs of the city of New York there is a total street car mileage of 994.7 miles. In Manhattan alone there is a total mileage of 200.9 miles.

The only street car track that it is proposed to abandon for the substitution of buses is a fraction over 83 miles of the New York railways.

The conversion of this small property is not due primarily to any decision that buses are more effective than street cars. For a number of years the New York Railways corporation has belonged to the Omnibus Corporation of America, which operates the Fifth Avenue Coach Company of New York and the Chicago Motor Coach company. It was bought by the omnibus company for the purpose of obtaining the rights under the railways company's perpetual franchise. The equipment on this property is of a very old and antiquated type and the road bed is of the expensive underground trolley type, which is very costly to maintain and very unsatisfactory in service.

Consequently the owners of these properties were faced with the necessity of buying new rail equipment and maintaining at extremely high expense this costly track and underground structure or of changing to bus equipment, and quite naturally the Omnibus Corporation of America preferred to use buses.

It is not the opinion of well-informed engineers that traffic could be handled better in Chicago with motor coaches than with street cars. It is true that on certain street car line streets where parking is permitted along the curb, and where there is room for only two lanes in the same direction, traffic is delayed; but it is true also that it would be delayed at least as much by buses as by street cars, because the parked automobiles would force the buses to use the inner lane, thus slowing up traffic in the same way.

Moreover, at least one and three-fourths more equipment units would be required if buses were used than are necessary with street cars, and it is the experience that buses create considerably more nuisance in traffic in swinging in and out than street cars which move on a fixed track. Experience in Chicago has shown, also, that modern street cars make much better speed from point to point than buses and provide a more comfortable ride than is possible on buses which must bump over rough pavements.

The trend is to segregate traffic, providing boulevards for through motor traffic and thus leaving street car lines free for mass public transportation. Much progress has been made in the development of the boulevard system in Chicago. At the same time the Chicago Surface Lines has greatly improved its speed of operation, and studies of new equipment promise much greater transportation speeds in the near future.

The two million passengers carried daily by the Chicago Surface Lines are accommodated with greater convenience to the passenger, with greater speed of operation and much less interference with other traffic, than could possibly be done through the use of buses.

GUY A. RICHARDSON,
President, Chicago Surface Lines.

FROM MR. DUNHAM.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—My attention has been called to a letter signed by "A Taxpayer," appearing in THE TRIBUNE of Sept. 30, which states that "a considerable number of persons active in communist organizations are employed by the tax supported relief agencies."

"A Taxpayer" does not furnish specific data to support this statement, and as he does not sign his name to his letter so that he can be contacted on this matter, it is impossible for the Illinois Emergency Relief commission to make an investigation of his charges. If he will supply me with the information to which he refers I shall take immediate action on it. If he does not wish to be publicly involved in any investigation that may follow I shall be pleased to respect his feelings in this matter, if he will merely indicate them.

This request may be considered as personal by every one who has any knowledge that the commission might use in improving its administration of relief. People who know of abuses in the use of relief funds are asked to write me about them with the assurance that information supplied confidentially will be treated in that way. Naturally, as gigantic a job as that which the Illinois Emergency Relief commission is doing is bound to have some shortcomings in it, but we intend to remove these shortcomings as rapidly as they are uncovered, and I am publicly asking the citizens of Illinois to assist me in this task.

A WORD FOR BILL TERRY.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—May an old time Frank Chance Cub fan offer his congratulations to Bill Terry and the Giants? It is the first time in history that the city of New York has been represented by a team of good sportsmen, a team who used their spikes in the ground, their fists for gripping bats and handling balls, and who did their fighting for ball games only. A courageous bunch of lads who did not even have the support of their own press and public. More power to the 1933 Giants and Bill Terry, a credit to the city they represent and to their league.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A note and several bad checks were turned over to an attorney six years ago for collection. No attempt has been made to perform by this attorney. Requests have been made for the return of these papers. Now this attorney states same have been lost. What redress have I in this case? F. C. W.

He would be liable for their value unless he could show that he was not to blame, but in view of the time that has elapsed without collection it seems doubtful if you can prove that the papers had any substantial value.

SENATE TO VOTE ON STATE RELIEF FINANCING TODAY

30 Million Bond Issue Is Urged on Assembly.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—An effort to put the 30 million dollar relief program through the state senate is to be made tomorrow.

Following a forceful presentation of this problem to the general assembly today, legislative leaders fell in with Gov. Horner's recommendation that an attempt be made to finish half the lawmaking task this week, so that the second half may be completed next week and make possible an early termination of the first special session.

The house of representatives knocked off work for the week, and the spokesmen for the senate agreed to bring the six bill program to a vote tomorrow. Telegrams are being dispatched to absentees.

Joint Session Hears Pleas.

A joint session of the two houses made an unprecedentedly strong showing for relief. Gov. Horner sat on the rostrum of the house with Lieut. Gov. T. F. Donovan and Speaker Arthur Roe, and saw to it that the various speakers covered all the phases of the subject.

The most important of those to argue for the bond issue plan was Speaker Rainey of the national house of representatives, but energetic talks were made also by members of the Illinois emergency relief commission. They included the new chairman, Robert J. Dunham; two Republicans, recently reappointed, George A. Barr of Joliet and Omer H. Wright of Belvidere; William H. Sexton, and the executive head of the commission, Wilfred S. Reynolds. In addition to speaking as a member, Mr. Sexton, who is corporation counsel of Chicago, also spoke as a representative of that city.

The most dramatic occurrence of the hearing came when Senator Noah M. Mason of Oglesby, a Republican of anti-Chicago tendencies, attempted to put the expected contention that added state relief is not needed since the announcement of President Roosevelt's plan for direct distribution of food and clothing by the federal government.

Reads Telegram from Hopkins.

The reply was ready for him. Mr. Reynolds immediately read a telegram just received by Gov. Horner from Harry L. Hopkins, director of the federal relief administration.

That telegram read as follows:

"Federal emergency relief administration has not changed its requirement that the state and local communities assume a just share of unemployment relief. I am expecting the state of Illinois to provide funds on the basis agreed upon with you and your committee. There has been no change in federal policy in this respect. Statements to the contrary giving unintentional misinformation."

The exact needs of the state were placed squarely before the legislators by Chairman Dunham who disclosed some of the figures expected to appear in the forthcoming report of the relief commission.

Gives Figures on Needs.

He said that $55,900,000 will be required to carry on the public charity work until July 1, 1934, a period of nine months. Including $14,350,000 from the state sales tax, the proceeds of which until Dec. 31, are devoted to relief, the commission has in sight only $28,600,000.

"This amount," he said, "falls short of the needed amount by over 27 million dollars."

Mr. Barr was emphatic in declaring that downstate charges of discrimination in favor of Chicago are unfounded.

"Partisan politics are adjourned for the present and they must be," said Speaker Rainey. "We don't want to make a Cuba of Illinois."

Corporation Counsel Sexton stressed the fact that Chicago voted for last year's 20 million dollar relief bond issue 1,279,292 to 144,407 and predicted that approval of the proposed new issue would be just as overwhelming

Predicts $50,000,000 Debt Cut for Chicago This Year

BY AL CHASE.

As a result of economy, Chicago's major local governments will owe about $50,000,000 less at the close of 1933 than they did a year ago, according to John O. Rees, director of the Chicago committee on public expenditures. He spoke last night on "The Prospects for Governmental Cost and Lower Taxes" before the Chicago Real Estate board in its quarters, 32 West Randolph street.

Mr. Rees said that the 1932 realty taxes, payable in a few months, will be between 60 and 70 per cent of the peak of 1930 taxes.

"Between Dec. 1, 1932, and Oct. 1, 1933, there had been collected about $190,000,000 of current and delinquent taxes in Cook county," he said. "This will be more than $200,000,000 before the end of this year. About $165,000,000 will have been collected from current and delinquent taxes for the major governments this year.

Expenses of $100,000,000.

"The actual expenses of the major local governments, payable from 1933 taxes, will be about $100,000,000, including interest on tax warrants. During this year there will have been tax collections for the major governments of about $165,000,000, as against new obligations incurred, payable from taxes, of about $100,000,000, interest due on bonds of $15,800,000 and principal due on bonds of about $38,700,000.

"Most of the collections must be applied to the payment of obligations of previous years. However, I estimate that the major governments will owe about $50,000,000 less at the close of 1933 than they did at the close of 1932. This is progress and it has been possible because of sharp reductions in expenses below the peak of 1930.

Sees Further Tax Cuts.

"The 1932 real estate taxes, payable in a few months, will go between 60 and 70 per cent of the peak 1930 taxes. The 1933 taxes, payable in about 15 months, should be still lower.

"The thing which may tend to prevent further decreases in taxes will be deficiency levies for bonds and interest and tax levies for new bonds if more are sold for any other purpose except refinancing. Nearly one-half of the 1933 tax bills will be due to maturing bonds, interest upon bonds and tax warrants and public employé pensions."

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $691,693, making a total of $75,869,760 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the last four years follow:

Oct. 4	$ 37,665	$ 66,303
Uncollected	17,217,670	45,671,711
	1930.	1931.
Oct. 4	$ 155,718	$ 432,007

THREAT OF DEATH HAUNTS KELLY IN URSCHEL CASE

State Charges Balk His Plea of Guilty.

Oklahoma City, Oct. 4.—[Special.]—George [Machine Gun] Kelly, according to John V. Roberts of Enid, counsel for Mrs. Kathryn Kelly, would like to plead guilty to a federal charge of kidnaping and defend his wife in that case. The worst that he could get under the new federal statute would be a long term of imprisonment.

But, "for obvious reasons," James H. Mathers, his lawyer, said tonight, "Kelly cannot afford to plead guilty in the Charles F. Urschel kidnaping case."

Mathers is defending both Kelly and Albert Bates in a state case. The latter is one of the seven convicted of conspiracy to kidnap Urschel. The state charges are robbery with a gun. That case is based on the stealing of slightly over $50 from Walter Jarrett, a friend, who, with his wife, was playing cards with Mr. and Mrs. Urschel when two kidnapers arrived. The two armed kidnapers, afterward identified as Kelly and Bates, did not know which one was Urschel, so they kidnaped both.

Jarrett, robbed and released, brings the shadow of death over Kelly and Bates, for robbery with a gun carries that maximum penalty, when the sum obtained is $50 or over. If he pleaded guilty to the kidnaping, Kelly virtually would admit his share in the robbery of Jarrett.

TRY 4 AS DELIBERATE MURDERERS TO GET VICTIM'S INSURANCE

New York, Oct. 4.—[Special.]—Four men went on trial in the Bronx County court today charged with having insured a derelict and then having killed him to collect the insurance money—$1,800.

The victim, Michael Malloy, was first run down by a taxicab, District Attorney Samuel J. Foley told the jury, and when he survived the injuries he was poisoned with gas.

The prosecutor characterized the defendants as "ruthless killers" and demanded the death penalty for all of them.

The four men on trial are Francis Pasqua, 24 years old, an undertaker; Daniel Kreisberg, 29; Anthony Marino, 27, all of the Bronx, and Joseph Murphy, 28, no home.

Foley told the jury that the defendant, Murphy, struck up a friendship with Malloy and had him insured for $1,800 under the name of Nicholas Mallory. Murphy himself posing as Edward Mallory, a brother and beneficiary.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller today will demand the death penalty for five youthful west side hoodlums on trial before Judge Benjamin Epstein on charges of murdering Vito Pisciatti, 3152 5th avenue, in a robbery on Feb. 4. The taking of testimony was completed yesterday and closing arguments will be started this morning.

Pisciatti and several friends were engaged in a friendly poker game when the five hoodlums entered his home. The defendants are James Palumbo, 23 years old, accused of having been the actual killer; Sam Mirabile, 25 years old; Tony Venezia, 19 years old; John Terracino, 20 years old, and Frank Pascocciello, 19 years old.

Fanelli, Catuara, and Palermo also will be tried on Oct. 10 on charges of vagrancy under the new reputation law. Belcastro is at libery on bond pending an appeal from a sentence of six months on a vagrancy charge.

Joe Saitis, once south side beer power, appeared yesterday before Judge Green and obtained a continuance until Oct. 10. Saitis appeared in court last week to surrender, but walked out when he discovered that he could not put up $10,000 bond on a vagrancy charge. FINDS TREASURE CHART IN OLD WATCH; TELLS OF $250,000 BURIED GOLD

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 4.—(AP)—With a chart he found in an old tarnished watch, M. C. Rice wants to go hunting for rich treasure on a South Sea island. Six years ago he got the timepiece from a woman for repairing a clock. When he cleaned the watch the other day, he found the chart inside, and this letter, dated 1868:

"Paul, my son, I am not long for this world. I fear I cannot bring you this chart, as I planned, so the only course left is to hide it in some place and hope you find it. I am the only one surviving with this secret. At the spot shown lies a tidy sum, at least £50,000 in gold bars [about $250,000] and coin. This island is small, uncharted and far from the main sailing. The chest is buried eight feet. Good luck, lad, and leave the sea. It's no life for you. J. L. Trinidad."

7 AUTO MAKERS DEMAND STRIKE END TOMORROW

Declare Detroit Loses Heavily by Row.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 4.—(AP)—Seven Detroit automobile manufacturers today issued a statement setting Friday as the deadline for the return to work of striking tool and die makers. Those who do not do so will be regarded as no longer employés.

Meanwhile, C. C. Richards, president of the Automotive Tool and Diemakers' association of Detroit, pleaded to the strikers to settle the strike which, he said, "looks further from settlement than it did a week ago." Manufacturers said the strike has caused a $3,000,000 loss of business in Detroit alone.

The "deadline" statement was issued jointly by the Cadillac Motor Car company, the Chevrolet Motor company, the Dodge Brothers corporation, the Fisher Body corporation, the Hudson Motor Car company, the Packard Motor Car company, and the Plymouth Motor corporation.

It said the automobile manufacturers who have signed the national automobile code have been operating in good faith under the NRA and have lived up to the letter of the code, that there was no controversy known to them when the strike started.

Two Ford Strikers Seized.

Police said some of the stones were thrown back by the men in the truck, one striking and breaking a barber shop window. No injuries were reported.

Two Wounded During Fight.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—Two men were seriously wounded and many others were clubbed and trampled today during a clash between pickets and steel workers in Ambridge, Pa., as labor violence and unrest continued to spread into the rich Beaver valley.

A five minute riot ensued in front of the Spang-Chalfant company's steel plant in Ambridge when 300 pickets closed in on 100 men who were attempting to go to work at the mill, where a strike has been in progress since yesterday. Deputy sheriffs laid down a tear gas barrage to quell the battle, in which fists, clubs, and bricks flew.

Picket Is Shot.

Al Curry, 30, a steel worker, suffered a skull fracture. Luke Starchenko, 37, a picket, was shot in the abdomen. It was reported that a deputy sheriff fired the shot that struck the picket and that a "dum dum" bullet was used.

Meanwhile, more than two-thirds of the 75,000 soft coal miners out on strike in the district refused to go back, despite pleas of federal government officials and commands of their national leaders. Picket lines continued in front of nearly all mines in an effort to strangle the production of the soft coal fields.

At the Carnegie Steel company's Clairton works and at the Weirton Steel company's plants at Weirton and Clarksburg, W. Va., and Steubenville, O., persistent pickets kept up long lines.

E. T. Weir, chairman of the National Steel company, parent concern of the Weirton company, said his company will not recognize the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel, and Tinplate Workers. He announced that plans are going forward to operate in spite of the strike.

A plea that the miners return to work and allow the federal government and the operators to settle the problems confronting that industry was made by Patrick Fagan, district president of the United Mine Workers of America. He said a better feeling is noticeable among the men, and predicted that many would soon return to their jobs.

He said that the NRA agreement is being violated by mine superintendents who are refusing to recognize union committees.

The automobile in which the killers of Policeman Miles Cunningham made their escape on the night of Sept. 21, after they had stolen two sacks of federal reserve bank mail, was found yesterday at Rockford and Chief of Detectives Schoemaker at once sent finger print experts there to examine it. The fleeing robbers stole the car from Nicholas Campobasso, 3621 Auburn avenue, at 21st street and Ashland avenue.

AWARD CONTRACTS FOR MORRIS BRIDGE ON ILLINOIS SEAWAY

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—The state highway department today let contracts for the construction of the new bridge over the Illinois river at Morris, replacing a structure which United States army engineers have termed a bottle neck in the Illinois waterway.

It is impossible for barges to pass the piers of the present bridge two abreast, the manner in which river tows are made up. Construction of the bridge has been delayed for more than a year by disputes over the site and right of way troubles.

After the highway department intervened and insisted upon the present site eighteen months ago, it was charged by Morris citizens that former Attorney General Carlstrom was dilatory in pressing suits to condemn the right of way.

Attorney General Kerner started action upon the 17 suits when he took office in January, and the last of them was settled last Saturday. The Wisconsin Bridge and Iron company of Milwaukee was awarded the contract today for the substructure, costing $109,936, and the McClintic-Marshall corporation of Chicago that for the superstructure at $232,771.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] today blamed political "red tape" in the Illinois public works advisory board for delaying action on an application for $2,300,000 to construct the proposed outer drive bridge in Chicago.

Filed by Lincoln park board officials a week ago, Mr. Britten charged, the application has lain idly in the offices of the state advisory board ever since. Officials in Washington who must pass finally on the loan request have not yet been advised of its formal presentation, he said.

"I have called upon the officers of the federal administration of public works yesterday and again today, but am told that the application, now seven days old, has not yet been received in Washington.

"Political red tape has undoubtedly pigeon-holed this application somewhere and until it finally reaches the department of Secretary Ickes it will continue to lie dead."

WAITS ON SOUTH PARKS.

Joshua D'Esposito, engineer for the state advisory board on public works, denied yesterday that Lincoln park's application for a loan for the outer bridge has been pigeonholed. He says the board is waiting to get the south park's application in order to send them together to Washington.

"There's no use sending down one-half of the project," said D'Esposito.

The south park application will be back from the printers tomorrow and will probably be filed some time during the day.

MOBILIZE STATE TROOPS FOR DUTY IN COAL FIELDS

BULLETIN.

Harrisburg, Ill., Oct. 5 [Thursday.]—(AP)—Four companies of the Illinois National Guard were ordered to mobilize by Lieut.-Col. Robert W. Davis preparatory to moving into Saline county to preserve peace among mining factions. As Lieut.-Col. Davis gave his order, miners of the Progressive union were gathering at Harco, Harrisburg and Dorrisville to head off United mine workers as the latter go to the mines today. Officials said the local miners are openly armed.

At 3:30 o'clock this morning, as State's Attorney John Kane was talking with Gov. Horner at Springfield on the telephone, the town was rocked by two mighty bombs somewhere on the outskirts. The governor asked Kane to notify Claude Pearcy, president of the Progressive union, that unless he was able to call off the threatened encounter he would not be admitted to the "peace" meeting in Springfield today.

Harrisburg, Ill., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—The situation in the coal fields of southern Illinois, in which a three cornered fight among operators, regular unionists and outside unionists has brought about considerable disorder, today caused state authorities to take action along two lines.

First, Gov. Horner in Springfield called a meeting of the operators and both union factions, to be held in his office tomorrow. A representative of the federal government also was requested to be present.

Second, Lieut. Col. Robert W. Davis announced at Carbondale that all members of the Illinois National Guard in southern Illinois had been instructed to hold themselves in readiness for service in the Saline county mining district.

Two Homes Bombed.

The disorders took a serious turn here last night. A bomb was set off in front of the home of John H. Davis, shattering windows in this and six other houses. Five minutes later another bomb was tossed at the home of Hugh McDole.

Davis and McDole belong to the regular union, the United Mine Workers of America, which has contracts with most of the mines in central and southern Illinois. Members of the Progressive union, an insurgent group separated from the regular union, are striving to force recognition of their organization.

Miner Shot in Leg.

Allegations that mine owners are violating the NRA code were made at Gillespie today by Claude E. Pearcy, president of the Progressive union.

Formal protests sent to Gen. Hugh Johnson by Pearcy related that the Progressive unionists had applied to the operators for employment and had been turned down. They were told they would be employed, Pearcy declared, only if they made their peace with the regular union and joined it.

"The operators are attempting to force the miners of Illinois to belong to an organization which is generally recognized as a company union, in violation of the coal code, which provides that employés have a right to belong to a union of their own choosing," Pearcy said.

Operators have held to the position that they have an exclusive contract with the United Mine Workers and cannot hire men not belonging to that faction without violation of the contracts.

Frances Perkins Says Wages Will Go Higher as U. S. Gains

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4.—(AP)—The demands of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, for shorter working hours and higher minimum wages than are now being incorporated in NRA codes was given today the direct support of Secretary Frances Perkins.

That cabinet member, whose appointment as secretary of labor the federation's high command opposed only a few months ago, went before the A. F. of L. annual convention.

"We cannot stop with the present minimum wages and maximum hours of labor," Miss Perkins said, as the 500 delegates and their guests cheered.

"We must go on with a unified purpose to an ever improving standard of living and assurance of economic security for all our people and sufficient leisure to enable us to enjoy the blessings which our resources and our equipment can make available to all of us."

Works Program Under Fire.

A few hours before Miss Perkins carried her message of coöperation to the federation, eight national and international unions had joined in a denunciation of the handling of the $3,300,000,000 public works program with its potential millions of jobs.

The resolution which they asked the convention to approve said that "through the laxity or the inefficiency of those entrusted with the expenditure" of the money, thousand of industrial workers "are in suffering and want."

The resolution proposed an appeal to President Roosevelt "for the removal of those public officials who either through their laxity or their inefficiency are responsible for much of the present unemployment, unless those now in charge can show their willingness to carry out the intent of congress."

Secretary Harold Ickes, who is administrator of the public works fund, recently said the blame lay in the slowness of state and local authorities and not in federal red tape.

Labor Standards Bureau.

Asserting "the voluntary organization of labor for mutual help, strength and experience will prove under able leadership to be a blessing," Miss Perkins disclosed for the first time that a division of labor service and labor standards was to be established in the department of labor with the full approval of President Roosevelt.

Miss Perkins pointed out that wage earners and farmers made up the bulk of the nation's purchasing power, estimating two-thirds of the goods disposed of in American were bought by those whose incomes are less than $2,000 a year.

Twenty Persons Excluded.

Representatives of the self-styled "A. F. of L. committee for unemployment insurance and relief" arrived at the hall and their secretary, Louis Weinstock, presented to E. J. Roche "our credentials entitling us to admission."

Roche took the "credentials," a letter, to President Green, who was presiding. Roche returned quickly, saying:

Legal Aid Association Opens Convention Today

The National Association of Legal Aid Organizations, composed of agencies giving free legal service to the poor, will open a convention in Chicago today. Headquarters have been established in the Lake Shore Athletic club and business meetings will be held in the Northwestern university law school. John D. Black, president of the Chicago Bar association, will deliver the address of welcome at the opening session this morning and M. W. Acheson Jr. of Pittsburgh, president of the association, will be a speaker at the Bar association luncheon tomorrow.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LEIPZIG, Germany, Oct. 4.—The Supreme court today sought vainly to wring from Marinus van der Lubbe, young Dutchman who has confessed he set fire to the reichstag building on Feb. 27, information as to who, if anybody, aided him in his incendiary efforts. This attempt marked the resumption after a recess of several days of the trial of five men on charges of high treason in connection with the fire.

The Dutchman and the four other defendants—Ernst Torgler, German communist leader, and three Bulgarian communists, Georgi Dimitroff, Wassil Taneff and Blagoi Popoff—all denied any acquaintance with each other before the fire.

Bulgarian Creates a Scene.

Torgler vigorously asserted he had never seen Van der Lubbe or any of the Bulgarians. The Bulgarians and Van der Lubbe agreed with Torgler that this indeed was the case.

Dimitroff, whose frequent and lively outbursts have brought him many warnings from the presiding judge, Wilhelm Buenger, again created a dramatic scene when he leaped up in the midst of the judge's questioning to fire this question:

"I ask Van der Lubbe if he ever saw me. I ask him if he ever spoke to me before."

The Dutchman replied, "No," and followed this with negative answers to questions as to whether he had ever seen Taneff or Popoff before.

Dutchman Appears Befuddled.

Van der Lubbe returned befuddled answers to many of Judge Buenger's inquiries. He was, for instance, told that three investigators had stated that it would have been impossible for one man to start the fire.

"I don't know," he said to a direct question along this line.

"No," said Van der Lubbe.

Torgler's examination reached a high point when Judge Buenger confronted him with testimony by three Nazi members of the reichstag that they saw him in the building with Van der Lubbe on the day of the fire, and also saw him conferring with Popoff in a reichstag committee room. Torgler denied this and offered an alibi.

A Chicago lawyer was among the signatories of a telegram read by Judge Buenger before the day's proceedings began. The telegram protested the alleged mistreatment of Dimitroff last Friday during a recess. Alfons Sack, a defense attorney, denied that Dimitroff had been mistreated. He said he "regretted extremely that my colleague from Chicago signed his name to the telegram." The Chicagoan's identity was not revealed.

Briton Demands All Jews Be Classed as Racial Minority

GENEVA, Oct. 4.—(AP)—William G. A. Ormsby-Gore, British commissioner of works, declared before the league of nations political committee today that Jews should be considered a racial minority and given all rights and protection under minority treaties.

The committee in its studies of minorities had been asked by the German representative, Dr. von Keller, not to "mix" the Jewish question with a debate on minorities, since the Jewish problem was a special one of race and the Jews had never asked to be treated as a minority.

The British commissioner, considering Von Keller's speech point for point, delivered a defense of the parliamentary system of government and criticized severely Von Keller's condemnation of "forced assimilation of foreign minorities by a dominant population."

Talks of Disraeli.

Ormsby-Gore said he particularly objected to the German delegate's view that people of Germanic origin everywhere form a part of the German ethnical unity, and declared that Great Britain had survived very well without regarding all peoples under her flag as Englishmen.

"What a tremendous responsibility we would have to shoulder," the Briton continued. "If we considered all citizens of the United States who claim descent from the Mayflower pilgrims as Englishmen."

After describing the great qualities of Disraeli, who, the commissioner pointed out, always proclaimed himself as "the proudest of Jews," the commissioner declared that Jews everywhere were bound by race, blood and history to all Jews in the world.

New Council Opens.

Raoul Amador, son of the first president of Panama and a graduate of Columbia university, began his presidency of a new league of nations council today.

Amador welcomed the other new members, Australia and Denmark, saying their collaboration would constitute a valuable contribution to the work of the league. He announced that the Argentine delegation was on its way to Geneva.

The council ratified the assembly's decision to increase the nonpermanent seats from nine to ten, making a total membership of 15, including Japan, which has given a two-year notice of her resignation from the league. In the meantime Japan has indicated her refusal to sit in the council because of the league's rebuke for her campaign in Manchuria.

CHARGES YANKS 'SWIPED' PARTS OF GERMAN STATUE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 4.—The American army of occupation [1919-'23] was blamed in the Berlin press today for removing and taking home with them as souvenirs parts of the Kaiser Wilhelm I. memorial on Deutsches Eck at Coblenz. It was discovered only recently that the bronze palm from the hand of the goddess of victory and one of the orders decorating the breast of the statue of Wilhelm are missing.

Deutsches Eck is the point of land between the Rhine and the Moselle. On this point rises the monument erected in 1837. By the copper equestrian figure of the emperor, 46 feet in height is the figure of the goddess of victory, 30 feet high, which bears the laurel wreathed imperial crown. Steps ascend to the raised terrace. The structure is 121 feet high.

Czechoslovakia Bans Nazis; Party Dissolves Itself

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

PRAGUE, ct. 4.—The Czechoslovakian Nazi party announced its own dissolution today and thereby manage dto anticipate by a few hours a government order prohibiting it and the German National party, with which it apparently was on the point of amalgamating. Deputy Jung, chairman of the Nazi party, and Nazi deputies Shubert and Kaster were arrested. Another Nazi deputy, Hans Krebs, against whom a writ had been issued has fled to Germany.

LINDBERGHS HOP TO BRITAIN; VISIT SISTER IN WALES

LONDON, Oct. 4.—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh landed at the Woolston Marine airport at Southampton late this evening after a hop from Stavanger, Norway. Col. Lindbergh's brother-in-law, Aubrey Neil Morgan of Cardiff, met the famous flying couple, who will be his guests for a few days.

Later the colonel will proceed to London and confer with officials of the Imperial Airways line. The Lindberghs declined an offer of a special plane to bring them to London tonight. A huge crowd assembled at the Croydon airport to greet the flyers was keenly disappointed. Col. Lindbergh's landing permit was arranged with the air ministry through the American embassy several days ago.

Morgan's is a well known firm of Cardiff drapers and, according to THE TRIBUNE'S information, Mrs. Lindbergh is already there with her sister, Elisabeth, who married Morgan last December. Col. Lindbergh and Morgan are believed to be stopping for the night at a country village outside Southampton, planning to proceed to Cardiff early tomorrow.

AUSTRIAN POLICE GIRD FOR RISING OF BROWN SHIRTS

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Austria, Oct. 4.—Having come so near to being assassinated yesterday, Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss' arm is out of action for the time being but the shooting has done the political situation a certain amount of good. It has won him a respite from his allies, if not from his enemies.

While the chancellor is carrying his arm in a sling and is a hero in the eyes of the public, the Fascist Heimwehr hesitates to serve notice on him that neither his pace nor his tactics are to their liking.

Nazis Serve a "Reminder."

Dollfuss' enemies, however, have not deserted him. Today from an ornamental lamp post next to the Opera in the very heart of this old imperial capital, a 25 foot scarlet Nazi banner, swastika and all, suddenly was unfurled to the dismay of all coppers in the vicinity.

The fire department was called out to take it down, the emblem being strictly forbidden in Austria at this moment. The light minded Viennese public, of course, was delighted by the Nazi feat, regardless of basic political sympathies.

Earlier in the morning Nazis, disguised as city light and power men, had driven up with a ladder and much poise and had tied a little package to the lamp post. Later an accomplice came along on a bicycle and pulled a string that had been left hanging and released the banner of Hitlerland, which was to remind the Viennese that though National Socialism is banned, there are still National Socialists in Austria—lots of them.

Assassin's Family Jailed.

Elsewhere in the country, police are taking precautions against a possible uprising of the brown shirt hosts. The police are alarmed at the effervescence in the industrial region, Styria, where the heimwehr recently went over to the Nazis and where political influences emanate from the Alpin-Montan iron works, which, after being consecutively in Italian and French hands, fell to the German Krupp-Thyssen interests.

The fact that Rudolf Dertil, the would be assassin of Dollfuss, came to Vienna from Styria only a few days ago set the police to barking up that tree and a number of arrests have been made among Dertil's acquaintances. His family—mother, brother, and ardent Nazi stepfather—already are in jail.

But still, in spite of the absolute need of the Dollfuss government for a Nazi plot, the police have not been able to announce that Dertil with his pearl-handled .22 caliber revolver was part of one. They are working on him, though, with the famous Austrian third degree which does not involve violence, only prolonged questioning with short naps and sudden awakenings. He is being guarded at police headquarters by fully 100 stalwart police. Alienists tonight said he is sane. Dollfuss himself has agreed to accept a police guard more adequate than the one he had in the past.

Fascist Chief Goes Hunting.

While Dollfuss still is surrounded by the halo of near martyrdom, Prince Starhemberg and his heimwehr cannot, publicly at least, threaten him with disaster if he goes ahead with plans for his so-called "staendische" state, which is a compromise between fascism and democracy.

Prince Starhemberg, who is already weary of Dollfuss' tactics, wants Italian fascism and wants it quick. However, he has gone away on a hunting trip while Dollfuss is convalescing and while the new interior loan of $60,000,000 is being taken up. His shooting companion, significantly, is Count Max Hohenberg, son of the murdered Archduke Franz Ferdinand, now considered to represent Archduke Otto, pretender to the throne.

DE VALERA GIVES FOE APOLOGY ON UNTRUE REPORT

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Oct. 4.—(AP)—President Eamon de Valera apologized in the Dail Eireann today for his recent assertion that Gen. Richard Mulcahy, a leader of the government opposition, had had conversations in Glasgow with the British war minister.

"At Gen. Mulcahy's request," the president said, "I agreed to set up a tribunal to inquire into the matter. Since then the person who gave the information has refused to come forward to give evidence and has in fact confessed that the information he gave was untrue. I regret deeply that I should have given publicity to this falsehood and I tender my apologies to Deputy Mulcahy."

Meanwhile, Commander E. J. Cronin, general secretary of the new United Ireland party, and three other defendants were convicted by the military tribunal today on charges growing out of a disturbance at a cattle sale. The four had been charged with conspiring to obstruct the sale of six cattle seized for nonpayment of taxes.

60 Dance Masters Protest Tax; Clubbed by Police

VIENNA, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Four dancing masters were injured in a terpsichorean riot at the city hall today. Sixty strong, they stormed the assessor's office protesting a new amusement tax. They met the resistance of police who used their clubs.

Do you ever worry about bleeding gums, mouth infection or pyorrhea? Forget those threats! Protect The Danger Line and be happy about your teeth!

WOULDN'T it be a real relief to stop worrying about your teeth and gums? To know that they are as safe as possible from danger?

Complete, balanced protection is the answer. And Squibb's Dental Cream—5-way guardian of The Danger Line—gives you such protection. With regular care by your dentist—and Squibb's on guard—you can forget fear and smile at threats.

Squibb's Dental Cream cleans effectively and polishes safely, with absolute freedom from grit. It helps to prevent bleeding of the gums by safe cleansing, not by the use of astringents or other irritants. It combats the germ acids that cause tooth-decay. And its use is true economy.

You'll like Squibb's. It is clean and refreshing to the taste—a joy to use. Children love to keep their teeth clean and shining bright with this delightful dentifrice.

But most of all, you'll like the comforting sense of security that comes from using a dentifrice you can trust.

* The Danger Line is the area where the thin edge of the gum encircles each tooth. Here food particles collect and bacteria multiply, generating acids. These acids which attack the tooth-structure, also constantly irritate the gum tissues. Nearly all gum diseases are due to the effects of germs and irritation caused by ineffectual cleaning. Not one, but all your teeth are endangered when gums and teeth are unclean. And when you use Squibb's Dental Cream, you force into the sheltered areas countless antacid particles which combat the germ acids and protect the gums.

Worried Democrats Will See Bronx Leader Today in Effort to Have M'Kee Run as 3d Candidate

Mayor John Patrick O'Brien will go to the polls on Election Day as the Democratic candidate for Mayor with the undivided support of Tammany Hall and its allies, it was made clear yesterday in statements from the high command of the badly split Democratic organization.

Undaunted by the handwriting of dissatisfied thousands on the primary wall last Tuesday, and by conferences being held in Washington and elsewhere with a view to pressing Joseph V. McKee into service as leader of the party's city ticket, Tammany made known its decision in the following statement from Raymond J. O'Sullivan, secretary of the Hall:

"Reports that Mayor O'Brien will withdraw from the Mayoralty race for a Supreme Court nomination and another candidate for Mayor substituted are not true. They are malicious.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Turning away for the time being from currency inflation conferences at the White House and the Treasury and consultations with private financial authorities, have led the Administration to embark on a further program of energizing capital goods industries.

Taking this as their next big objective in the credit inflation drive, Administration advisers have evolved one concrete step for increasing the activity of a section of the heavy industries and are considering related action which would benefit other sections.

President Roosevelt is understood to be ready to press the first step within a short time. Paper and Ink—or Results?

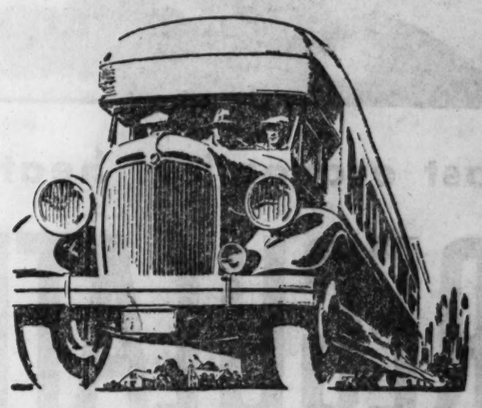
EARLY in September a New York merchant advertised cocktail napkins exclusively in the Herald Tribune. (Price: $2.95 a dozen. Space: 125 lines by two columns.) In two days he had sold the fifty dozen napkins he had on hand and had taken orders for 200 dozen more!

This advertiser bought the right to use advertising space to present his message to the readers of the Herald Tribune. He bought something else, however, more intangible, but much more decisive in producing results—the interest and attention of hundreds of thousands of women who have money to spend; their confidence and trust in the Herald Tribune and its advertisers. Without these qualities his results would have been impossible, however attractive his advertisement and his merchandise might have been.

It takes more than paper and ink to make a good advertising medium. Volume is important, and the Herald Tribune has it, reaching more families every morning than are found in the sixth largest city of the country. More important are the qualities of buying power, responsiveness and confidence. Sales results prove conclusively that the Herald Tribune has them to a high degree. Address any of the offices below for more information about the Herald Tribune and its result-producing power.



If all the families who read the New York Herald Tribune moved into one place they would make the sixth largest city in the United States

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Mae West, that full blown siren who has chosen to wear disregard for the moral code like a sunflower in her buttonhole and now has the world admiring her boutonniere, again frankly displays her wares in "I'm No Angel." And if you decide to accept her widely advertised invitation to "Come up and see me some time!" it had better be early. Because this dame with the swinging hips, the bedroom eyes and the throaty growl of an amorous cat is packing 'em in.

As I can see it, Mae West's pull lies in the fact that she really and truly doesn't give a damn. The world is full of people who would like not to, and she provides vicarious easy shoes and relaxed stays for their inhibitions. SHE'S not afraid o. the big, bad wolf, be he cop, censor or club woman! And what's the result?

Cops wink. Censors pass her films "unpinked" and the ladies, God bless them, are now luxuriously ordering whipped cream with their chocolate and dressing up à la Mae West for their nursery benefits. Because even Mrs. Grundy must have her fling and the country is jolly well fed up with being "prohibited."

Also—and a very large "also"—this 1933 "Don't Care" gal has PERSONALITY; and personality is a ramping steed that carries its owner over high hazards that ditch the less fortunately mounted.

In "I'm No Angel" Miss West plays a lion tamer who rules her life by astrology. When you first meet her she's doubling at a honky tonk dancing and taming at a circus. Her astrologer prognosticates dark plot and a change in her life . . .

The dark men appear in due time, bringing prosperity in their train, or, I should say, wallets. For one of these d. m., Tira fails—hard! The wedding day is set . . .

But ere it rolls around, much dirty work transpires . . .

The picture's big situation is a breach of promise suit, and its most memorable scene a courtroom episode during which the plaintiff herself questions the witnesses. Needless to say Tira has judge, jury and all the little bailiffs on leading strings before the session's over . . .

While "I'm No Angel" lacks the drollery that high lighted "She Done Him Wrong," it is very funny in spots and has been directed with a shrewd eye to all the story possibilities. Miss West's portrayal of Tira is characteristically indelicate. Her gowns are daring and her lines are raw. Cary Grant is nice—and seems out of place—as the dark gentleman of high degree who proves to be the lion tamer's fate. Gregory Ratoff has several effective entrances as the noangel's attorney and you'll like the way other rôles are interpreted.

Settings—after Tira comes up in the world—are atmospherically gorgeous and garish. Miss West mutters a couple of songs—"Sister Honky Tonk" and "I'm No Angel"—in the sultry fashion calculated to bring out the worst in one.

Four Artists Offer Chicago Gallery Show

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Chicago Galleries association, 220 North Michigan avenue, has opened an attractive exhibit of paintings and sculpture by four young Chicago artists.

Gasper J. Ruffolo has made something of a name for himself in the last season or two in portraiture and in still life painting of exquisite exactitude. The present exhibit shows his skill at its best in the fine portrait of Mrs. Huttner, possibly the most important canvas in the show. Instead of still life, however, he has slipped in a half a dozen little landscapes that are rather charming.

Wilbur Adam, who is also a portrait painter with a reputation, has confined himself in the present exhibit to a group of water colors, fresh and delightful in context and color. The Indian composition is striking and the landscapes, particularly those of the bridge and the porch, are sensitive and appealing.

Karl C. Brandner, a Palette and Chisel club member, is the third painter in the group. His pictures are the most pretentious and, taken as a whole, the most diversified and picturesque. Several of them deal with the landscape of Indiana, a part of the country where Mr. Brandner spends a good bit of his time.

The winter landscape is chill and true; the woods in autumn, with a purple haze lying like a veil through the branches, is unusually beautiful. Summer is in some of the paintings, and no matter what the season each canvas awakens a response. His flower paintings complete the group and are gorgeous.

Warner C. Williams, the sculptor, shows several portrait bas-reliefs and three or four studies in the round. His portrait of John T. McCutcheon is excellent and "Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Mead" is charming. The "Winter Design," a little girl in cap and coat, is adorable.

The exhibit will continue through the month and is well worth seeing.

Marine Band Pleases Large Fair Audience

Famed Organization Opens Week's Appearance.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Those who think well of first class band music as a feature of an exposition will do well to arrange their visits to A Century of Progress during the next few days. The U. S. Marine band is there.

It began a week's engagement last evening in the court of the Hall of Science, playing an entertaining program so brilliantly that it held a large audience from John Philip Sousa's "A Century of Progress" march at the beginning to "The Star Spangled Banner" at the end. The wind from the lake was cool, but the music more than made up for it.

Capt. Taylor Branson is the director. He has some eighty well equipped and accurately trained musicians under his baton. He also would seem to have a good bit of electricity in that same baton. The result was one of the most enjoyable band concerts heard in this neighborhood since the passing of the lamented Sousa.

This band, the oldest in the United States, has had a long and honorable career. It is the country's national band, it is the band of the President for official functions. Its members are string as well as band players, so that on occasion it can double as a symphony orchestra. On this visit it is appearing only as a band, and there need be no hesitation in saying that its quality is as high and honorable as its history.

Analyze it as you will, and every section measures up to what a good band should be. Its reeds are mellow and flexible; its brass is mellow and noble. It has soloists of remarkable bility. The cornetist last night, whose name, if it was caught correctly over the announcer, is Wentworth Kemp, after many sorts of brilliant display, struck what I believe is the highest note I ever heard from a cornet, and a clear, pure tone at that. A saxophonist became a great hit with the audience and he should have been.

Capt. Branson is an expert at program making. He presents a concert overture, Dvorak's "Carnival" in this case, some light opera selections such as Kern's "Music in the Air," something from the Wagner operas, "Die Meistersinger," and the overture to "Tannhaeuser," the last named getting the best band performance within memory, and others of like kind. He is generous with encores, and he and his men know the secret of Sousa marches. Incidentally, Sousa was a former leader of this same band.

As a special number on a special occasion the band played a group of songs of the Legion, following it up with what might be called songs of the Marines, and both were loudly cheered. When he had finished the "Meistersinger" number he presented more Wagner in lighter guise, some themes from "Das Rheingold" and elsewhere worked into jazza. A bit of blithe impertinence that did Wagner no harm and may have induced some of his hearers to conceive a liking for more of him.

The band will play twice in the court of the Hall of States today, the first time at 4 and the second at 8:30 o'clock. Both programs look quite as entertaining as that of last night.

Marjorie Goodman to Be Bride of Charles S. Dewey Jr. Today

Ceremony Will Be Performed at Chrysostom's; Grandparents to Give Reception.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THIS is the wedding day of lovely Miss Marjorie Sawyer Goodman and Charles S. Dewey Jr. Never does a young couple enter matrimony with more good wishes and congratulations than these very young people will have, for they both are so attractive and popular and they both belong to such representative Chicago families. She is the elder daughter of Mrs. James M. Hopkins and he is the elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey.

The marriage will take place this afternoon at 5 o'clock in St. Chrysostom's church, the rector, the Rev. Dudley Stark, officiating, after which there will be a reception at the residence of the bride's paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William O. Goodman of 1355 Astor street.

Miss Goodman and her sister, Kay, who will be the maid of honor at today's ceremony, have spent much time with their grandparents, especially since the death of their father, Kenneth Sawyer Goodman, and it will seem particularly sweet to their friends to wish her well and to congratulate her new husband this afternoon in the drawing room of the stately Goodman mansion. Mr. Goodman will escort his granddaughter down the aisle to the altar to give her in marriage.

Bridegroom's Father to be Best Man.

The bridesmaids will be Miss Louise Dewey, the bridegroom's sister; Miss Ethel Johnston, the bride's cousin; Miss Jeane Schweppe, Miss Mary Reed, Miss Mary Senior, Miss Jean Wilhelm, Miss Carol Crocker of Boston, and Miss Anne Clark of Princeton, N. J. Miss Rose Whitman of Boston had planned to come west to be a bridesmaid, but her sister, Nancy, is making her debut, so she had to stay at home. They are the daughters of the former Adelaide Chatfield-Taylor of Chicago, now Mrs. Chatfield Whitman of Boston.

Mr. Dewey will serve his son as best man, and ushering will be the younger Dewey son, Peter, who is at home from St. Mark's for the wedding; Frederick M. Alger Jr. of Detroit, who is married to Suzette Dewey; A. Watson Armour III., Dustin Grannis, Edward Smith, Daggett Harvey, Carrington Clark, W. Edwin Stanley Jr., Durand Smith and Gordon Kelley of Chicago, and Edward Lihme of New York, who formerly lived in Chicago.

Mr. Dewey and his bride are to live in South Bend, where he is engaged in business.

Orchestra Opens Season Tonight.

Tonight Orchestra hall will be ablaze with lights for the opening symphony concert of the season and all those who habitually hear the Chicago Symphony orchestra on Thursday nights will be there, and many others, of course, too, for the opening concert is a gala occasion indeed.

The concert will be repeated tomorrow afternoon for the Friday "regulars," many of whom have sat in the same seats every Friday afternoon during the season for many, many years. Friday concert seats are passed on from mother to daughter, you know, like family jewels.

The boxholders for the Thursday-Friday concerts include the following: Frederic C. Bartlett, Mrs. Emmons Blaine, Mrs. Daniel H. Burnham, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. Clyde M. Carr, Albert B. Dick, Mrs. Arthur L. Farwell, John J. Glessner, Ernest R. Graham, Mrs. Charles L. Hutchinson, Miss Gwethalyn Jones, Mrs. Francis T. A. Junkin, Mrs. Chauncey Keep, Iver N. Lawson, Mrs. Frank O. Lowden, Cyrus H. McCormick, Harold F. McCormick, Charles H. Morse, Ralph H. Norton, Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe, Albert A. Sprague, Mrs. Walter A. Strong, Gustavus F. Swift Jr., Mrs. John A. Spoor, and Mrs. Frederic W. Upham.

The Cliff Dwellers, which last year inaugurated symphony teas after the Friday concerts, are going to have them again this year and tomorrow afternoon many of the men and women who hear the music in Orchestra hall will go upstairs after the concert to the club for a cup of tea and a chat perhaps with Frederick Stock, the conductor. He usually goes to the club for tea after the concerts and when there is a soloist he often takes him or her with him, but there will be no soloists at the first three concerts.

Pouring tomorrow will be Miss Abby Tallmadge, sister of the president, Thomas Tallmadge; Mrs. Karleton Hackett, Mrs. Henry E. Vogeli, and

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Oct. 4.—[Special.]—After an absence from her native land of 15 years the Marquise Melchoir de Polignac, who was Miss Nina Crosby, leaves France today to join her mother, Mrs. L. Sutton Crosby, who is ill. The marquise was the widow of James B. Eustis when she was married to the French nobleman in the Lady chapel of St. Patrick's cathedral on Oct. 24, 1918. While in New York the marquise will be with her relative, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney.

Checked, Plain Wools Fashion Shooting Togs

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Having persuaded a few hesitant males that you can shoot and stand the required hours damply, debonairly, and uncomplaining in a duck blind, and, after having cautiously wangled the invitation in writing, you can dash to town and buy some glorified apparel in the way of warm, windproof numbers that will delight your soul.

These clothes will cause even the most engrossed duck hunter of the contrary sex to wax enthusiastic over the revolutionary ideas of what a gal should wear in the great out of doors, hitherto taboo for beruffled and high heeled femininity.

You can buy lumberjack wool shirts, considerably skinned down as to yardage but wildly abandoned as to color and size of check or square . . . made with a mantailored simplicity that would satisfy the best London critic . . . made with a couple of chest pockets and a regular he-man's collar.

These shirts are of warm sturdy wool, fully guaranteed to withstand any wintry blast, or congealing downpour. These you wear with sturdy and straight wrap-around skirts, in either plain colors or checks. One bold affair is fashioned of rust colored wool check . . . the shirt is reversible . . . you can wear the checks out to match the dashing wool jacket, or you can hunt more quietly with the plain solid color of the skirt contrasting the checkered career of the coat. And, these too are the accepted fall protective costumes for enthusiastic bicycleers, for the skirt buttons up the side, so that you can release a half a dozen of them for pedaling freedom.

Suede jackets are as plentiful as Legionnaires . . . lined or unlined, short, long and in between, with price tags that are obliging.

The colors are breath taking . . . tawny shades of gold, caramel beige, stunning bottle and sage green, deep dark browns and blues, practically anything you can demand. The short models have clever sleeves, a trim, nipped-in waistline and pockets with buttons marching smartly high around a snug collar line. The swagger length affairs, while a bit more expensive than the shorter models, are tremendously effective for a country-clothes or campus wardrobe.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

ONE of the charming memories of the current season will be the recollection of Mr. Paul Cravath, distinguished New York lawyer, head of the Metropolitan opera, traveler, and owner of a great estate on Long Island and some of the finest gardens in America, visiting in the tiny, moderne abode of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Fisher (Ruth Page) on the lake bluff in Winnetka. Mr. Cravath is elderly, large of frame, charming, with silver locks and a fresh ruddy countenance. Accustomed to the stately halls, the antique furniture and the old masters of his own dwelling, he emerged smiling and friendly, from a compact little glass-and-metal bedroom where each wall is painted a different color, to seat himself in a metal-and-leather armchair beside the fire blazing in a chromium fireplace, a Gauguin above his head, a zebra rug at his feet. It was an amusing contrast, and one which Mr. Cravath obviously enjoyed himself.

Mr. Cravath—Old—Benefit Ball.

WE dined off a circular table of clear glass with a mirror edge, in the tiny dining room that has blue neon lights circling the molding above the blue linoleum walls inset with band of chromium. Then went back to the living room fire. Mr. Cravath, back in his metal-and-leather chair, discussed politics, international finance, opera and his coming trip to Shanghai with equal brilliance.

* *

HIS daughter, Mrs. William Francis Gibbs, also has been visiting the Fishers. Slim, chic, blonde, gentle of manner, and a woman of great social consciousness, she also has diverse interests. She spent the summer in Europe, part of the time in a schloss near Vienna, part of the time near Salzburg. She wore a black lace gown, with a little high-necked capelet, a gardenia at her throat, and a fillet of pearls in her blonde curls, worn in the manner Lady Abdy initiated. . . . Which brings to mind that during a more serious conversation with Mr. Cravath we heard Mrs. Gibbs telling her host something about Lady Abdy and a man with a wooden leg, and tried desperately for a moment to listen to both her and her father, then gave it up. Later, however, she spoke again of Lady Abdy, whom she saw several times in Paris before she sailed, and said that it is the present caprice of that lady of fashion to present herself to her friends a little like an overheated child back from a romp in the park—blonde hair stringing back casually from under a childish sailor hat with a turned-up brim, clapped on the back of her head. In spite of the fact that her name brings to mind only pictures in smart magazines and the latest styles in clothes and jewels, Mrs. Gibbs insists that Lady Abdy is not a superficial woman.

"In fact, I like her tremendously," she said. "Much more than many people I would have thought to like more, if you know what I mean!" Which, indeed, is often the case.

CARLETON SMITH, back from a summer in Europe, saw Ambassador Dodd in Berlin and repeats the story the ambassador told about the occasion when he presented his credentials to President Paul von Hindenburg when the elderly soldier and patriot returned from his summer residence in the country. Mr. Dodd apologized for his German, which he said was a little rusty from disuse. A little old was the way he phrased it.

PHIL BAKER and Fanny Brice are the latest luminaries to be added to the list of stage stars who will appear at the Dutch Treat ball Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin is arranging for Saturday evening at the Bal Tabarin. The whole smart world will be there to dance to Noble Sissle's orchestra, and to see and hear Constance Collier, Faith Bacon, Fred Keating, Olson and Johnson, Phil Harris, Buddy Rogers, Leah Ray, Fowler and Tamara, Neila Goodelle, Madrana and Donne and others, all of whom are donating their services. Perhaps you've heard that Mrs. McLaughlin will illustrate good and bad dance posture, slyly caricaturing the holds favored by the youth of today. A series of mysterious masks, the presence of unexpected Hollywood celebrities, and the first appearance of 1933 ball gowns are to be added attractions. And the proceeds will go to the support of Orphans of the Storm.

Presbyterians Mark 250th Anniversary of American Church

Salisbury, Md., Oct. 4.—(AP)—More than a thousand Presbyterians from eastern, middle Atlantic, and southern states came here tonight for the final exercises of the observance of the 250th anniversary of the founding of organized Presbyterianism in America.

During the day they visited the five churches that Francis Makemie, the church's pioneer minister in America, organized on the eastern shore of Maryland shortly after 1683.

The caravan of pilgrims also went to Makemie Park, Va. The Rev. Lewis Seymour Mudge of Philadelphia, stated clerk of the Presbyterian national general assembly, addressed the aggregation there. It is of the utmost importance to the Presbyterian church, he said, that it perpetuate Makemie's memory.

THIRD AND LAST

By NORVAL RICHARDSON

SYNOPSIS.

Sheila, known as "Bun" O'Reilly, an American, makes a comfortable living abroad by helping fellow countrymen out of difficulties. Fred Crawford, an American, working on a Paris newspaper, is her friend and counselor. Bun receives a phone call from Mrs. Craymer, a stranger, who mentions a mutual friend. Bun agrees to have luncheon at her apartment. She is admitted by an ominous appearing butler. She takes an immediate dislike to Mrs. Craymer, but is favorably impressed by her uncle, James B. Finlay, a wealthy American.

INSTALLMENT IV.

A LOST WIFE.

"I suppose Thelma has told you my reason for wanting to see you," Mr. Finlay began at once, holding Bun's hand in a warm clasp and apparently looking at her intently, though she could not be sure of this as the spectacles completely masked his eyes. At any rate the spectacles were directed straight at her.

"On the contrary," Bun began, and was at once interrupted by Mrs. Craymer.

"I thought it so much better, Uncle Jim, for you to explain yourself." She fluttered about, sweeter than sugar in the presence of the uncle, pushed up a chair, arranged a sofa pillow and was generally fussy. "Do sit down—both of you. And shall I remain? Or would you prefer to tell Miss O'Reilly alone?"

Mr. Finlay said he wanted his niece to remain in case any details escaped him. He sat down with a sigh and again turned the large spectacles towards Bun. "I understand you have lived a long time in France."

Bun nodded.

"And you speak French, of course?"

"Backwards," Mrs. Craymer put in. "Milly told me you had the gift of languages. Such a valuable gift over here."

Bun let this go without comment.

"It's indispensable," Mr. Finlay said. "My mission—if you accept it—will throw you almost entirely among foreign speaking people." He cleared his throat as if her were going to prepare a post-prandial address. Bun felt sure he was going to begin with "Unaccustomed as I am—" However, he said: "I have spent some time in France myself. I was here at the moment of the armistice—Red Cross work—unimportant, but—well—I tried to do my bit. It was while in Bucharest that I met the Boblanoff family. They had lived on their estates near there until they lost everything during the war. I was touched by their plight and brought them to Paris with me. The daughter, Heléne, had a talent for singing. I felt it was as little as I could do to help her develop this talent—and through that help her family. There were four of them—the father and mother, Heléne, and her brother. I established them all here—all except the son. I took him back to America with me."

"Since then, Miss O'Reilley, I have not heard a word from my wife." Bun waited. She had been listening with slightly wandering attention.

It was at this juncture that Mr. Finlay took off the horn-rimmed spectacles to wipe them; and Bun, for the first time, saw his eyes. In a flash her opinion of him changed. There was a bland gentleness that radiated irresistibly from his pale blue eyes and made her like him at once. He seemed so innocent, so unsophisticated, so really sincere beside the fussy woman that Bun found her interest in him and whatever his case might be developing.

"When I returned to Paris a year later I found, much to my surprise," the spectacles were again blurring the gentle eyes, "that Heléne had suddenly become a woman—a very beautiful woman. Thelma will tell you how lovely she was."

"Ravishing!" Mrs. Craymer cooed.

The next statement came with a reticent sound. "It was after I had been here several months that summer that she consented to become my wife."

"I gave them the wedding breakfast here," Mrs. Craymer nodded and reached for a handkerchief as if to have it ready for what looked like imminent tears. However, they did not appear as at this moment the butler came in and announced luncheon.

They sat down at a table, the gilded top of which was made more brilliant by a dwarf crystal tree and two bowls of glass fruit. Bun noted the absence of cocktails—perhaps Mr. Finlay did not drink—the exceedingly well chosen light menu and rock crystal sugar for the coffee; little details but full of suggestions. Evidently Mrs. Craymer understood the refinements of living. Through the luncheon, due to the presence of the butler, a fact indicated by Mrs. Craymer with raised eyebrows and nods which the man could not possibly have failed to notice, the subject begun before they entered the dining room was shelved. In fact, the conversation lagged until they were back in the drawing room and Mr. Finlay was comfortably established in one of the twisted pipe chairs.

"After our marriage we went to America," he began again, "Heléne had never been there. She was delighted with it—and by the welcome she received from my son, several years older than she. In fact, I don't think things could have gone better. And you know, with a second marriage, especially when there is a grown child, this is not always the case. But Robert can always be counted on. He had shown himself to be a friend of Heléne's brother. He now did everything to help me make her feel comfortable and not an intruder. Her parents remained over here. I bought them a small house on the Riviera—at Grasse."

"You mean you supported them?" asked Bun.

Mr. Finlay's gesture was deprecatory. "I gave them twenty thousand a year—if you call that supporting them."

"Dollars."

"After a year with me in America, Heléne said she would like to make a visit to her parents. Of course, I agreed, even when she admitted, somewhat shyly, that she wanted to go alone. Nothing seemed more natural. I knew I would be rather out of place with them—not speaking their language and they speaking very little of mine. She returned to me in the autumn." Here Mr. Finlay's voice showed a downward inflection. He waited a few moments before continuing: "Not entirely the same person she had been when she left. It is hard to say exactly what the change was—only, she was less happy, less cheerful and gay. I asked if anything had depressed her. She insisted that nothing had. But I felt sure she was worried about something. The next summer she asked to go to her parents again. Again she returned, even more dispirited—if that is the right word. The next year she did not ask to go to Europe. We spent the summer on my yacht. Once more she was her old self—gay, happy, lovely in every way. This spring she began to show the strange unhappiness again. She was preoccupied. Even Bob, my son, noticed it and commented on it. Her brother insisted it was all our imagination. However, in the end she confessed that she was worried about her parents. They had written her that they were planning a trip to Rumania and wanted her to go with them. Would I mind? She left quite suddenly. This was three months ago—last March." Again the spectacles were taken off and wiped. "Since then, Miss O'Reilly, I have not heard a word from my wife."

Bun waited. She had been listening with slightly wandering attention. It was so exactly like other stories she had heard of old men marrying young girls and reaping the customary harvest—the same old legend that kept repeating itself and gathering moss with the ages. When she realized that he was waiting for her to say something, she forced herself to ask a question.

"They have not replied to my letters or cables. In fact, both have been returned to me."

"Are they no longer at Grasse?"

"And her brother in America?"

"He is as much in the dark as I am."

"You said the family was going to Rumania."

"I have communicated with the American consul there. He writes that he can find no record of the Boblanoff family. His reply decided me to come over here at once. I landed yesterday. When I explained to my niece last night that I did not want to put the case in the hands of the French police, she suggested that I ask you to help me."

Miss Goodman Will Become Bride Today

Society Night at Auditorium

Next Monday night is to be society night at the Auditorium, where the San Carlo Grand Opera company is giving such splendid opera for such low prices, for a gala performance of "Madame Butterfly" has been arranged and most of the social lights who used to occupy boxes during the opera season each winter have taken boxes for that night.

Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. Charles H. Swift, Mrs. Wentworth G. Field, Mrs. William A. Yager, Mrs. Americus F. Callahan, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mrs. Edward Hines, George W. Dixon, Mrs. Hayden B. Harris, Mrs. James M. Hopkins, Mrs. Arthur Meeker, and Mrs. Howard Linn are a few of those who will hear the young Japanese soprano, Hizi Koyke, sing the leading rôle in the popular Puccini opera that night.

Society Girls Study Domestic Arts.

Don't try to reach Isabel Gordon or Barbara Grau on Monday or Wednesday mornings, for they won't be at home. They'll be up at the School of Domestic Arts and Science on Belden avenue learning how to sew. They are among the 200 young women who registered at the school early this week to learn one or more household arts and, if all goes as they expect it to go, they will be wearing samples of their handiwork before very long.

Miss Theodora Shaw, another one who is taking a course in sewing, isn't going to make clothes, however, for she is going to study art needle work on Tuesdays. It is interesting and indicative of the trend of the times to learn that there has been this year a very large enrollment in the classes that teach household management and marketing. Cookery also is a popular subject with young women from all sorts of homes who believe, perhaps, the old saying that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach.

Probably the first six or seven rows in the Children's theater on the Enchanted Island at A Century of Progress will be filled with Junior league girls at the 1 o'clock performance of the league's new play, "Pinocchio," today. This half hour play, written and directed by Mrs. M. Patrick Geraghty [Helen Tieken] and starring Miss Virginia Hobart, will be played again at 3 and at 4 o'clock this afternoon. From now until the end of October the play will be produced at approximately these same hours every Saturday and Sunday.

D. A. R. Changes Meeting Place.

Because of the illness of Mrs. David W. Kimball, the Kaskaskia chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution are meeting at noon next Tuesday at the home of her mother, Mrs. William C. Winton, 10 Indian Hill road, Winnetka, instead of at Mrs. Kimball's, as was originally planned.

Mrs. Louis E. Laflin is opening her home on Hawthorne lane in Lake Forest for a series of two lectures that Miss Mary Ellen Chase is to give on Tuesday, Oct. 17, and on Thursday, Oct. 19, at 10:30 o'clock.

Miss Chase, who is professor of English language and literature at Smith college, has chosen two interesting topics for her lectures. They are "The Modern Reader and His Literary Standards" and "The More Intelligent Reading of Fiction."

Mrs. George W. Blossom, Mrs. Frank E. Harkness, Mrs. Morrow Krun, Mrs. De Witt W. Buchanan, Mrs. Edward Arpee, and Miss Ellen Holt are in charge of selling tickets.

The James Ward Thornes are back in their Lake Shore drive apartment after a delightful few months abroad. Mrs. Thorne has picked up a lot of fascinating tiny objects that she will put into more miniature rooms that she has in mind to construct some time soon.

Her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ward Thorne, have just purchased a lovely old house in Westport, Conn., and are getting settled there. Another son and his wife, the Niblack Thornes, are at home at 221 East Walton place for the winter.

Miss Henrietta Countiss is a very determined young woman—about her writing career at least—for not only did she spend some time in Washington where Mary Roberts Rhinehart helped her with her short stories, but she is now playing small parts with the Duncan Sisters in Baltimore, Jersey City and Philadelphia, because she wants to write for the stage.

Miss Countiss will return to Chicago the first of November, to be here through the Christmas holidays.

BY NANCY CABOT.

A puzzle design, so often the inspiration of interesting quilt patterns, is the basis of the quilt pattern offered today. Of the countless puzzle designs this probably is the simplest. It is easy to piece, but when set together forms a continuous and complicated design over the entire coverlet.

For a quilt pattern of this design send five cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

Crunchy Scones of Mincemeat Make Fall Debut

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a weekly radio feature—will be presented tomorrow by Mary Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 11 o'clock for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

Once before this week we talked mincemeat and its latest yen for getting a finger into all sorts of things besides pies. But one crunchy surprise we didn't have room for was mincemeat scones, hunger satisfiers you'll be forever making once you take the plunge. And remember, it's always possible to buy excellent mincemeat already packaged, or you may use that made at home.

MINCEMEAT SCONES.

1 [9 ounce] package mincemeat
2 cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons melted butter

Combine the mincemeat and water and boil until almost dry. Let chill and then mix with the sifted dry ingredients. Add the milk and the melted butter and fold in the mincemeat. Turn into a shallow buttered pan, or roll out, shape with a cookie cutter, and bake on a cookie sheet for 35 minutes in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.]. Serve at once.

Recipes seem to be in big demand today, so we'll have a few more of them, all requested by hungry writers-in. The first is from M. G. T. seeking a recipe for

3 cups cold baked beans
1-3 cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons minced onion
6 cups water
1½ cups puréed tomatoes
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon chili sauce
Pepper and salt to taste

Combine the beans, celery, onion, and water and simmer together for half an hour. Press through a sieve and add the tomatoes. Melt the butter, add the flour, and cook with a little water till thickened. Carefully stir into the soup, and add chili sauce and seasoning to taste.

And to wind up, another recipe request, with Miss N. K. asking for

1½ cups flour
½ cup yellow cornmeal
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
1 egg, beaten well
¾ cup sour cream

Sift all the dry ingredients and pour in the mixed egg and cream, blending thoroughly. Now turn the dough onto a floured board and roll it out quite thin. With a floured cutter cut in rounds and brush each with melted butter. Fold over one half on the other and bake in a hot oven [350 degrees F.] until brown.

Weight Gainers Ought to Plan Careful Menus

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

As argued yesterday, correcting a faulty posture is the first step in correcting the silhouette faults common to the underweight person. Then, along with this posture correction, there must be created a new attitude toward foods that put on weight.

Food idiosyncrasies are more marked among the slim than the plump or normal. These take the form, in cases of the slender, in a distaste for things they most need, as milk and cream and butter. Without these food elements you can't expect to put on weight. Underweights desirous of adding a few pounds often look to starches and sweets as the solution for them, developing unbalanced menus, often ruinous to health.

There is a place for sweets and starches in any balanced menu. But the one wishing to round out her silhouette will have to look upon fruits and vegetables with a more favorable eye than is common. Fruits and vegetables are necessary in every diet, but in a weight gaining program they become an imperative feature of daily food intake.

When you want to gain weight, calories must be added to the diet, and in order to facilitate digestion more fruits and vegetables must be eaten.

Luncheon—Creamed soup; vegetable salad with bread and butter or roll; rice pudding with cream, or some other dessert with cream; glass of milk.

Irene Castle Dances

Boring Friends of Early Years May Be Shed

Outgrown Acquaintances Absorb Precious Time.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

A communication before us brings up the question of whether old acquaintances must be clung to just because they are old acquaintances, or whether, as one goes along in life, it doesn't become necessary to shed the burrs and the bores that marked an earlier trail.

We're not speaking of dyed in the wool old friends, but of people you've known who now may have nothing in common with you, and whom you practically have to snub to be rid of. They give nothing, they add nothing, and they're the first to accuse one of going high hat if they're not treated as valuable friends.

It's on such a question the communication referred to concerns. The writer, a woman who has reached a high place in her vocation, has been pestered to death with invitations from a certain old school acquaintance. In their early years, the now successful one was the daughter of a poor mother, doing humble work in the small town. The other woman was then the daughter of one of the town's social lights. There was no great friendliness exhibited then. Now the former poor one is the "lion" and the other woman is viperish about her snobbishness.

The problem seems to dismiss itself with constant refusals of invitations. But it does raise the question of whether it isn't wiser to save one's time and energy than to be too good hearted to hurt people. There are too many people in the world whose time and companionship are valuable to waste hours with idlers, out of the so called goodness of heart.

No one has to be so weak as to become the sort of victim described, and often it is the person's own delight in a popularity of sorts that makes him the victim of idlers and useless hangers on.

Fur Sets Bring Euclid to Realm of Paris Styles

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Square muffs and collarettes are keeping geometric figures on the fashion map this season. While the dressmakers are turning out simple wool dresses to wear on the first frosty days of fall, they add these fur sets for good measure.

Yvonne Dangel designed the dress shown here and its accompanying fur set, made of gray antelope fur. The collarette is cut on the square both front and back and closes just below the left shoulder on a button in front. Its standing band collar of antelope has one long end that passes through a slit and hangs down in front. The muff is a simple cube of antelope fur with a round passageway for the hands.

The Dangel, made of dark red angora woolen, is a chemise dress with a dropped shoulder yoke and a square neckline. The bishop sleeves begin from this yoke and are held into puffs by bands of yarn fringe in the color of the frock.

The skirt of the dress flares slightly and has a wide band placed below the hips and extending about to the knees. This band is open up the right side and is bordered around the edges with yarn fringe. It serves to give the frock an effect of a long tunic.

JUNIOR GIRL'S ENSEMBLE.

Here is an ensemble that can be successfully made at home for an unbelievably small cost. It's an attractive style for school girls and is practical and modish. Its boxy jacket and simple dress are made of brown woolen, topped by a plain olive green woolen, which is repeated in the jacket lining and trim. The black patent leather belt is a smart item.

The pattern, No. 2923, comes in sizes 11, 13, 15, and 17 years.

Parents' Anger Won't Improve Child's Grades

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Has the first school report of the season arrived?

Some children can't do arithmetic. In some cases because it isn't properly taught—and in some cases because that child isn't at all mathematically inclined. In neither case is he at fault. If he gets C or D or E it is unfair to be disapproving. Perhaps a bare passing mark is the most he will ever get in that subject. Should he then be made miserable?

When you look at your boy's or girl's report card, of whom are you thinking? Of him and his native ability compared with the effort he's put in? Or of your own pride or ambition? Look sharp—the latter will lead you into many mistakes and much strain and unhappiness all around.

First, make up your mind that your child can always, no matter what his marks, bring his report to you without fear or misgiving.

Then decide that you will be intelligent in discussing his report if it needs discussion. Talk over the marks if you think best.

I don't like marks as a report on a child's ability and achievement, but since schools have them, let us try to receive them in a way that will be helpful to our children.

THE STAGE

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The Group Theater, an offshoot of the Theater Guild, has added a hit to the catalog of the New York stage with a play called "Men in White," by Sidney Kingsley. It deals with the cloistered but exciting life of a hospital interne. Brooks Atkinson, dramatic critic of the New York Times, calls "Men in White" the first intelligent drama of the new season.

The activities of the Group Theater have aroused interest in Boston, where a movement has been started to guarantee an eight weeks' season of its productions. Each guarantor will agree to contribute a sum not to exceed $15 to meet any deficit that may be incurred, and will have the privilege of prior subscription to four plays. The scheme calls for 1,000 guarantors, of which 200 have already been secured.

The most successful play staged by the Group during its two years of activity was Paul Green's "The House of Connelly."

Gus Edwards, the song writer and trainer of stage prodigies, will preface his engagement at the State-Lake theater next week with auditions for young amateurs who think they can succeed on the stage. He will meet and listen to applicants on the stage of the State-Lake tomorrow morning from 9 to 11 a. m.

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

THE PROFESSOR TELLS A STORY.

"Here's a story that I gave to my charming and efficient secretary some time ago," said Prof. Fordney, addressing the Kiwanis club. "She didn't 'get it'; I wonder if you will?

"An old sailor sitting on the sands of Nassau mending his fishing net was approached by three rum runners shortly after the break of dawn. They came seeking his advice in connection with a wager they had made among themselves the night before.

"The three of them, having sampled too freely of the liquor they were to take the next day to Miami, had put up three thousand dollars as a prize for the owner of the last boat to reach Miami.

"Sobered, they realized the ridiculousness of the wager, but while anxious to reach Miami as quickly as possible, they all agreed it was not to be changed.

"The old sailor continued weaving the cords into his net with slow deliberation. In a few minutes, calling them to his side, he whispered exactly the same advice into the ears of each.

"A smile spread over his weather beaten face and he chuckled as the three rum runners raced to the boats and started for Miami at top speed.

"NOW, GENTLEMEN, WHAT DID THE OLD SAILOR WHISPER?"

"Shall We Dress" THE NEW EVENING FASHIONS SAY EMPHATICALLY "Yes"

Whether it's formal dinner, theater, reception, or dance! This new mode of elegance draws a fine line between every occasion. Dance frocks are not invited to formal dinners, dinner frocks keep away from the dance floor—there's a distinct fashion for every shade of formality.

The pencil silhouette is the central figure wherever extreme formality is in order, usually in velvet or lame—two fabrics that appear in many new guises this year.

SECOND GAME.

Today at Wrigley field.
Probable batteries—For the White Sox, Durham and Berry; for the Cubs, Warneke and Hartnett.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

An elderly gentleman of 41 years, Samuel Pond Jones by name, gave the opening game of the city series a decided American league touch before 14,565 at Wrigley field yesterday. Old Sam who seemed to be throwing with no attempt at deception, kept the late pennant contending Cubs on a starvation diet. Meanwhile the White Sox did enough to gallant Guy Bush with one concentrated blast to harvest a 3 to 2 triumph.

The Sox, as is their habit whenever aroused by the sight of a Cub insignia, did nothing that indicated ill effects from their sufferings in the recent American league race. Due to the Jones influence, White Sox outfielders weren't much more than spectators. But the infield was tighter than the clasp on a Scotch pocketbook, particularly in the case of Jack Hayes whose high spot was a dash to the shortstop side of second for a grounder on which he tossed out Bill Jurges.

Jurges Starts Trouble.

Jurges, if Bush feels inclined to offer any leather medals for the day's events, should receive the first award. The Cub stortstop blundered on a simple play to start the second inning and it developed that he had inadvertently jimmied into a powder keg. Given that opening the Sox let loose with four hits, one of these being due to an inaccurate throw by Jurges when he had to hurry. Before the inning closed the American leaguers had scored all the runs they needed.

Subsequent to his bad start—there being six hits in the first two innings—Bush reverted to the Bush who caused so much trouble among the National leaguers during the regular season. He breezed through the next six innings, the Sox producing only two hits. Neither of these caused complications. Then Bush had to surrender to a pinchless pinch hitter and Lynn Nelson finished the job. Meanwhile Jones, after being reached for a run in the fourth inning, didn't let a Cub reach base until a hit in the ninth broke the spell and also brought on the second Cub run.

Bush Gets Warning.

The blast touched off by the Sox in the second inning didn't come without warning. The south siders furnished Bush with a rather broad hint in the first inning. Swanson opened the game with a single to center, but Bush promptly struck out Haas. Dykes followed with a single to center. Bush escaped from this predicament when Simmons flied to Babe Herman and Appling to Stephenson. The Cubs' progress in their opening half was limited to a walk to Cuyler with two out, after which Babe Herman flied to Haas.

Kress led off in the three run second inning with a roller to Jurges and this was the one the latter juggled. The Sox got busy immediately. Hayes singled to center after failing in attempt to bunt, Kress taking third. Jurges picked up Berry's grounder and threw to the plate to nail Kress. Jones filled the bases by beating out a bounder to Jurges. Swanson whacked a single over short, scoring Hayes and Berry. Haas lined a single over Billy Herman's head, Jones scoring and Swanson going to third, but Haas was nipped trying to reach sec-

THEY CHEERED THESE PLAYS AT CITY AND WORLD SERIES

Out at home! Red Kress, White Sox first baseman, being tagged out by Gabby Hartnett, Cub catcher, in the second inning of the first city series game yesterday at Wrigley field. It was the first scoring chance of the game, Kress having gotten on through Jurges' error, taken third on Hayes' single, and attempted to score on Berry's grounder to Jurges. The Sox went on, however, and scored three runs in this inning to defeat the Cubs, 3 to 2.

BOSTON BEATS PITTSBURGH PRO ELEVEN, 21 TO 6

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 4.—(AP)—The Boston Redskins defeated Pittsburgh's Pirates in a National Professional Football league game tonight, 21 to 6.

Cliff Battles, former West Virginia Wesleyan half back, returned a punt 70 yards for a touchdown in the first period. Jim Musick, former Southern California star, and Walter Holmer of Northwestern accounted for the other Boston scores.

Brovelli tossed a 50 yard pass, putting the ball on the Redskins' five yard line. He then carried it over.

Thousands View Stribling's Body; Funeral Today

Macon, Ga., Oct. 4.—(AP)—Thousands filed past the bier of William Lawrence [Young] Stribling, Georgia heavyweight boxer, as his body lay in state at the city auditorium today.

Public funeral services will be held in the auditorium tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. J. E. Sammons of the First Baptist church. The Shrine, National Guard and other organizations are to take part.

46,922 ATTEND EIGHT JUNIOR SERIES GAMES

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 4.—(AP)—Attendance at the little world series between Columbus of the American Association and Buffalo of the International league tapered off at the end, unfavorable weather being a big factor. Only 3,424 saw the deciding game last night, compared with one crowd of 22,000 in the playoff with Rochester.

The total paid attendance in the eight games here and at Columbus was 46,922, and the cash receipts, minus tax, $49,507.

VEECK SUFFERS RELAPSE; OXYGEN IS ADMINISTERED

The condition of William Veeck, president of the Chicago Cubs, was reported by physicians as "slightly worse" at St. Luke's hospital yesterday. The veteran baseball official had difficulty in breathing early yesterday morning and at noon oxygen was administered to bring relief.

Veeck entered the hospital several days ago suffering from leucemia, an excess of white corpuscles in the blood. The disease has a high mortality rate, physicians said.

"Mr. Veeck had difficulty in breathing, which caused his heart to be taxed and his temperature to rise," said Dr. Leo C. Clowes, attending physician. "The oxygen we administered, however, brought relief, and his condition appears better."

Veeck's temperature began to rise shortly before noon. Dr. Clowes declined to state how high the temperature ran, but said that it was "very high." After the oxygen had been given, Dr. Clowes said, it had returned to near normal.

"We are in for a good, hard fight. So far we must admit that no satisfactory progress has been made," Dr. Clowes said. "While his condition isn't exactly alarming, he is a very, very sick man."

Mrs. Veeck, William L. Veeck Jr., and Miss Margaret Veeck took turns watching at the bedside through the night.

GIANTS SAY HITS ARE IN STYLE, SO O'DOUL GETS ONE

Baseball's Fashion Plate Breaks Up Game.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 4.—Last spring Lefty O'Doul was a member of the Brooklyn Daffiness Boys, who finished sixth in the National league. This fall he is a member of the Giants, who finished first, and this afternoon he tagged a baseball for a single in the sixth inning which exploded the second game of the world series.

The Giants won this one, 6 to 1, thanks very much to O'Doodle. Then both troupes, Giants and Senators, and the corps of experts clattered away to Washington to resume the party tomorrow afternoon in Clark Griffith's American league snuggery, where the Senators will find sympathy, at least. They found none of it in New York and they seemed very low in spirit as they lost again to a ball club whose winning of the pennant in their league was attributed as much to the inferiority of the seven other clubs as to any charm or merit of their own.

O'Doodle went up to hit in place of George Davis, a nonhitting outfielder of the ball club, when Al Crowder filled the bases after five innings of efficient and fortunate pitching. Crowder had just thrown four pitchouts past Melvin Ott, the aging boy wonder of the Giants, who had hit a home run and three other troublesome swipes the day before. O'Doodle then knocked one out to center field, scoring Critz and Terry. From that instant on the ball game was over, although Crowder went on suffering a long while more, trying, amid increasing embarrassments, to get the side out. He never did succeed, although he pitched to ten hitters in the course of his ordeal.

Al Thomas then came in and pitched to two more before the disturbance ended. Thus the dignity and prestige of the world series had been humiliated again by such an exhibition of loose and lusty busting as might have been considered no boost to the quality of an industrial league.

Gets Start as Pitcher.

This O'Doodle O'Doul has been oddjobbing around in the major leagues for quite a long spell now, but most interesting among his experiences, he will state to you, was his service with the Yankees back in the mischievous days of Babe Ruth. In that incarnation Lefty O'Doodle was a pitcher. He had to go back to the minors and get himself reincarnated before he came up again as a heavy hitting outfielder.

At that he never amounted to much as an outfielder, but they had to have some place to pasture him where he could do the least possible damage defensively in order to avail themselves of his talent with $1.75 worth of selected hickory. In fact, this afternoon, even after he had blown up the ball game with his single, Will Terry discreetly withdrew him lest he get hit on the head with a fly ball or otherwise undo the bright achievement which had scored the runs which presently proved enough to win the game.

Attends That Famous Party.

O'Doodle is well remembered as a member of the famous beer party held in a prohibition brewery in Joliet, Ill. The Yankees had been careless of their hours and their behavior, and Col. Jake Ruppert, realizing that Miller Huggins, a little man and sick, could not control them by loving kindness, which was his method, employed a detective to win their friendship and betray it.

The colonel's house dick joined the ball club in St. Louis. His name was Murphy and he was just a rabid baseball fan. Dyed in the wool, he said he was, and very wealthy, too, and always thirsty. There have been such nuts with nothing better to do with their time and money and the Yankees felt no suspicion of their friend Murphy, the dyed in the wool fan, until they came back to New York from their western trip that time and were confronted with a flashlight photo-

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 4.—The New York Giants this afternoon handed the once smug Washington Senators a terrible beating, 6 to 1, for the National leaguers' second victory in the world series. New York now leads two games to nothing. The third game will be played at Washington tomorrow.

It wasn't the fact that the Giants won again that made the tableau so brutal. It was the heartless way they kidded along the confident Senators that made the spectacle so ruthless. The Giants puttered along with two widely separated singles off Crowder during the first five innings. Goose Goslin had given the Senators a lead with a home run in the third, so everything seemed all right for the American league lads.

Senators' Attack Fails.

In the Senators' sixth they got the bases full with two down. The Senators were especially pleased with the situation because two of the runners reached base by being walked on four pitches each. And there had been a wild pitch besides. It appeared that Schumacher was spent.

Giants Hammer Crowder.

This fadeout pepped the Giants in startling fashion. They came to bat and stepped right out for all their half dozen runs, socking eight of their ten hits to accomplish same.

Seven of these hits and all six runs were made off Crowder, the American league's winningest pitcher this year and last. Al won 26 last year and 24 this season against players reported to be much more forceful with ball bats than the Giants. But this record didn't do Al much good against the Giants in that big sixth. In the riot, Ryan, who fanned after four runs had scored, was the only batsman who acted like he ever heard of Crowder.

Moore Makes Two Hits.

Moore, for instance, who hadn't made a hit in the series, made two in the spectacular sixth. There hadn't been a double in the series, so Terry made one. There hadn't been an intentional pass in the series, so Ott drew one. There hadn't been a pinch hitter in the series for the Giants, so Lefty O'Doul entered and singled to drive in the tying run and the one that won. There hadn't been a squeeze play in the series, so O'Doul and Mancuso put one on, which not only scored O'Doul but put Mancuso on first possessed of a single.

The Giants not only made a half dozen runs but they had the bases full when Manager Terry ended the inning by forcing Critz.

Much was said before the series about the trick character of the Giants' home premises. Today, however, Goslin, with his homer, was the only one to cash on the short distance from the plate to the wings.

Whitehill vs. Fitzsimmons.

After the game the exuberant Giants, now being hailed as a team of destiny or something like that, and the downcast Senators, took off for Washington, six hours away, where Earl Whitehill of Cedar Rapids, Ia., must stem the Giant tide, as they say. Against him Manager Terry will pit Freddy Fitzsimmons, the pride of Mishawaka, Ind.

The ratio of hits today was the same as yesterday—ten for the Giants and half that many for the Senators. The error column afforded a contrast with the opener. Yesterday there were five errors—today there was none. It took two minutes longer to play today's game. And there was a difference in the crowd, as 46,672 paid to see the opener and there were 35,461 here today. It is reported that Griffith stadium has been sold out for tomorrow's Washington opener.

Cronin Strikes Out.

Schumacher's start was not so auspicious as Hubbell's the day before. Instead of striking out Myer, as Hubbell did to get the opener under way, Schumacher walked Myer on five pitches. He threw two wild ones to Goslin. Then Hal braced and threw a strike

WACOCHE RUNS AWAY AND HIDES FROM OPPONENTS

BY FRENCH LANE.

Wacoche, from the Audley Farm stable down in Virginia, appears a most dangerous candidate for the Lakeside handicap, the 2 year old stake which is to usher out the major racing season in Chicago one week from next Saturday.

He became a formidable bidder for the honors at Washington Park yesterday when he won the Midway purse off by himself after he had run five and a half furlongs in 1:05 3-5 to tie the track record established nearly a half dozen years ago by General Grant.

At no time did the son of High Cloud and Honey Girl leave the result in doubt. At the finish he was running faster than any of them and was five lengths in front of Flickamaru and Baby Stare, which finished second and third.

Everybody Backs Him.

It was a popular victory. Nearly everybody in the crowd wagered on him and he paid $3.68 to win. He was the first of two odds-on choices to come home, Domino Player paid $3.56 when he snatched a narrow victory from Visigoth in the last strides of the State Street purse.

Jockey Earl Pool was in the saddle on Wacoche and hustled him right out into the lead soon after the start came. Flickamaru ran with him for a time, and so did Safe and Sound, from the French Lick Springs stable. But by the time the field hit the lower bend and started rounding it Wacoche was well out in front of all of the others.

Pool kept him close to the rail heading into the stretch, and he drew steadily away from all his rivals as they neared the line of finish. He was going so stoutly at the end he gave indication he will like a route. At least the six furlongs of the Lakeside will not be too much for him. He carried 112 pounds and won't be burdened with much more of an impost in the stake race.

Desert Call Whipped.

There was another race on the program which attracted a lot of attention. It brought together eleven sprinters, and the Kentucky 3 year old Desert Call, owned by Laffoon & Yeiser of Covington, was the favorite.

The folks wagered on Desert Call as if it were all over but the shouting. There wasn't any shouting to do when the actual running started. Pancoast, an outsider, took the track at the beginning and never relinquished his lead.

PILNEY SCORES TWICE FOR IRISH VARSITY ELEVEN

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—Andy Pilney, former Harrison Tech half back, again starred on offense and the senior backfield demonstrated its defensive ability today as the Notre Dame football team went through the only scrimmage scheduled for the week.

A reserve team using Kansas plays gained effectively with a varied passing attack but could gain little through the shock troop line. "Kansas" failed to gain any considerable yardage by land or air against the varsity, but did complete three short passes.

Players impersonating Ray Dumm, half back, and Ormand Beach, full back of Kansas, were marked men in today's practice.

N. U. CRUSHES FROSH.

The attack which failed to click against Iowa last Saturday rode roughshod over the freshmen who faced the aroused varsity. The frosh are ready to testify that there is still a lot of fight left in the Wildcats.

Led by Al Kawal, who returned to the right guard position after being out for two weeks with injuries, the varsity line hurled back the frosh and opened big holes for the backs. More power was apparent in the back field as a result of the change, which sent Ollie Olson to quarter back and inserted Chilly Sutton at full back.

The Wildcats will get another chance to show how far they have progressed on the comeback trail when they meet the freshmen in a regulation game at Dyche stadium Saturday. An admission of 25 cents will be charged for the purpose of raising funds to send the band to the Ohio State game.

HAWKS LOSE BACKS.

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—Coach Ossie Solem found a new worry today when Bob Rook, sophomore full back and replacement for Dick Crayne, quit school. Rook's departure was the second in two days from the Hawkeye football squad. Lawrence Haltom, quarter back, dropped out yesterday.

Injury to Crayne will work hardship on the Hawkeyes, since Bill Ash, 1932 major full back, is out with two broken ribs. Several of the first string players are handicapped by minor injuries, causing Solem to forego scrimmage.

RENNIX LOST TO GOPHERS.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—Minnesota's football hopes received another setback today on the heels of the announcement of My Ubl's withdrawal from the squad for an extra year of building up when it was learned that George Rennix, promising sophomore, had suffered a fractured leg.

Rennix has been ailing for some time with an injured left leg. Today X-rays were taken and it was discovered that the fibula bone had been fractured and that he would be out for at least six weeks. He has been an understudy for Pug Lund at left half since Roscoe was shifted to right.

The varsity squad today continued to work on defense against Indiana's passing attack for Saturday's Big Ten opener. While the drill wasn't as strenuous as that of yesterday's, the players were driven hard. Hoosier plays, as demonstrated by reserves, gained considerable ground.

INDIANA QUARTER BACK HURT.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—Indiana university's chances Saturday against Minnesota at Minneapolis in the Big Ten opener suffered a severe blow today when it was learned that Don Veller, first string quarter back and key man in the running and passing attack, probably will be out of the lineup.

Veller suffered a knee injury late last night which kept him from practice today as the Hoosiers once more went through a stiff drill against Minnesota's offense and defense as executed by the freshmen. After an encouraging showing by the players, Coach Hayes announced that three teams would leave with him at noon tomorrow for Minneapolis.

OHIO PLAYS WORRY PURDUE.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—Ohio university's double wing back offensive, as presented by a picked yearling team this afternoon, provided Purdue with a worrisome defensive scrimmage session, particularly on running plays.

Building up the defensive strength of the line occupied almost the entire attention of coaches in what was expected to be the last scrimmage session of the week. Although frequent shifts were made in the line, the all-senior combination appeared to find the most favor.

BUCKEYE LINEUP SETTLED.

Columbus, O., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—The makeup of the Ohio State football team, which will open its season against Virginia, was definitely settled tonight when Coach Sam Willaman sent the eleven through a long signal practice, which ended with a short scrimmage.

The first team lined up as follows: Cramer, quarter; Heekin, left half; Smith, right half back, and Wetzel at full back for the back field.

On the line Rosequist and Conrad were at tackle. Monehan and Gallus were at guards, and Vuchinich at center. In place of Gillman and Padlow at ends were Don Wilson and Jim Pipoly.

PLAYS that made FOOTBALL HISTORY

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Notre Dame's victory over the Army at Soldiers' field on the Saturday following Thanksgiving day, 1930, will be remembered for a long time in Chicago for its series of unusual records and achievements.

The crowd—more than 100,000 tickets were sold—was the last of its size in Chicago and ended the era of big games, most of which had involved Notre Dame. Not all of the 100,000 attended, however. From a five above zero temperature on Thanksgiving day and a snowstorm, the weather moderated to slightly above freezing. The field was a mire of slush and mud and then, to complete the most impossible circumstances, a cold rain drenched the fans almost throughout the encounter. Physical conditions set a record and if any game every should have been postponed, this was it. It was remarkable that both teams scored.

Notre Dame scored what proved to be the winning touchdown in the fourth period when Marchy Schwartz slashed off Army's left tackle and ran 54 yards. The play was unusual in that it was the basic off tackle Notre Dame play and it previously had been tried many times during the game. Thus Notre Dame scored on fundamental football and with one play, quite unusual and unexpected in a game of this importance.

Army Expects Pass and Watches O'Brien.

O'Brien had just been substituted for Notre Dame at left end and the Army, from experience, believed O'Brien had been sent in to catch a pass. On the play preceding the touchdown O'Brien had been held illegally near the line of scrimmage. When Schwartz began his run O'Brien cut through the Army secondary as an interferer, momentarily leading the Army backs to suspect a pass. This aided Schwartz in getting free. Carideo place kicked the point.

Shortly before the game ended Army scored. Again one play only was necessary, and in this case it was a blocked kick. Carideo stalled for time on two downs and then went back to punt. He stood approximately on his 18 yard line. King, Army's left end, blocked the kick and Trice, a tackle, recovered the ball in the end zone.

More unusual still was the fact that Coach Sasse of the Army sent Broshus into the game to try for the tying point by a drop kick. The condition of the field and the heavy, wet ball made this practically impossible. Broshus never got the ball off the ground and Notre Dame won, 7 to 6. Army's explanation for the drop kick was that none of its players could place kick. Any play, even a pass, had more chance for success than a drop kick.

Cadets Make Error on Opening Kickoff.

Crowd, weather, scoring plays, and imperfect judgment made this an unusual game. However, the opening kickoff saw Army players commit an error one would expect to see only in prairie football. Army and Notre Dame were undefeated when they met in 1930 and the error is all the more striking.

Jaskwich kicked off for Notre Dame and the ball fell short and rolled dead on Army's 25 yard line near the west side of the gridiron. Players of both teams are on side on the kickoff; that is, they may recover the ball. Army's receivers watched the ball stop but made no effort to fall on it. Bucky O'Connor, who later that same year was the star of Notre Dame's victory over Southern California, recovered the ball. The Irish, partly because the shock troops were on the field, partly because of weather and Army's defense, could not take advantage of this mental lapse by the Army.

LA SALLE STREET QUARTER BACKS FORM NEW CLUB

Convinced that the University of Chicago's football team is going to create so much talk this season that parliamentary rules of order will be required for the discussions, a group of Maroon alumni yesterday announced the formal organization of the La Salle Street Coaches association.

The association, long famous in Midway circles as an informal society of post-game strategists, will hold its first formal meeting next Wednesday noon at the Hotel La Salle, according to Charles Higgins, Maroon captain of a decade ago, who is one of the organizers. Coach Shaughnessy and Director Metcalf will be admitted to membership, Higgins said.

Blocking and line play occupied the Maroon varsity yesterday during the first hour of yesterday's practice. Later Shaughnessy gave the backs a long chalk talk on Saturday's game against Cornell college.

ILLINI GET SCRIMMAGE.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 4.—[Special]—Convinced that the Washington game at St. Louis Saturday will be a genuine test for the Illini, Coach Bob Zuppke put the players through a brisk scrimmage today.

Whether Bob Bloom, center last year, will be available will be known shortly. If Bloom returns undoubtedly he will be assigned the berth.

FOOTBALL SATURDAY.

FOOTBALL Saturday, which opens the season for two more Big Ten elevens, Minnesota and Indiana at Minneapolis, affords several tests for other conference teams, and sends Notre Dame into its first public action against Kansas at South Bend.

Since Iowa upset the dope and Northwestern's apple cart last Saturday, Indiana is given more of a chance against the Gophers who are seeking to fill holes caused by graduation of two tackles, a great end and a great full back. The Hoosiers last year were a powerful eleven, but unable to match their opponents in scoring power. Iowa was their only conference victory, although Ohio State was tied and Michigan held 7-0. If reported improvement is true, they might record the second Big Ten surprise of the season at Minneapolis.

Of other conference teams, Chicago will parade its Shaughnessy wares against Cornell college in a game the Maroons should win if they are to figure as their partisans expect. Northwestern is still nursing its wounds and does not play. Wisconsin will prove against Marquette whether these lugubrious tales from Madison are true. Michigan should take its old rival, Michigan State, right handily. Illinois expects stern opposition in Washington U. at St. Louis. Ohio U. is not expected to prove much more than a workout for Purdue. Ohio State should find Virginia comparatively easy.

Kansas held Notre Dame 24 to 6 last season. Principal interest there will attach to the showing of Pilney and Elser in the Notre Dame back field and the generalship of Maziotti when he is used as quarter back.

Out on the Pacific coast, Santa Clara, conqueror of California, meets Stanford. That result will attract attention here, for Stanford comes to Soldiers' field Saturday week to battle the now desperate Wildcats. In advance, Stanford is rated as the second best team on the coast.

At the Fair.

"Now, who'd have thought to meet you here
After so many years have flown.
You're looking fine and yet I fear
In a crowd I never would have known.
My precious girlhood chum from home.
Not that you've aged a bit, O no,
But somehow as the more we roam,
The past takes on a roseate glow."

"Ah yes, my dear," the friend agreed,
"At times like this, words fail to tell
How great has been the long felt need
To once more wish each other well.
I wouldn't say you've changed too much,
You're well preserved, it seems to me,
But O, for some magician's touch

MICHIGAN WORKS TO HALT STATE'S RUNNING ATTACK

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—Two full practice sessions are being devoted at Michigan to perfection of a defense against the plays Michigan State is expected to use Saturday afternoon. The workout today was confined chiefly to study of a defense against the Spartans' running attack. Tomorrow's drill will see the building of a defense against State's passes.

Coach Harry Kipke admitted today that his players appeared leg weary and intimated that he would start slowing down the practice pace tomorrow. Friday will be devoted to signal drill.

Michigan State is known to have a strong defense, but its kicking appears to be weak. Kipke hopes to gain a big advantage by Regeczi's punting and Michigan's hurrying of State's kicker.

BADGER BACK INJURED.

It developed today that Red Peterson, Manitowoc half back who ran 70 yards against Ohio State to gain a 7 to 7 tie last year, will not be able to play Saturday. Peterson, who underwent an operation during the summer for a shoulder injury appeared to be ready to play, but he suffered a groin injury ten days ago.

The varsity continued today to rip the freshmen line to shreds. The work of Tommy Fontaine, Bobby Schiller, and Ken Kundert stood out. The Badgers also went through a long drill on forward pass attack.

Washington had its second runner left on base in the second inning, but that was about all that happened. Schulte and Kuhel were easy infield outs, but Bluege walked after a three and two count. Then Sewell filed to Moore.

Giants Pass Up Chance.

The Giants let a fine opportunity get away from them after they had men on third and second with one out in the second inning. Ott walked, the first pass of the series to be given out by a Senator pitcher. Davis singled to center, the first hit of the game. Ott stopping at second. The pair advanced on Jackson's neatly executed sacrifice to Bluege. Mancuso bounced to Bluege, who made Ott come back to third, then threw to Kuhel to sink Mancuso. Ryan tried to retreat after half offering at a pitch by Crowder, but the ball hit his bat and thumped right down to Kuhel, who picked it up and stepped on first to retire the side.

The game ceased to be a scoreless affair after two were out in the Senator third. After Crowder and Myer had supplied infield outs, Goslin took two balls and one strike; then he socked his home run into the upper deck of the right field stand. Manush flied to Moore.

Cronin Robs Jackson of Hit.

The Senators gave Schumacher no semblance of trouble in the fourth. Cronin sent a high fly to Ott. Schulte tapped to Jackson, and Kuhel tapped to Critz.

The Giants also went out in order in their half of the fourth, though Cronin had to make one of his sparkling one handed stops back of second to complete the routine. The Senators got Ott out for the first time in the series when he popped to Kuhel. Davis fouled to Kuhel. Jackson started one that looked like a single to center until Cronin raced back of second, speared the ball with one hand, and shot it to Kuhel to retire the side.

In the fifth inning each team produced its second hit. After Bluege had flied to Moore and Ryan had thrown out Sewell, Crowder singled to center. He was forced at second, however, Critz to Ryan. In the Giants' half Ryan singled to center with one down. Schumacher ran the count to three balls and two strikes, but hit into a double play, Cronin to Myer to Kuhel.

Senators Load Bases.

Goslin's second and the Senators' third hit led off the sixth. Schumacher then pitched four wide ones to Manush. Schumacher got a strike past Cronin, after which he let loose a wide one that was pretty near a wild pitch. Cronin fouled one for his second strike and then fouled out to Sewell. The first pitch to Schulte was a wild pitch, which enabled Goslin to go to third and Manush to second.

Schulte bounced to Jackson and Goslin was run down between third and home, Jackson to Mancuso to Jackson. Manush took third and Schulte reached first on the maneuver. Kuhel walked on four pitches, filling the bases. Bluege, with his second chance of the series to score two runs with a single, again proved helpless against curve balls. He struck out, his last two swings at curves missing by a foot or more.

Giants Get Started.

Encouraged by Schumacher's emergence from the big sixth inning jam, the Giants lost little time in getting the stands in an uproar when they came to bat in their half of the inning. Moore opened with a single to left, the third hit off Crowder. Critz tried to sacrifice, but forced Moore, Kuhel to Cronin. Terry came through with a double to left, on which Critz stopped at third.

Ott was given an intentional pass, filling the bases. O'Doul batted for Davis. He fouled off two strikes and narrowly missed striking out when Sewell failed to hold a foul tip on the third swing. This seemed to vex Sewell much and Crowder more. O'Doul then singled to center, scoring Critz and Terry, Ott stopping at second. Jackson singled to right center, Ott scoring and O'Doul reaching third. Mancuso and O'Doul got the signal for the squeeze play and it not only worked to get O'Doul home, but Mancuso beat out the bunt for a single, Jackson stopping at second.

Starch Out of Senators.

Of course the Senators kept on trying, but they were a pretty sick lot the rest of the way. Pinch Batter Rice got a harmless single in the seventh and Manush got one which promptly was nullified by a double play in the eighth. The Senators went out one-two-three in the ninth.

Alex McColl retired the Giants in order in the seventh and eighth innings.

Giants Say Hits Are in Style, So Mr. O'Doul Picks Out One

graph of themselves hoisting steins and wearing a certain expression. Jake, being a brewer by trade, and knowing something about the effects of excessive beering on the human countenance, decided that his employés had overbeered, and fined them, one and all.

Innocent Looking Fellow, Too.

"We never had the slightest suspicion of this dyed in the wool fan, Murphy," Mr. O'Doodle related as he loitered elegantly about the hotel where the Daffiness Boys were wintering in Coral Gables. O'Doodle always has been a stylish ball player, with a special preference for green jackets, belted in the back to exploit the grace and breadth of his shoulders, and for white flannels delicately striped with green.

"Murphy invited us to the brewery and we went and I will say that I personally drank beer until I could drink no more and could only rub it on my scalp. It was grand beer, for in those days people were making beer out of yeast cake and herbs and shaving water and the stuff they brought you in the little beer stores around the league generally looked like the contents of a fish bowl, full of seaweed and marine life."

"Our friend Murphy was full of beer and the joy of life, not forgetting pretzels and wurst," O'Doodle related, "and he had no call to cast any aspersions on any of us, except that I guess a detective can drink beer in the line of duty. I wonder if I could get a job as a detective when I get through playing ball. I certainly can drink my beer.

"In the midst of our party, Murphy, our pal, put one arm around the Babe and another around me and said, 'Boys, you have been grand pals to me and I want to get a little photograph for a souvenir to show my friends at home that I am not lying when I tell them I am personally acquainted with you all.'

"So with that a fellow came in with a camera and a flash pan and we threw back our heads and raised our steins and tore into 'Sweet Adeline.' And then 'Boom!' and Murphy had his little souvenir picture of his pals, and when we got back to New York old Jake knew all.

A Murphy Wouldn't Do That!

"I have never seen our old pal Murphy since that night," O'Doodle said, "but I am forever suspicious of dyed in the wool fans buying beer for lithe, lean, clean limbed idols of our national game such as me. But to this day I cannot convince myself that Murphy was his square name. I do not think a true Murphy would do such as that to an O'Doodle."

Goose Goslin, the old Jersey gander, was having a bit of a time for himself up to the awful half hour of the explosion. He hit a home run into the right field patronage in the third inning and in the Washington half of the sixth he hit a single on Hal Schumacher and got around as far as third before Jackson and Mancuso, the Giants' catcher, trapped him between third and home. The Senators then filled the bases and the situation was fraught with interesting possibilities until Schumacher, with a docile hitter to work on, struck out Bluege and pitched himself out of his own trouble thereby.

Among the literati in the working press, beating out prophecy on the dancing tiddledywinks of a portable keyboard, was Mr. Mike Houston, the Virginia fortune teller, who peered into a crystal ball, or crystal goblet, last spring and perceived a National league pennant flapping over the Polo grounds. Mr. Houston was the only expert who chose the Giants, his optimism on their behalf exceeding even that of Will Terry, the manager, who thought they might be no worse than third.

On his arrival in New York to attend the world series Mr. Houston was waited upon by John McGraw and invited to heave out the first ball at the opening game and he came out for morning practice two days running to work his arm into shape.

At the last moment, however, Mr. Charlie Stoneham, the proprietor of the ball club, who stands in occasional need of political indulgence, decided that vindication of itself was sufficient reward for Mr. Houston's prophecy and selected a Tammany statesman by the name of Mahon to perform this rite on behalf of Leader Johnny Curry, Mayor John J. O'Brien and the high ideals for which they stand.

Mr. Houston explained that he was no seventh son of a seventh son nor had he ever been bitten by a fox.

"A squirrel bit me once, though," he said. "I don't know whether that explains it. I picked the Giants on the theory that the rest of the National league would out-awful them over the season. It was a complimentary kick in the pants, if you care to say so. I picked the Senators in the American league, too, figuring that the Yankees would crack up, but I didn't buy any tickets on my selections. I like grapefruit for breakfast, wear pajamas in bed and believe in right living, sobriety and regular hours."

Experts Are All There.

Incidentally, there were 524 working press reservations, a record, suggesting a more prosperous state of the newspaper budgets around the land this year than in the three seasons last past. In 1932 there were many conspicuous vacancies among the corps of experts at the world series, the absentees including some of the patriarchs who hadn't turned up missing at one of these things since the festival began.

Aside from a few durable old ball players and managers, such as McGraw, Jack Hendricks, and Babe Ruth, the members of the corps of baseball correspondents are the only body of regular attendants at the games. The customers vary according to the state of their health, their solvency and their enthusiasm, but the experts keep on coming until their recollection in many a case extends way back beyond the birth of the current stars.

It is less glamorous lugging a typewriter up the long ramps of the ball yards year after year and writing one little word after another behind the wire screen from which a party squints out upon the world from somewhat the same point of view as a varmint in a zoo, but a fellow lasts much longer in this department.

In recent years it has not taken the customers long to conquer their enthusiasm over the world series. They claimed every chair in the park for the opening game, but there were about 15,000 vacant chairs today.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 4.—Everybody looks for the so-called breaks in a world series game, and Washington partisans tonight say it came in today's game, when Sewell failed to hold a foul tip off O'Doul's bat, which would have resulted in a strikeout, for the second out before a run was scored in the big sixth inning. There is no question that Crowder was greatly upset when the ball popped out of Luke's glove.

Freddy Fitzsimmons should not be a soft touch for the rather panicky Senators tomorrow. The Washington batsmen don't like trick deliveries and Fitzsimmons has one that's all by itself. In his windup Freddy completely turns his back to the plate.

Aside from several flights of wildness, Schumacher was a superb performer. He worked on the weaknesses of the hitters like a grizzled veteran instead of like a callow youth who received his college degree as recently as last June.

WHITE SOX BEAT CUBS AND BUSH, 3 TO 2, IN OPENER

Cubs Finally Score.

The Cub attack began to thaw out a bit in the second when Grimm doubled into the right field corner after one was out. Nothing came of it because both Hartnett and Jurges flied out. The Cubs made further progress in the third although not enough to reach the scoring stage. Bush opened the inning with a looping single that dropped in the midst of Appling, Haas and Simmons back of short. Swanson took care of English's fly ball and Billy Herman was served a bitter potion, three strikes. Cuyler then bounced a single past Appling, putting Bush on third, but business ceased when Babe Herman popped to Hayes.

Stephenson opened the Cubs' fourth with a single to center and moved to second while Dykes was throwing out Grimm. Hartnett rammed a single through the vacant spot between Dykes and the base. Stevie scored unmolested, Simmons preferring to make the throw in to second to prevent Hartnett from advancing. Jurges lined straight into Hayes' hands. Hartnett had quit first base as soon as the ball was hit and it was no trick to produce a double play. Then Cuyler opened the ninth with a double to left, being the first Cub to reach base since the fourth. Two of the three subsequent infield outs permitted him to score.

The Sox started the ninth as though they had definite plans for giving Nelson a slight going over. Appling opened with a single to center and Kress bunted. Nelson picked up the ball and tried to get Appling at second, but the throw was late. Hayes was determined to sacrifice so kept it up until he was out for bunting foul on the third strike. Then Berry rolled to short and a double play was consumated.

WARNEKE VS. DURHAM

The Cubs and their backers are confident the city series will be evened up this afternoon, as the result of Lon Warneke's pitching. Manager Lew Fonseca of the Sox is going to take a chance on Ed Durham, whose arm is reported in none too good condition.

Jones had a single in the seventh inning, but didn't learn about it until too late. He turned away from a pitched ball and it accidentally hit his bat, going in on a low loop behind first base. Jones thought it had gone foul, so didn't run, and was greatly surprised when he saw Billy Herman pick it up and throw to Grimm. Herman also was a bit mystified for a moment.

Haas popped a foul to English in the fifth, and just as Woody was going to throw the ball to Hartnett it dropped out of his hand. The Sox tried to convince Ump Rigler it hadn't been held momentarily, but the latter replied that it was no time for kidding.

A drive off Kress' bat in the sixth smashed against Bush's leg and bounced half way back to the plate for a hit. The blow knocked the Cub star flat on the ground, but he was back on his feet in a moment ready to go on with his work.

Al Simmons apparently was trying to find out whether there was any truth to the charge that Babe Herman doesn't always catch fly balls hit in his direction. The Milwaukee Duke slapped three into the Babe's precinct and all were handled perfectly. Simmons also rolled to short once to complete a profitless day.

Jones made it a tough day for the two Herman boys. Each was up four times without favorable results. Billy Herman rolled to an infielder three times and fanned once. Babe Herman, who was up three times with a mate on base, struck out once, was retired twice by infielders, and flied to the outfield once.

Expect 25,000 to See Charity Game Sunday

Mount Carmel and St. Rita continued preparations yesterday for their game Sunday afternoon at Soldiers' field. It will be their opening game in Chicago Catholic High School league competition and proceeds will go to the St. Bernard's hospital fund. Mount Carmel is the defending league champion, having held the title for the last two years.

Among the players who will appear in the game are John Fogel, Mount Carmel captain, who was the leading center in the state last year, and Ralph Jackowski, St. Rita's half back, who will play quarter back this season. A crowd of 25,000 is expected to see the game.

York of Elmhurst, West Suburban league champion, will start its title defense against Hinsdale at Elmhurst Saturday. Four veterans are on the York team. They are Dick Conran, guard; Bob Leuschke and Johnny Surina, tackles, and Capt. Cunningham, half back.

Two games will start the battle for the Big Six High School conference championship Saturday. Joliet will play Freeport and Rockford will meet Elgin on the latter's field.

Two members of last year's championship York team will be unable to play this season because of injuries suffered this summer. Bob Kennedy, one of the leading football players in the West Suburban conference, suffered a fractured vertebra while vacationing in California and Curtis Babcock, incurred a fractured skull in an accident several weeks ago.

Evanston, defending suburban league champion, drew a bye in the opening schedule, but will meet Bowen on the latter's field in a nonleague game Saturday afternoon. In the Suburban league games Saturday, Deerfield will play Oak Park at the Oak Park stadium and New Trier will meet Proviso at Maywood.

COURT AWARDS GIRL SHARE OF BOXER'S PURSE

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 4.—(AP)—Most of the purse won by Alberto [Baby] Arizmendi, Mexican bantamweight boxer, in a bout at the Hollywood stadium last July 31, will go to Frances Armente, 17 year old girl who recently won a $3,000 judgment against him.

The Superior court today awarded Miss Armente $200.50 of the $378 purse held by the sheriff under attachment, the balance going to satisfy wage claims. Although Arizmendi contended he needed the money to support his wife, the court held Miss Armente's claim took priority. She won the judgment on her claim the fighter had betrayed her.

W. B. Egan's 78 Takes Illinois Seniors' Crown

W. Bradshaw Egan, a brother of H. Chandler Egan, is the champion of the Illinois seniors golfers. He won the title yesterday at Exmoor by shooting 38—40—78, which was low gross for all classes. Egan is a new member of the association. This was his first tournament.

Ward W. Willits won the Senior of Seniors title with low gross in class A for those 70 years and older. He had 45—45—90.

Egan's game would have been at least four strokes better if his putter had been working accurately. He missed that many short ones. Egans was in only one trap and overshot once. His card:

HUNTERS TRAMP WOODS AS GROUSE SEASON OPENS

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Portage, Wis., Oct. 4.—Illinois and Wisconsin hunters are tramping through fields and woods this week in search of the mixed bag, which the lucky game hunter can bring home under the law permitting the hunting of ruffed grouse, prairie chicken, woodcock, and other game birds of the uplands and marshes.

The open season on grouse and prairie chickens, which lasts for only a short time in this state, has brought out hundreds of sportsmen and setters. Pointers and springer spaniels have been put to work to find the birds in the heavy cover.

Snap Shot Brings Bird Down.

While hunting through the swales and woods some nine miles northwest of Portage we have found the mixed bag even more mixed than could be anticipated. Yesterday afternoon we strolled through the timber for a short time while Smokey, the springer spaniel owned by Otto Beyer, romped ahead of us. Suddenly there was a roar of wings which made us jump a foot. Then there was a flash of a speedy bird darting through the brush giving us a chance to snap shoot and nothing else. However, luck was with us and down went our first partridge.

Later in the warm October sunshine we were fooled by a flock of more than 40 prairie chickens which flushed wild ahead of old Don, a mahogany Irish setter. But coming in through the heavy cover along Nennah creek toward evening we were startled by the flush of a woodcock. The weeds were as high as our head, so it took more than one round from the 20 gauge double to add to the mixed bag by scoring a woodcock.

Meet a King Rail.

This morning the two springers, Smokey and Rowdy, flushed an interesting bird in the lowlands when we were hoping for a shot at some prairie chickens. Two chickens had flushed wild and thus given us the slip. Suddenly out of the tall, heavy cover which hasn't been beaten down by a killing frost, there flushed a king rail. The springers had routed this fellow from the heavy grass, although the king rail would much prefer to run through the vegetation than fly.

JURY CONVICTS TIPSY DRIVER IN AUTO DEATH

Aurora Salesman Faces Prison Term.

Edward Wessling, 45 years old, a meat salesman of Aurora, was found guilty of manslaughter yesterday by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Francis Allegretti. Wessling's automobile plowed into a group of street laborers at Lincoln and Montrose avenues in December, 1932, and killed Francisco Lombardo, 2340 Roscoe street.

Witnesses at the trial testified that Wessling was intoxicated. The jury returned the verdict of guilty after deliberating for an hour. The case was prosecuted by Assistant State's Attorneys Vernon Thompson and Alexander Napoli.

Judge Allegretti agreed to hear a motion for a new trial, but indicated that he would rule against the defendant. Wessling faces a sentence of 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary if the motion is overruled.

Four deaths yesterday as a result of automobile accidents raised the Cook county motor toll to 790 since Jan. 1. The victims:

Anthony Stritens, 25 years old, 2816 South Union avenue. Died in the Englewood hospital of injuries suffered Monday. The automobile in which he was riding was struck by a car driven by Lawrence Lonier, 30 years old, 2141 Gunderson avenue, Berwyn. Lonier was charged with driving while intoxicated.

Robert Goodman, 70 years old, 1450 Monroe street. Died in the county hospital of injuries received Saturday when he was struck by a hit and run motorist at Madison street and Loomis boulevard.

Alfred Rogers Jr., 17 years old, of Wheaton. Died of injuries suffered Sunday night when the automobile in which he was riding crashed into a truck in St. Charles road near Villa Park.

Gordon Danzer, 26 years old, 4206 Melrose street. Died in St. Elizabeth's hospital of injuries incurred on Sunday when he fell from the running board of a moving automobile at Armitage and Milwaukee avenues.

BRITISH HOTELS TO PAY FOR RADIO COPYRIGHT MUSIC

LONDON, Oct. 4.—(AP)—English hotels, restaurants and similar gathering places are liable to pay copyright fees if they have radio entertainment for guests and tune in on copyright music. This decision of the court of appeal today will affect thousands of such places in England.

The action was taken against a brewery firm which controls many places of refreshment. The defendant claimed the copyright owners were entitled only to the original fee paid by the broadcasting corporation. The court, however, held that such tuning in, under such circumstances, constitutes a "separate performance."

Lynch in the Criminal court. On July 10, it was alleged, he kept the money instead of depositing it in a bank.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Happy Anticipation

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Fawthaw's No Ladies' Man

FIRES 21 KANSAS STATE TREASURY OFFICE WORKERS

Topeka, Kas., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—The first official act of William M. Jardine, who became state treasurer today, was to discharge twenty-one employés who served under Tom Boyd, under arrest for embezzlement from the state.

"This is no accusation you are crooks," Jardine told the employés, notifying them that later some of them might be rehired, but that those attempting to "pull wires" to get back would fail.

Jardine's housecleaning came as a legislative committee was reading records showing that members of the state school fund commission were tools of Ronald Finney, bond forger, who is in jail in default of $75,000 bond in connection with his alleged looting of the state treasury. Finney is said to have entertained officials of country bond issuing districts and school fund commission members while pulling deals which netted him large profits.

Later Finney resorted to forgery, Gov. Landon charges, because legitimate manipulation of bond issues netted too small a profit to satisfy the plunger, whose downfall may involve ex-Treasurer Boyd, his father, W. W. Finney, Emporia banker, and even Roland Boynton, attorney general.

August Wilhelm, 29 years old, 221 Linden avenue, Wilmette, was granted letters of administration yesterday in the Probate court for the estate of his wife, Mrs. Mary Wilhelm, 72 years old, who died suddenly in their home on Sept. 18, four months after their marriage.

Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge O'Connell, provided, however, in issuing the letters that Wilhelm must place $300,000 of the funds of the estate in escrow with the First National bank, to remain there until further order of the court. The estate is valued at $340,000, of which all but $10,000 is in stocks, bonds and cash. The escrow arrangement was ordered as the result of an expected contest over the estate by seven nieces and seven nephews of Mrs. Wilhelm.

A coroner's jury, after receiving a report from the coroner's chemist, returned a verdict of death from natural causes. Wilhelm was arrested two months ago on charges of embezzlement and confidence game made by Mrs. Mary Reardon Dean, an elderly resident of Lemont, who entrusted the management of her estate to him after meeting him in Florida two years ago.

CAB CO. OFFICIAL EXPLAINS TAXI RATE DIVERSITY

Michael Sokol, president of the Checker Cab company, said yesterday that the diversity in the rates charged by various Checker drivers is due partly to the litigation now pending in the federal court. Until that is settled, he said, the company will have no control over a group of drivers who sought to wrest the management of the company from the present officers.

The company's rate is 15 cents for the first third mile and 5 cents for each additional third mile, Mr. Sokol said. The drivers charging 5 cents for the first third mile are doing so on their own initiative, he said, and the public has no reason for complaint, because all rates are far below what might be charged under the city ordinance.

There will be no rate increase after the World's Fair by his company, Mr. Sokol said. The Yellow Cab company has previously announced that there would be no change in rates for the present.

Sacramento, Cal., Oct. 4.—(AP)—Gov. James Rolph Jr., 64 years old last August, wore his first pair of shoes today. The boots for which he is widely famed had to be discarded, for the present at least, because of rheumatism in his toes, making boot pulling a painful task.

STREET CARMEN TO AID TRAFFIC WITH PEP TALKS

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 4.—(AP)—Motormen and conductors on Detroit's street railways today were thinking up "pep talks" and other ways of entertaining jaded street car customers returning homeward from the day's toil. They figure this feature will mean money in their pockets. A plan is ready for submission involving a "profit sharing" under which employés get more money if business gets better.

Under the plan the employés will be given a 10 per cent increase to wipe out a 10 per cent cut made last January, the increase to be effective for three months, but after that to depend on the results as shown in the system's earnings.

"It would be an incentive," said Col. Sidney D. Waldon of the street railway commission. "In effect the employés would be salesmen on a sort of commisson basis."

Declaring he expected the plan to be adopted, he said it might be a way to help stem the decline in street car riding.

ROB BOOKKEEPER OF $3,000; POLICE SEIZE SUSPECT

Bert Derdiger, bookeeper for Mitchell Bros., dress manufacturers at 337 South Franklin street, was robbed of $3,000 yesterday by two gunmen in front of 520 South Franklin street.

The money had been placed in envelopes and packed in a tin box and Derdiger was on his way to an express office when the bandits appeared as he was waiting for a friend to give him a ride in an automobile. The robbers fled in a car.

A man who was loitering in the vicinity and was suspected of being a lookout for the pair was arrested. He is Oscar Sherman, 24 years old, 1210 South Jefferson street. He denied any connection with the robbers.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

COMPLETE PLAN FOR EXCHANGE OF TRANSFERS

Plans for an exchange of transfers between the Chicago Surface lines and the elevated lines as provided in the 1930 transit ordinance have been worked out, according to information given yesterday to Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], chairman of the city council committee on local transportation.

Guy A. Richardson, receiver for the Surface lines, who told Ald. Bowler that the plans were ready, said they were too bulky to send to the city hall. Ald. Bowler made arrangements for Maj. R. F. Kelker Jr., the council committee's engineer, to study the plans and report to the aldermen. Maj. Kelker is expected to begin his study within a few days.

MRS. A. E. UIHLEIN OF BREWING CO. FAMILY IS DEAD

Milwaukee Pioneer Ill Nearly a Year.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—Mrs. Alfred E. Uihlein, 79, died today in the home, 1639 North 5th street, which she and her husband occupied most of their married life and which they refused to abandon when it became surrounded by small homes and industry.

She was the wife of the last surviving brother of the original Uihlein brothers, who developed the Joseph Schlitz Brewing company from a tiny neighborhood brewery into a world known institution.

Ill Nearly a Year.

Mrs. Uihlein had been ill for nearly a year and within the last few weeks her condition became critical.

She was born Jan. 15, 1854, in Philadelphia, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Pilger. They moved to Milwaukee when she was five years old and the daughter Anne became a pupil of the old Second Ward school and later the Milwaukee High school.

Oct. 26, 1875, she married Mr. Uihlein. There were five children. Herman died in infancy, Walter died in 1896 when 20 years old, and three survive. They are Mrs. Albert C. Elser, wife of the former vice president of the First Wisconsin National bank; Wilhelm B. Uihlein, vice president of the Schlitz Realty company and a director of the First Wisconsin National bank, and Herbert E. Uihlein.

Seven Grandchildren.

Beside the three children, and her husband, Mrs. Uihlein is survived by seven grandchildren, Alfred, Frederick and Melita Uihlein, children of Mr. and Mrs. William Uihlein, Mrs. John Schroeder, Mrs. Otto Falk Jr., and Marianne Elser and Alfred Uihlein Elser, all children of the Albert Elsers.

A year ago Alfred Elser married Gertrude Deuster, daughter of the Hugo Deusters of Fox Point. Mrs. Uihlein also is survived by a brother, Gustav Pilger, of this city.

The funeral will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family home and will be private.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 4.—In harmony with the advance in other financial markets, bonds improved in all directions today. Better support was apparent throughout the list, from treasury numbers down to the most speculative class. The rise was accompanied by a considerable increase in turnover.

The most favored issues in the government group were the 3¼s and 3½s, both of which sold up to within half a point of their year's highs.

Utilities and Rails Strong.

Reviving from a protracted spell of weakness, gilt edge utility and railroad bonds were notably strong. Among issues to command higher prices were Union Pacific first 4s, American Telephone collateral 5s, Santa Fe general 4s, Burlington 3½s, Bethlehem Steel refunding 5s, Brooklyn Edison 5s of 1952, Chesapeake and Ohio 4½s, Chesapeake Corporation 5s, Cumberland Telephone 5s, Consolidated Gas 5s, Liggett & Myers 5s, New York Telephone 4½s, and Norfolk and Western 4s.

As in stocks, buyers were attracted to American Telephone bonds by publication of September reports by two leading units, showing a gain in installations for the first time since late in 1930.

Speculative Issues Rise.

Gains of 1 to more than 3 points were scored by secondary and speculative bonds, features including liens of the New York Central, Southern Pacific, International Telephone, American and Foreign Power, Alleghany, Baltimore and Ohio, Milwaukee, Chicago and North Western and International-Great Northern.

In the foreigns, bonds of the German group generally extended their recoveries, with the government 7s up 1⅜ and the 5½s up half a point. The heavy turnover in Italian government 7s resulted in a fractional gain. The so-called gold payment issues, including the French government, Swiss 5½s, and Dutch East Indies loans closed easier. Latin American loans were irregularly higher.

Bonds on the curb exchange ruled generally higher in moderately active dealings.

Chickasha Cotton Oil.

Investors' Guide: I would thank you for information on Chickasha Cotton Oil. Thank you.—H. K. W.

Answer: Chickasha Cotton Oil company, one of the leaders in its lines, produces cotton oil and allied products, such as felt, baled cotton, and cattle feed. The oil is used by food packers, soap manufacturers, etc. The felt goes in large part for upholstery in the automobile and furniture industry. The company's mills and gins are situated mainly in western Oklahoma and northern Texas.

Earnings are subject to several factors. Cooperative ginneries represent a source of competition. The price level of competing goods, such as lard and butter, is a factor in sales of cottonseed oil as a foodstuff. Activity in the automobile and furniture industries determines the amount of felt and cotton lint sold.

Sales during the last fiscal year rose more than 25 per cent after having followed a steady downward trend for the four preceding years. Earnings, after declining for four years, showed a slight improvement in the year ended June 30, 1932, and a decided improvement in the following year.

Sales for the year ended June 30, 1933, totaled $11,550,000 and net income was $323,000, or $1.31 per share. This compared with sales of $8,773,000 and net loss of $121,000 for the preceding year.

On June 30, 1933, cash of $2,248,000 was more than eight times total current liabilities of $267,000.

There is no funded debt. Capitalization consists solely of 255,000 shares of $10 par stock. Dividends are not paid at any fixed rate. The payment of 25 cents on Oct. 16, 1933, will bring total payments this year to 75 cents a share. Nothing was paid on the stock in either 1932 or 1931. Dividends in 1930 totaled $1.50 a share.

Georgia Power and Light.

Investors' Guide: Can you give me a rating on Georgia Power and Light company first 5s, due 1978?—Miss W. V. C.

Answer: This subsidiary of Penn Southern Power corporation supplies electricity and some water and ice to 40 communities in southern Georgia. Earnings, although moderate, have held stable for a number of years. Charges were earned 1½ times during the twelve months ended June 30, 1933, against 1.59 times during the preceding twelve months. They were earned 1.60 times in 1932, 1.54 times in 1931, 1.73 times in 1930, and 1.69 times in 1929.

The $3,140,000 first 5s, due 1978, are regarded as somewhat speculative at present.

U. S. MARKS UP RATE ON LOANS TO GRAIN 'CO-OP'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—The large debt owed to the government by the Farmers' National Grain corporation, hand maiden of the old Hoover farm board, was refunded today by Henry Morgenthau, governor of the new Farm Credit administration.

Under the terms of the refunding agreement as it was announced by Mr. Morgenthau the Farmers' National was forced to accept a greatly increased interest rate, to submit the management of its affairs to regular inspection of the government, and to decrease the extravagant salaries paid to members of the corporation.

"Under the new agreement," Mr. Morgenthau said, "if in our opinion the corporation is not being managed in the best interests of its members we can take effective action. If the management is not good, honest, and efficient, we can take action in 30 days."

Reveals Note Extension.

"We have nothing to hide here," he added, taking a shot at the actions of the Hoover farm board. That board under Chairman James C. Stone hid under a veil of secrecy all the government's dealings with the grain corporation.

Mr. Morgenthau at the outset revealed that in his efforts to refund the debt of the corporation, he was hamstrung by the actions of the Stone farm board. He pointed out that just a month before the Roosevelt administration took office the old farm board extended a note of the Farmers' National, in the sum of $4,256,000, not due until May 31, this year, nearly three months after President Hoover left office.

This sum did not now come due until May 31, 1934, and Mr. Morgenthau pointed out that since nothing actually was due from the corporation until next year, he could not take action to compel a proper refinancing of the debt.

Special Plan Made.

The debt, amounting now to $15,312,000, was refunded two years ago by the Stone farm board under the terms which have been condemned in a report which followed a senatorial investigation. Under the old agreement the corporation was allowed to cancel old notes ranging as high as 4 per cent and to substitute a record low rate of one-eighth of 1 per cent for the entire debt.

Under the agreement, announced by Mr. Morgenthau, the rate on the main portion of the debt, in the sum of $8,349,864, will be raised to 4 per cent, and the entire remainder of the debt, amounting to $6,900,000, is to be liquidated under a special plan.

Under the new refunding agreement the larger portion of the debt represents amounts advanced by the old farm board to the Farmers' National Grain corporation for operating expenses. It is to be secured, according to Mr. Morgenthau, by an amount equal to the debt itself, made up of 65 per cent of the Farmers National valuation of its properties, plus current cash assets.

Assets Are Appraised.

The Farmers' National, Mr. Morgenthau explained, values its Hall-Baker Grain company of Kansas City at $3,377,022, its memberships in grain exchanges at $147,143, its terminal facilities at $2,393,545. The total, $5,917,710, representing the grain corporation's appraisal, is to be written down by 35 per cent by the farm credit administration and accepted in the reduced amount of $3,891,486 as security.

To this the farm administration adds the cash assets of the Farmers' National in an amount of $4,256,488 and a Farmers' National loan to the North Pacific Grain Growers' association of $201,000, bringing the total security to $8,349,864.

The collateral for this $8,349,864 portion of the debt, Mr. Morgenthau said, will be carefully appraised by the government, "to make sure the value is there." Then, if the Farmers' National will purchase 5 per cent of the stock of the new Central Coöperative bank and if the loan is acceptable to directors of the new governmental institution the loan will be put in the bank's hands.

Loans to the Coöps.

The smaller portion of the debt, Mr. Morgenthau said, represents advances by the farm board to Farmers' National for reloans to coöperatives. Under the new farm credit act, he pointed out, the government can now make loans directly to coöperatives, and is offering to refinance at 4½ per cent the paper now held by the Farmers' National.

While Mr. Morgenthau declared he was "not interested in the salaries" of officers of the Farmers' National, he indicated strongly that, under the new agreement governing management of the Grain corporation, no excessive salaries will be countenanced. The $50,000 formerly received by George N. Milnor, general manager of the Grain corporation, it was recalled in this connection, has been reduced to $30,000 under pressure from governmental farm loan agencies since April 1, and the $15,000 once drawn by C. E. Huff, as president of the organization, has dwindled to $12,000.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The administration's plan to force banks all over the nation to increase their capital by having them sell preferred stock to the Reconstruction Finance corporation yesterday appeared to be blocked by the big banks' refusal to take any step that would give the RFC a vote in bank management.

In New York the directors of the Corn Exchange Bank . d Trust company, the Guaranty Trust company, and the Chase National bank met again yesterday to discuss the proposal to keep the RFC out of bank management by raising the additional capital from private sources. In Chicago the RFC preferred stock scheme continued to be the chief topic of conversation among bankers, although no directors' meetings were held.

If the RFC aim is to increase bank capital in order to force credit expansion, say the bankers, what difference does it make whence the additional capital comes? Why not sell capital notes to investors as a good investment rather than preferred stock to the RFC? In that way the administration's demands for enlarged bank capital could be satisfied, and at the same time the threat of political control of bank operations could be avoided.

Another big argument in favor of the sale of capital notes as opposed to preferred stock is that capital note issuance would not increase bank taxes. Banks in Illinois, for example, would have to pay property taxes on additional issues of stock equal to more than two per cent of the par value of that stock. This, plus the five per cent demanded by the RFC as dividends on the preferred stock that it buys, would lay a burden of more than seven per cent per annum on the preferred. This would reduce the value of the outstanding common considerably, because so large a slice of earnings would be required to pay taxes and dividends on the preferred. Capital notes could be made callable at any time.

If capital notes were issued bankers are inclined to believe they would be attractive to investors at an interest rate of less than five per cent, and the more than two per cent tax load could be avoided.

There is, however, another angle under consideration. One of the reasons why the administration demands that banks increase their capital is that some of the smaller institutions in states where restrictions were more lenient were reopened after the banking moratorium with less capital than they will be required to have for admission to the federal deposit insurance corporation. And in order that such banks may not be regarded as a separate category by the public, all banks, large and small, are urged to increase their capital by selling preferred stock to the RFC.

* *

The RFC, therefore, wants the big New York and Chicago banks to start the parade by increasing their capital.

The big banks have a difficult decision to make. They don't want the public to get the idea that they are unwilling to lead the way in the administration's credit expansion drive, but, on the other hand, they don't want to increase their capital if by doing so they unnecessarily increase their fixed charges and run the risk of political interference with their managements.

GRIGSBY RADIO TRADE REPORTED BEST SINCE 1931

September was the best month for Majestic radios since 1931, according to Le Roi J. Williams, vice president and general manager of the Grigsby-Grunow company.

"We shipped over 51,000 sets in September," said Mr. Williams, "and our daily shipments last week reached a total of over 4,000 sets a day. At present we are producing at the rate of about 3,500 a day.

"Our unfilled orders total over 64,000 radios and we now have 5,800 employés working night and day shifts to fulfill the demand for our new merchandise. Volume of distributors' orders approximates three times that of last year."

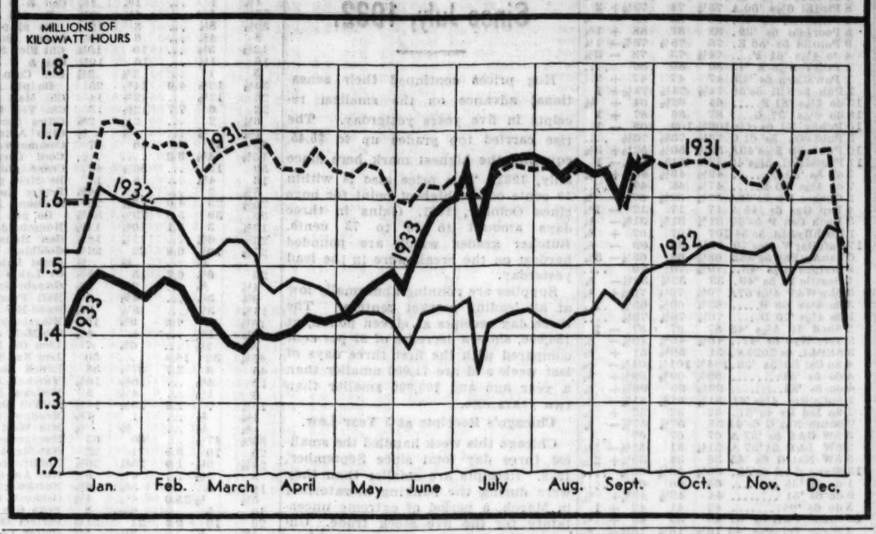
Electric Power Production in the United States



Installations of Telephones Show Upturn

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 4.—The American Telephone and Telegraph system enjoyed a net gain in telephone connections in September, the first time since 1930 that the trend has shown a gain for any month.

Preliminary figures indicate the increase amounted to 29,000, and of equal importance, officials of the company are understood to believe a similarly satisfactory showing will be recorded for October.

Of the 29,000 gain in Bell system telephones in September, it is understood the New York Telephone company, which operates about 20 per cent of the system's telephones, accounted for 9,900 of the total increase, against a net loss of 11,167 for September, 1932.

New York Loses Since 1931.

The last time the New York unit showed a net gain in telephones for any month was in November, 1931, and each month since then has shown a drop in the number of units in service until the uptrend developed last month. In August the company had a loss of 7,008 stations, compared with a loss of 20,402 in July.

Since the latter part of 1930 the Bell system as a whole has consistently lost units in service, the total disconnections in 1931 and 1932 aggregating approximately 1,900,000. In the first three months of this year an additional 343,000 units were disconnected, followed by a better trend in the second quarter.

Expected Upturn in Fall.

By August disconnections had been cut to about 20,000 units, and at that time company officials were reported here as believing that by September or October the trend toward an increase in the total phones in use would be recorded.

General improvement in business conditions, which has been sharply accentuated against the disappointing trend in the middle of 1932, is fully reflected in the betterment registered in the connection figures.

GAIN IN CHICAGO.

With business picking up Chicago is increasing its use of the telephone. The Illinois Bell Telephone company yesterday made its first favorable installation report since April, 1930.

During September the company's telephone installations in Chicago exceeded the disconnections by 5,688. Usually in September, it was stated, there is an increase in telephone business, but in September, 1932, there was a loss.

That Chicago's increase was not due alone to the World's Fair but was caused by the generally improved business is indicated by the experience in the suburbs and in downstate towns, it was pointed out. Outside Chicago the increase in installations over disconnections was 1,065 compared with a loss of 4,242 in September, 1932.

The total gain for the territory in which the company operates in September was 6,753.

It is reported that the greater part of the telephone installations come from the homes, indicating that Chicagoans are going back to work.

News of Day Shows Business Advancing on Many Fronts

Favorable reports from industry and business yesterday served to buoy up security and commodity prices. News from various sources showed a distinctly favorable trend. The cheerful news developments included:

1. Stock prices advance 2 to 7 points. Wheat moves up a cent and a half a bushel in Chicago.

2. Electrical power production for nation gains over preceding week and corresponding period last year. Chicago district output largest in 18 months.

3. National steel production for week rises 1 per cent to 42 per cent of rated capacity.

4. Railroads notify administration officials that they can use 1,089,746 tons of steel in response to drive for stimulating capital goods industries.

5. American dollar strong in foreign exchange market, advancing to 64.86 cents in gold, a net gain of nearly ½ cent for the day.

6. September telephone installations of American Telephone and Telegraph system increase, the first gain since April, 1930. Chicago installations rise 5,688 in month.

7. Officials of Montgomery Ward & Co. report that the company's business returned to a profit basis in August, after operating in the red in the preceding months this year.

8. F. W. Woolworth & Co. report September sales 11 per cent above year ago; other stores report gains.

Montgomery Ward Returns to Profit Basis

The business of Montgomery Ward & Co., mail order and chain store house, returned to a profit basis in August, officials said yesterday.

Net profit of $1,000,000 was reported for the month. Of this, $460,000 was operating profit and the remaining $535,000 represented accumulated unused inventory reserves. Reserves against inventory shrinkage had been set up each month since February. The Aug. 31 inventory of retail stores found reserves in excess of requirements and the excess was turned back into earnings.

Change Inventory Date.

The retail store inventory was taken at the end of August instead of July this year as an operating convenience. It was necessary to take inventory of cotton goods for tax purposes Sept. 1 and duplication was avoided by combining inventories. The usual July 31 mail order inventory has been put off until Oct. 31 to avoid interruptions of service during the busy period.

The August profit brings the cumulative deficit for 1933 to less than $2,500,000. Loss of $3,479,000 after all charges was reported for the six months ended July 31.

Officials said yesterday that the company is reasonably well protected against rising price by its inventory and commitments. Liberal purchases of staple articles for which there is a consistent demand have been made, it was stated.

Buy 65 Millions of Goods.

Merchandise purchases of $65,000,000 were made between the close of the bank holiday and the end of August. Current merchandise and commitments amount to $68,000,000. Approximately 65 per cent of this represents merchandise on hand.

On first quarter sales of $37,000,000 the company incurred a loss of $12,196,000; second quarter sales of $45,000,000 resulted in a deficit of $1,283,000. If the inventory had been taken in July instead of August the excess reserves would have cut second quarter loss to $748,000.

W. T. Grant & Co. Sales Up 13.5 Pct. for September

Sales of W. T. Grant & Co. for September totaled $6,423,347, against $5,657,650 a year ago, an increase of 13.5 per cent.

STOCKS SPURT; TRADERS EXPECT NEW U. S. PLANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 4.—Stocks rallied sharply today and in the absence of any other satisfactory explanation for the turnabout there was a disposition to look to Washington for some pending piece of news of market importance.

Some observers, however, were inclined to believe the sudden upturn was due to nothing more nor less than the oversold condition which the market had reached after its prolonged period of dullness and decline.

As measured by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's average of 50 stocks, today's advance amounted to 4.01 points, or 5 per cent. It was the fourth largest gain of the year and the largest since July 24.

The turnover mounted to around 2,127,000 shares, which was more than double the average of the last few days.

Trade News Is Better.

There was some justification for short-covering in the overnight trade news. Steel output showed a slight gain over the preceding week and statistics on other lines reflected some improvement.

The day's advance in stock prices was a steady, cumulative affair without great distinction as to groups. Railroad stocks, which have been under no little pressure lately, made as good a showing as any, the gains for the group running up to 8 points with Union Pacific in the van. Mining issues were strong, especially the yellow metals, the motors had their best day in weeks, repeal descriptions struck their stride anew and oldline industrial leaders looked up sharply. Gains of 2 to 5 points were common throughout the list.

Steel shares were well out in front of the rally, led by United States Steel and Bethlehem, both of which scored substantial advances.

In the mining group special interest was taken again in the silver stocks, along with those of the gold mining section. American Smelting, Gerro de Pasco and United States Smelting all came in for brisk demand at sharply higher prices. Homestake Mining, the leader of the gold division, jumped nearly 19 points. Federal Mining and Smelting rose 6.

Union Pacific Soars.

The 8 point gain of Union Pacific in the carrier department was seconded by New York Central with a rise of 4⅝ points, while Norfolk & Western rose 5; Delaware & Hudson, 4½; Illinois Central, 3½, and Louisville and Nashville, nearly 3 points. The equipments also had a big day.

Individual performers to attract attention included Auburn Auto, which scored a gain of 5½; Western Union, up 4⅝; Du Pont, 3⅞; Corn Products, 3¾; Celanese, 6; Columbia Carbon, 4¼; Endicott Johnson, 5¾, and Hazel Atlas Glass, 6 points.

In the repeal section national distillers showed the way with a runup of 7¼ points. American Commercial Alcohol, Owens Glass, Commercial Solvents, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and others rose briskly.

Power Output Climbs Again; Gain Is 10.2%

Electric power production, regarded as one of the most reliable business barometers, again scored conspicuous gains in the Chicago district and throughout the country last week.

The Chicago district figures, which cover a territory within a radius of 50 miles of the city, made a better comparative showing than the statistics for the nation as a whole. Output was the largest in a year and a half. Gains were recorded, however, in each of the other six districts into which the country is divided for survey purposes.

Output Up 10.2 Per Cent.

National power output was 10.2 per cent ahead of the comparable period last year. Production in the preceding week was 9.9 per cent ahead of the 1932 rate. In kilowatt hours national output totaled 1,652,811,000, against 1,638,757,000 in the preceding week and 1,499,459,000 in the corresponding week last year.

The Chicago district's output of 101,429,000 was the biggest since the second week of March, 1932, and 12.5 per cent ahead of the corresponding period last year. The preceding week's output in this area was 10.9 per cent above 1932. Thus, in both weeks Chicago figures made a more favorable showing than those for the nation.

Dark Weather Raises Output.

The conspicuous expansion in the Chicago area's output was attributed to the return of the district to standard time and the comparatively dark weather prevailing.

Gains over last year in other major geographic regions are: New England, 8 per cent against 8.6 in the preceding week; middle Atlantic, 5.7 per cent against 4.7; west central, 3.0 per cent against 3.5; southern states, 15.8 per cent against 11.7; Rocky mountain, 29.4 per cent against 28; Pacific coast, 1.9 per cent against 1.3.

DOLLAR GAINS IN GOLD VALUE; POUND DECLINES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 3.—The dollar strengthened in the foreign exchange markets today while the British pound sterling depreciated in terms of both United States funds and gold standard currencies.

The final price of 6.04 cents on the French franc indicated a gold value for the dollar of 64.86 cents as compared with yesterday's last quotation of 64.47 cents. Meanwhile the pound dipped to $4.765 as compared with $4.785 yesterday.

The buoyancy of the dollar was said to reflect the growing belief in foreign countries that President Roosevelt is about ready to embrace a modified form of the gold standard again. There was nothing in the news from Washington that indicated that the administration is any further along the road to stabilization but as a market factor the views of European exchange dealers is important.

The depreciation of the pound in terms of both the gold and "managed" currencies is the focal point of interest in the money markets. In some quarters there is an inclination to believe that the British are depressing the pound to get themselves into a favorable trading position before actual negotiation for stabilization of world currencies begin. Such negotiations are not far distant in the opinion of many observers.

STEEL OUTPUT RISES SLIGHTLY DESPITE STRIKES

Big Specifications on Contracts Aid.

Labor troubles are threatening to impede the expansion of the steel industry, but with the ordering of considerable tonnage in heavy hot rolled products for the fourth quarter and with heavy specifications in sheet and strip steel against expiring contracts the national production of ingots has risen one point to 42 per cent of capacity, reports the Iron Age.

A major steel plant in the Wheeling district has been forced to suspend operations entirely, observes the review, and picketing has become more prevalent in nearby Pittsburgh mills. The strike of coal miners in western Pennsylvania has apparently been settled by an agreement between the United Mine Workers and the steel companies operating their own mines, which does not, however, include formal recognition of the union, but labor difficulties have been provoked in the die and tool making industry at Detroit, which is now engaged with orders for prospective new automotive models.

Define Needs More Accurately.

The general adherence to the new form of buying agreements for the fourth quarter, which do not permit cancellations by consumers, defined the probable requirements of buyers more accurately than heretofore, comments the Iron Age. Last week's specifications will occupy mills for the greater part of October. Tin plate backlogs are adequate for the month, though, notes the review, production has been curtailed by strikes.

Three factors will be of weight in determining the trend of production in the next two months: First, the measure in which fourth quarter requirements have been discounted; second, the stimulus of large public works; third, rail purchases in which the government may help the carriers.

"The larger steel consuming industries are generally curtailing their requirements and give promise of little sustained improvement in the next two months," admits the Iron Age. "Motor car production is declining gradually and output this month is tentatively estimated at 145,000 units, against a probable 185,000 in September.

Increased Takings Unlikely.

"Increased steel takings are unlikely, as automobile companies have been stocking heavily in anticipation of higher prices. This tendency is also noticed among many other consumers of steel, and the extent to which fourth quarter requirements have been discounted will have an important bearing on new buying in the next two months.

"The trend of production in November and December also depends largely upon the efforts of the federal government to stimulate business. With more than half of the public works administration's funds now allocated, some large projects are beginning to reach the contracting stage."

Steel works operations have advanced 6 points to 35 per cent at Pittsburgh and 2 points to 50 per cent in the valleys. Output is unchanged at Chicago, Cleveland, and Birmingham. Mills in the Philadelphia and Buffalo districts have curtailed production 1 to 6 points.

WHEAT PRICES RISE ON EVE OF ROOSEVELT TALK

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Rumors that the scheduled speech of President Roosevelt last night would make known his views on the monetary policy to be followed by the administration and the strength in stocks yesterday lifted the wheat market out of the narrow rut to which it has held for several days. The close was within a fraction of the top, with net gains of 1½ to 1⅝ cents.

Other grains were little affected. Corn closed ⅛ to ½ cent lower, oats were unchanged ⅜ cent lower, rye ⅝ to ¾ cents higher, and barley ⅛ to ½ cent higher. December wheat was 90⅝ to 90¾ cents at the close. December corn was 47⅝ to 47⅞ cents. Oats were 33⅛ cents. Rye was 69¼ cents. Barley was 56⅝ cents.

Eastern Houses Buy Wheat.

Houses with eastern connections, as well as those which operate in the Kansas City and Minneapolis markets, were the leading buyers of wheat and found offerings relatively light except for a brief period around noon. At no time, however, were prices as low as the finish of the previous day. Aggregate trade was not large and the market was easily influenced throughout the day.

The wheat situation has been further complicated by the violent fluctuations in exchange rates. On the basis of the British pound being quoted around $3.08 in terms of French francs on Tuesday, the December delivery in Liverpool would have been worth around 44 cents a bushel, a new low since 1588, when the average annual price is given in the records at 43 cents.

Winnipeg wheat failed to follow the full upturn in Chicago, although the Canadian market gained ⅝ to ¾ cent. At the close the December delivery was 30⅜ cents under Chicago in terms of American funds, which was said to be the widest spread of the season.

Corn Is Under Pressure.

Liquidation of a line of long corn through a local commission house, which the trade believed to be for professional account, uncovered stop loss orders and the December delivery dropped to 46¾ cents at the extreme, or 1⅜ cents under Tuesday's finish. However, there was a strong rally later when shorts started to cover on the late strength in wheat, and the greater part of the loss was recovered.

The country continues to sell cash corn to arrive heavily, local handlers buying 255,000 bushels to arrive during the day. In some quarters there is a belief the 1932 crop has been underestimated. The fact that the country is willing to sell at prevailing low levels is causing bulls to become somewhat discouraged. Washington reports indicated the A. A. A. was considering a 20 per cent reduction in the corn acreage for the 1934 crop in its program for raising the hog and corn price to pre-war parity. It was indicated the government would fix prices only as a last resort.

COTTON PRICES ADVANCE; CLOSING AROUND HIGH

Cotton markets were strong a good part of the day, finishing well toward the top with a better tone due in a measure to the advance in security prices. The impression prevails that as the marketing movement from the farmers has reached its peak there will be less selling pressure.

Trade at no time was particularly heavy, and the close was at net gains of 4 to 13 points in Chicago and other markets up from 10 to 15 points, New Orleans being the strongest with spots up 15 points to $9.70. New York spots advanced 10 points to $9.90, while Galveston and Houston were $9.60. Liverpool was easier, but had little effect on American markets.

STEEL MAKERS ASKED TO BID ON BIG RAIL ORDER

844,525 Tons Involved; Price Cut Sought.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4.—Leaders of the steel industry were invited today by Joseph B. Eastman, federal coordinator of transportation, to inform him as soon as possible at what price they will sell steel rails to the railroads.

The railroads of the country are prepared to purchase at least 844,525 tons of steel rails and 245,221 tons of fastenings, under certain conditions, and it is possible that the amounts required will exceed the figures given, the coördinator advised the steel heads.

Mr. Eastman wrote Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the United States Steel corporation; Eugene F. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel corporation; L. E. Block, chairman of the Inland Steel company, and Arthur Roeder, receiver of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company.

To Buy Fastenings Later.

"At the present time," Eastman wrote, "I am not asking for prices on fastenings, because it is my understanding that whereas only the four companies which I am now addressing, or subsidiaries thereof, manufacture standard tee rails of more than 80 pounds per yard, rail fastenings are sold by numerous concerns. Inasmuch as there are some uncertainties, with respect to the purchase of rails, it has seemed advisable to leave the matter of fastenings in abeyance until the rail question has been determined."

The commitments of the railroad companies for orders, Coördinator Eastman said, are largely upon condition that there shall be a reduction in the base price now prevailing.

Pennsy Doesn't Ask Cut.

"The only exception," Eastman advised the steel heads, "is the Pennsylvania Railroad company, which is willing to purchase 100,000 tons, but desires to place its own orders and does not stipulate a price reduction. Certain railroads contemplating important orders make it a condition that the base price shall not exceed $35 per ton."

In the case of perhaps 502,785 tons out of the total of 844,525 tons proposed to be purchased the orders are contingent on loans from the public works administration on the basis of ten year 4 per cent notes, no interest to be charged for the first year.

Under the steel code of fair competition agreed to under the NRA, Mr. Eastman said, the lowest base price submitted would become the prevailing base price for all companies. On receipt of the prices he said he would undertake the allocation of orders among the steel companies.

FIRE INSURANCE RECEIVERSHIP HEARINGS OPEN

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday began hearings on objections to the report of Master in Chancery Jacob L. Grossman on receivership litigation against the Fire Insurance Company of Chicago.

Charges of mismanagement and fraud against Massey Wilson, president, and other officials were proven, Grossman's report held. The master recommended, however, that in order to avoid the expense of receivership the court appoint a disinterested person for the purpose of conserving the assets of the company, which controls securities of several operating concerns.

Former United States Senator James A. Reed of Missouri was expected to represent Frank Bushman of Kansas City, one of the defendants. Former Municipal Court Judge Harry Hamlin is counsel for the complainants.

MORE JOBS AIM OF CENTRAL OIL CODE COMMITTEE

Group Holds Its First Session Here.

The central states regional committee for administering the oil code held its first meeting yesterday in the offices of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana at 910 South Michigan avenue with about eighty petroleum company and allied line officials present.

Edward G. Seubert, president of the Standard Oil company and general chairman for the central states, said that efforts will be directed toward putting more men back on jobs and in cooperative activities to solve problems in production, refining, transportation and marketing which have caused uneconomic operations.

"In order to achieve the best results, we must give and take as individuals," Mr. Seubert said. "We have a tremendous task, but we are already on the road to success.

Working for Government.

"We are not representatives of our respective companies, but appointees of the government, charged with the responsibility of doing what is best for the industry and for the economic welfare of the country. I trust that with patience and industry we will get results."

E. B. Reeser and B. J. Majewski were at the meeting as envoys of the code planning and coördinating committee which carries primary responsibility in developing and administering the oil code. They expressed the opinion that the setting up of the regional committee was an important step forward in securing benefits from the oil code.

At the conclusion of the general meeting the transportation, marketing and refining groups met separately to discuss their despective problems. The production group held a meeting earlier.

Committee in Each State.

The marketing division announced that it will have a committee in each of the states in its territory. Its headquarters are in Chicago. E. E. Hedlick of the Northwest Petroleum association was chosen secretary of the marketing division and will have charge of the Chicago office. The regional headquarters of the transportation division also will be established in Chicago.

The headquarters of the production division will be in Findlay, Ohio, and the headquarters of the refining division will be located in Ashland, Kentucky.

O. D. Donnell of the Ohio Oil company is chairman of the production division; Paul Blazer of the Ashland Refining company is chairman of the refining division; Sheldon Clark of the Sinclair Refining company is chairman of the transportation division, and A. G. Maguire of the Wadhams Oil company is chairman of the marketing division.

WOOL MARKETS

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—Wool sold fairly well in the Boston market today though volume was noticeably less than on several recent days. Scarcity of medium and medium fine wools continued to hold prices of those grades particularly firm and attracted relatively more buyers to those wools than to others for the moment.

The U. S. agriculture department said: "The bulk of moderate demand for wool is on medium quality fleece and territory, and on the fine western grown lines. Most sales of strictly combing 56's to Ohio and similar fleeces are at 40@41c in the grease, although some wool of this grade has been sold at 42c. Strictly combing 48's, 50's ¾ blood wools of similar lines bring 40@41c in the grease. Strictly combing 56's ⅝ blood territory wools bring mostly 70@72½ scoured basis. The prices of finer grades of territory wools are mostly firm and unchanged from last week."

SHOE INDUSTRY GOES UNDER CODE; REPORT BIG UPTURN IN JOBS

Portsmouth, O., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—Acceptance of a code of fair competition for the boot and shoe manufacturing industry was announced today by Roger A. Selby, president of the National Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' association and head of the Selby Shoe company of this city.

Approval of the code by the national recovery administration affects one of the largest industries in the United States, involving 1,200 manufacturers and hundreds of thousands of employés.

Mr. Selby asserted that placing the industry under the code would take up all of the surplus help in this field now available. He explained that adoption of the blanket code by his own firm several weeks ago added 15 to 20 per cent to the pay roll.

The code accepted by the government provides a forty hour week, with the privilege of operating on a forty-five hour week for any eight weeks in any six months operated. The minimum wage scale is 37½c an hour for males and 32½c an hour for females in cities of 250,000 population and up.

For cities between 20,000 and 250,000 the wage scale for each classification is reduced 50 cents a week and for communities of less than 20,000 the scale for each classification is reduced $1 a week.

STABLE DOLLAR NEARER, BELIEF IN WALL STREET

Developments Point to Early Federal Action.

[Copyright: 1933: By the Associated Press.]

While some observers feel the wish may be the daddy of this hunch, high financial quarters insist that signs indicate action toward a stable dollar before the end of the year.

There is considerable confusion over the time element. Few care to guess just when such action might take place, although some say it might well be by the middle of November.

Important banking quarters say that Washington is finding an unstable dollar a distinct hindrance to its credit expansion program. Big bankers insist they cannot extend credit in any volume without some knowledge as to the sort of dollars with which the debt will be repaid.

Believe Labor View Significant.

Wall street has thus far received no definite inkling from Washington as to the administration's monetary plan, but some banking leaders expressed the opinion that the warning this week by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, as to the dangers to the working man in the sort of inflation which has been experienced in Europe, was deeply significant.

They found it particularly so, coming as it did a short time after Secretary of Agriculture Wallace had publicly asserted that inflation could not cure the ills of the farmer.

Some Wall street experts feel that stabilization of the dollar in relation to the British pound sterling, which seems to have an even more important effect upon price levels than the ratio of the dollar to the gold currencies, may well enter into the negotiations on the British war debt, starting soon after the arrival of Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, to represent the British government later this week.

Aid to Debt Settlement.

A more definite monetary policy, it is felt, might be necessary to a debt settlement, so that the debtors may know what sort of dollars they must use in payment.

It is felt that some formula will be found to give the dollar a more definite value, without a deflationary effect upon domestic price levels, which may mean a devaluation in terms of gold somewhat below that indicated by the present ratio to the gold currencies. Some experts assert, however, that devaluation alone can have but limited effect upon price levels, pointing out that they have risen but a fraction of the present drop of 35 per cent in dollars in relation to gold currencies. Devaluation of such important currencies as the dollar and the pound, they say, tends to depress gold prices, so there is no corresponding rise in dollar or pound prices.

BULK OF CORN CROP SAFE FROM FROST, U. S. FINDS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4.—(AP)—The weather bureau reported today that the corn crop, after being seriously damaged by drought this year, is now safe in most areas from its last important production hazard, early frosts.

It said the only sections in which a frost now could result in appreciable damage would be in southeastern Iowa and Missouri and southern Indiana and Illinois. Elsewhere the crop has matured beyond the danger point.

Cotton is nearly all matured, with picking making satisfactory progress except in the wetter sections of the belt, which are mostly confined to the north central districts. In the western belt the harvest is well advanced and about 50 per cent complete in Oklahoma.

HOMESTAKE MINE TO PAY ANOTHER EXTRA $1 A SHARE

Directors of the Homestake Mining company yesterday declared another extra dividend of $1 a share in addition to the regular monthly payment of $1. The current extra payment is the third authorized this year. Recently the board raised the regular annual rate from $9 to $12.

STRANGELY YOUR BENEFIT!

It is a peculiar circumstance that employers of Beauty Operators ask the Government in their Code to be allowed to pay higher salaries than any other like profession.

This perhaps is to eliminate cut rates —in any event you profit by it. All that is good in a course in Beauty Culture is embodied in Moler's new short concise private lesson training. A far superior method. A plan that will qualify you with knowledge and skill for the guaranteed salaries, and shorter hours of the NRA. Much quicker than any other method. The half-rate offer is still available, but you must start at once or make your reservation without delay! Day or evening classes. Call, mail the coupon or phone.

"Operators Wanted"

Prepare at DeLEE with Mme. Louise

Exclusive beauty shops want operators who have been trained the DeLEE way, under Mme. Louise. Mme. Louise, internationally famous hairdressing and beauty culture expert, will add personality in training you for a BETTER POSITION and a larger income.

At DeLEE you will find the ideal "setup"—capable instructors who have had years of teaching experience, and up to date 100% new equipment. Classrooms are colorful, light, and airy.

A RECOGNIZED SCHOOL.

The DeLEE University of Cosmetology is the only beauty school which has been permitted to incorporate as a University in Illinois. DeLEE meets all requirements of the Department of Education and Registration. Why be satisfied with an old fashioned "trade school" training when the DeLEE "university type" of schooling is available? Send for literature explaining our experience or a high school education NOT necessary. Day and evening classes. Tuition reasonable and payments can be arranged to suit your convenience.

A visit to DeLEE won't obligate you. It will open your eyes. Come in and talk with the DeLEE dean, Miss Ruby Lorrain Stevens, and let her explain just how DeLEE prepares you for a BETTER POSITION AND MORE PAY.
